MAYOR HAS 'FIGHTING CHANCE'

JAPANESE BOLT LEAGUE AFTER CENSURE VOTE

Envoys Prepare to Leave for Tokio.

Take Three Cities

Japanese troops capture three cities and take 20,000 Chinese prisoners in drive to capture Jehol province. Sweep on towards capital city with little resistance.

(Picture on Back Page.)

GENEVA, Feb. 24. — (AP) — The assembly of the league of nations with unanimous voice today pronounced solemn condemnation of the Japanese Manchurian policy as a violation of international covenants, and the Japanese delegation, in protest, immediately withdrew from the assembly, walking out in a body.

Yosuke Matsuoka, the chief Japanese delegate, announced in rejecting the league's judgment that Japan cannot longer cooperate with the league on the Sino-Japanese differences. But, he added, his government desired to continue "cooperating in the work dedicated to world peace."

Japan's Vote Ruled Out.

The session developed one of the most intense dramas in the history of the league. Voting by roll call, the assembly piled up 42 voices to support the grave indictment of Japan, which was contained in a report on the Manchurian situation drawn up by a special committee.

Only Matsuoka voted no, and the chair ruled that his vote was ineffective, as Japan was a party to the conflict. Only Siam abstained from voting. Thirteen nations were declared absent from the meeting, including most of the Latin-American countries.

Delegates and spectators evidenced a state of high nervous tension at the conclusion of Matsuoka's address. His peroration was:

"I beg you to realise the facts and see the vision of the future, to deal with us on our terms and give us your confidence."

Expect Complete Break Soon.

Matsuoka's farewell statement contained no expressed threat of complete break with the league, but his delegation's gesture generally was interpreted in Geneva as a preliminary to giving notice of resignation from league membership in the next few weeks or months.

Tonight Matsuoka and his colleagues arranged to quit Geneva for Japan. For the present the Japanese delegation to the disarmament conference, which is being held under league auspices, is not retiring.

It was learned, however, that Yoturo Sugimura, Japanese undersecretary general of the league, has decided to resign, effective April 1.

Although greatly moved by the Japanese withdrawal, the assembly remained calm and set up an organization to direct further concerted efforts on the part of league members, the United States and soviet Russia with a view to settlement of the Manchurian problem.

Cites Japan's Isolation.

Paul Hymans of Belgium, president of the assembly, called attention to the legal significance of the Japanese withdrawal and commented on the political meaning of the assembly's judgment and on the Japanese rejection.

"Today our recommendations have been rejected by one of the parties, which seems desirous of retiring into isolation and carrying on its policy without taking into account the opinion of other nations," Hymans said.

"Nevertheless, I still hope that the day will come when our offer will be accepted by both parties and that neither will commit any irreparable act. The league of nations is working and will continue to work in the midst of conflict and passions, carrying out the work assigned it by the authors of the covenant."

China Approves Report.

The principal points of the report adopted by the assembly were a condemnation of Japan's military invasion of Manchuria and a stand against recognition by the nations of the league of the state of Manchukuo, set up with Japanese assistance to rule that province.

Dr. W. W. Yen, chief Chinese delegate, in accepting the report for China, described it as a "terrible but just indictment of Japanese militarism."

"The report is a verdict of guilty against the misguided leaders of Japan, who have wantonly inflicted

Riot at Mines; Horner Orders Troops There

BULLETIN.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25 (Saturday).—(AP)—A member of the United Mine Workers' union and two other persons escaped injury shortly after midnight today when the home of Gladstone Phillips was bombed. Phillips, employed at the Cora mine of the Peabody group, his three year old brother, and his mother, Mrs. Margaret Phillips, were in the house when the blast occurred. It shattered windows and damaged the front of the residence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Following riots at two mines here today, when five miners, two deputy sheriffs, and one policeman were injured, Gov. Henry Horner in Chicago late tonight ordered Carlos Black, adjutant general, to call out three companies of the National Guard.

Acting on Gov. Horner's order, Gen. Black immediately ordered company C, 130th infantry, and troop F and the machine gun troop of the 106th cavalry to mobilize.

Closes Troubled Mines.

In his telephonic communication from Chicago the governor also ordered that the mines where the disorders occurred today be closed tomorrow as a further move to check hostilities. The request for troops was made of Gov. Horner by Mayor W. Kapp of Springfield and State's Attorney Alfred Greening following a conference.

Today's fights occurred at the Capitol and Woodside mines, on the edge of town, and involved 2,000 pickets, members of the Progressive Miners' union, against 200 members of the United Mine Workers' union, working in the mines.

Trouble at Two Mines.

Trouble broke out simultaneously at the Capitol and Woodside mines. There was no disturbance at the Peerless pit, a unit of those mines, because of the presence there of a state senate investigating committee headed by Chairman W. E. C. Clifford of Champaign.

As the regular workers emerged to go home they were met with a barrage of missiles. From covered spots several snipers opened fire.

Acting Sheriff Murray and Deputy Lee Leonard rushed into the thick of the battle and were knocked down at the Capitol mine. By that time bullets were being fired on both sides. One from the United Mine Workers' faction struck Progressive Miner Joseph Poder in the face, knocking out several teeth. John Flesh, a Progressive, was felled by a brick.

CABARET OWNER KIDNAPED; ASK $10,000 RANSOM

Jeremiah Flynn, 35 years old, owner of the Piccardy club, 4310 Cottage Grove avenue, now closed, was kidnaped by two gunmen on the south side last night and early today was being held for $10,000 ransom. He lives at 816 East 42d street.

Flynn was sitting in his car with John T. Maloney, a friend, in front of 810 East 42d street when two men stepped up with drawn guns. They flashed badges and announced they were dry agents. With Maloney in the rumble seat, they then drove to 52d street and Indiana, where they ordered him out. He rebelled at first, but obeyed when threatened with death. "We're taking your friend to the Gresham station," one of the gunmen called out as they departed.

When Maloney learned that Flynn had not been taken to that station he reported the kidnaping to Sergt. Fred Webster of the Hyde Park police. Not long afterward a woman, who did not give her name, telephoned the police. She said she was a friend of Flynn's and that she had been notified he was being held for $10,000 ransom.

At almost the same time a man who introduced himself as Al telephoned Jack Flynn, a brother of the victim, 7800 South Peoria street.

The brother was told to raise "ten grand." Early this morning Flynn's wife received a call that her husband's car "with a letter in it" would be found at 79th street and South Park avenue. The car and letter were found as announced. The letter gave instructions for paying the ransom.

Union Official Shot to Death Near Home

Dennis B. Zeigler, 57 years old, secretary of the Hoisting and Portable Engineers' union, Local No. 569, was shot and killed by unidentified assailants in front of 3634 North Tripp avenue early last evening.

He had left a surface car and was walking toward his home at 3716 North Tripp avenue, where his wife and eleven children awaited him, when an automobile in which several men were riding approached from the north.

As the car reached Zeigler one man leaped out of it, ran over to the union official, and fired three times from a pistol. All the bullets took effect in Zeigler's body. As he fell the man who had killed him ran back and rejoined his companions in the automobile.

Blame Union Troubles.

At the union headquarters, 612 West Adams street, it was said that the killing was undoubtedly designed to remove Zeigler so that an opposing faction in union circles could get control of his organization.

"Three years ago," said the informant there, "there was an effort to combine the Hoisting and Portable Engineers' union with stationary engineers and put the whole under the control of a new group.

"Ed Davis, the president, and Zeigler refused to let our outfit be sold down the river. They fought in the courts against being discharged on order of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers. They won in the courts and they kept this union separate.

Fight Against Compromise.

"Then there was a reported compromise. It was said Local 569 was to be amalgamated with another union under the international. It was done officially. But Davis and Zeigler disregarded the change and the 400 hoisting engineers stuck with them. They didn't want to be tied up with the stationary engineers.

"All efforts since to remove them have failed. But Zeigler had been getting threats, lots of them. I think he suspected he was going to be killed. It was all an effort to get rid of him."

The police disclosed that as a result of the threats they had for eighteen months kept special guards at the union headquarters and at the Zeigler home. The guards were withdrawn shortly before Christmas.

There was no clew to the identity of the killers. After slaying Zeigler they drove rapidly south to Addison street, turned west and disappeared.

CAPONE EFFORT TO INFLUENCE JUDGE CHARGED

Ald. Nelson Accused by Brundage.

Charges that friends of Al Capone tried on two occasions to bring influence to bear on Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to "go easy" on the gang leader were made public yesterday in connection with the bitter fight for alderman in the 46th ward.

Oscar F. Nelson, Republican, is running for reelection in this ward against Arthur B. Dehmlow, another Republican. Both have bipartisan support.

Ald. Nelson has been listed by the Municipal Voters' league as the "preferred" candidate in this struggle. This recommendation, it was learned yesterday, was given despite certain allegations made to the officers of the league by former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage. Mr. Brundage, who is one of Dehmlow's chief backers, told the league officers that Nelson had had affiliations with Capone.

Hark Back to Capone Trial.

Incidents upon which these charges were based took place in October, 1931, when Capone was on trial before Judge Wilkerson for income tax evasion.

Both Mr. Brundage and Ald. Nelson have told their versions of the incidents to the league. They repeated them yesterday to a TRIBUNE reporter. The narratives agree on some points but differ greatly in interpretation. Ald. Nelson denied any Capone connections—past or present.

Mr. Brundage told this story in substantiation of his statements:

"One night during the latter part of the Al Capone trial in October, 1931, I received a telephone call at my home in Lake Forest from State Senator Dan Serritella [of the First Chicago district, a follower of Al Capone]. He asked if he could drive to my home and talk with me. Serritella is a Republican committeeman. I told him to come.

Gets a Surprise.

"When he arrived I was considerably surprised to find that he had brought Al Capone with him. When they were seated they told me that they were seeking a fair trial and a 'square deal' for Capone before Judge Wilkerson. [Judge Wilkerson and Mr. Brundage were political associates before the judge went on the federal bench in 1922].

"They said that the judge was not treating Capone's lawyers fairly. I told them I was certain that they were getting fair and impartial treatment, but they asked me to talk with the judge.

"Capone said, 'We can beat this case on its merits; all we want is a square deal.'

Boasts of His Power.

"Capone also boasted of his power in politics and mentioned that he had followers in the city council. He named Ald. Nelson as one of these followers and, turning to Serritella, said, 'Have Nelson out here tomorrow night.'

"The following day I talked with Judge Wilkerson, who told me that Capone's lawyers [Michael Ahern and Albert Fink] were objecting to every piece of government evidence and that they would 'be treated as lawyers when they acted as lawyers.'

"The following night Serritella came again to my home with Ald. Nelson. Capone was not with them. Ald. Nelson and I talked 46th ward politics [Mr. Brundage is a voter in that ward]. Nelson assured me he was for anything I wanted.

"These incidents took place early

Sound Policy Will Revive Business: Hull

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—"Under a sound and suitable program of fiscal and economic policies, such as will be proposed, there can be no reasonable doubt of early business revival." In these words Senator Cordell Hull [Dem., Tenn.], concluded an interview today briefly outlining the principles in dealing with international problems which he said would guide the Roosevelt administration in which he will be secretary of state.

Declining to indicate whether he had in mind the war debt settlements and the treaties involved in the war in Manchuria, Senator Hull stressed the necessity of implicit observance of all international commitments. Revision of the war debt agreements he pronounced only one detail of international economic readjustments necessary to recovery of prosperity.

Wants Concessions to Cut Debts.

The inference was that he opposes reduction of the war debts unless accompanied by tariff, monetary, commercial and other concessions by the debtors.

"Manifestly," said the senator, "I cannot undertake at this stage to discuss either policies or programs. All persons must recognize, however, that demoralization and chaos, including the complete dislocation of the economic relationships of nations, characterize many vital phases of political and economic affairs everywhere.

"There has been, too, a general letting down since the war of moral and political standards by both peoples and governments. There should be no laxity on the part of this or any other nation in the observance of both the letter and spirit of treaties and of international good faith.

U. S. Must Play Full Part.

"There should be sane and realistic international coöperation, keeping in mind our traditions and our constitution, to aid in preserving the peace of the world. This policy is vital.

"This nation henceforth must play its full part in effecting the normal restoration of national economic relationships and in world commercial rehabilitation, from which alone business recovery in satisfactory measure can be hoped for. That the war debts owed our government are but one factor, will not be controverted. The policy of international readjustment assumes that all fundamental domestic remedies for trade improvement also will be pursued.

Restore World Commerce.

"The success of the principal foreign policies of the incoming administration, therefore, will be determined by the extent of its aid in restoring world commerce, which would include our commerce at home; and its aid in maintaining world peace under the fundamental policy of right and justice.

"This great young country of ours possesses resources and wealth unequaled in all the past, and under a sound and suitable program of fiscal and economic policies, such as will be proposed, there can be no reasonable doubt of early business revival."

In what he had to say today Mr. Hull adhered closely to his analysis of the problem of world recovery uttered before he had any notion that he was to become a member of the Roosevelt cabinet.

Garage Robbers Steal Car of Moe Rosenberg

Two gunmen entered the Fillmore-Independence garage at 3709 Fillmore street last night and compelled an attendant, William Strickland, to let them have a large automobile, in which they drove away. The car was the property of Moe Rosenberg, west side Democratic leader and committeeman for the 24th ward. It bore the 1933 license number 619,739.

HEART FIRMER, PAIN IS LESS, PHYSICIANS SAY

Hoover, Roosevelt Ask Condition.

BULLETIN.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 25 (Saturday).—(AP)—The condition of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago remained unchanged at 3:45 a. m. today, Dr. J. W. Snyder reported.

"He is feeling about the same as earlier in the night," the physician reported. "Temperature and respiration are unchanged and his pulse is running about 120." The mayor had not finished taking an intravenous injection of 650 cubic centimeters of glucose started about 2 o'clock.

BULLETIN.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 25 (Saturday).—At 12:30 a. m. the mayor awoke for a short time. He told Dr. Frank Jirka, the latter said, that he felt stronger.

"I thought for a time I was going to lose Vivian and the rest of my girls yesterday," the mayor said, according to Jirka.

"That's all over. You're going to pull through," the doctor said he told the patient.

"Do you really think so?" the mayor replied. "I'm going to keep on fighting, anyhow."

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

(Pictures on Back Page)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The fighting heart of Anton J. Cermak continued tonight to keep a feeble current of blood moving through the arteries of a body torn by intestinal disorders, racked by fever and pain while harboring the bullet intended to kill President Elect Roosevelt.

The late night bulletin issued by six doctors in attendance summed up the midnight situation in these words:

"He has at least a good fighting chance." Even though the condition of the mayor of Chicago is as desperate as that indicates, it is more hopeful than it was today, according to Dr. Frederick Tice.

Shows Great Vitality.

"We didn't think he'd get through the day," said Dr. Tice, simply. "He didn't have even a fighting chance at noon. That he is still alive is a wonderful tribute to the man."

The midnight bulletin read as follows: "Mayor Cermak is resting quietly. His condition continues relatively favorable, although he is a very sick man. He has at least a good fighting chance. Pulse, 114; respiration, 20; temperature, 100."

The bulletin was signed by Drs. Snyder, Nichol, Hutson, Tice, Meyer, and Jirka.

"Will he last until tomorrow?" Dr. Tice was asked.

"I believe he will," was the answer, "barring, of course, unforeseen developments."

The mayor's heart has been given a stimulant, digitalin, every four hours during the last twenty-four hours. That stimulant is given him in the same intravenous injections through which a nourishing glucose solution is introduced into his body. As a result the mayor's pulse has been stronger and fuller. An electro cardiogram taken this evening of his heart action showed a relatively strong heartbeat, with few fluctuations or deviations to alarm the physicians.

Sedative Also Is Given.

The injections are accompanied by pain which caused the patient to groan loudly this evening. Morphine is given him to deaden this pain, but enough of that opiate cannot be furnished to eliminate his suffering entirely.

The 6 o'clock bulletin tonight revealed the expectations of the doctors that the mayor would lose ground today and their pleased surprise that he, instead, held his own. Temperature at that hour was 100.6, slightly higher than the midnight reading.

The patient himself during most of the day was perhaps the only one who believed he was going to pull through.

"I'm a mighty sick man, but I'm fighting hard. I'm going to pull through," the mayor told members of his family late today when they were admitted to his bedside.

At 5 p. m. the mayor staged one of the rallies which so amaze the physicians in the sickroom. He awoke after a sleep of two hours much refreshed and fell again into sleep after being awake about fifteen minutes.

The intestinal disturbance which has so weakened the mayor was reported somewhat less serious tonight.

The congestion of the lungs had also diminished somewhat and pneumonia had not developed up to a late hour.

Dr. Tice was asked about a report that he had told Henry Sonnenschein in Chicago that the mayor had not one chance in a thousand to live.

Telephone calls about his condition were received today from persons acting for President Hoover, President Elect Roosevelt, Gov. Horner of Illinois, and other notables.

Telegrams expressing wishes for speedy recovery came from Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois and "Chick" Evans, golf star.

The battle with death in a hospital is usually a hushed, muted affair. Silence reigns in the corridors; nurses tip toe; doctors whisper, as the patient's grim struggle goes on.

But Mayor Cermak was fighting for his life in a busy atmosphere. Scores of newspaper men scurried about; two trucks carrying sound apparatus stood in front of the hospital and their operators harrassed the physicians for pictures and statements. Photographers lounged on the sweeping lawns. Groups of curious clustered near the east wing in which the mayor lay battling for breath. Blue uniformed policemen kept them at a distance.

Members of the family sat on the big screened veranda open to the cool breezes which adjoins the sickroom. With them were various notables, friends of the mayor from Chicago and elsewhere, who gathered at news of his desperate battle. The constant attendant among these was Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board.

Rumors Are Frequent.

Rumors flew about. There was a bulletin every couple of hours, but there was a rumor a minute. The mayor was dying, the mayor was dead, the mayor had taken a turn for the better. The doctors fretted under the constant checking by the newspaper men of these rumors.

In another wing of the hospital several telegraph instruments were sending out thousands of words every hour. Typewriters clattered in temporary pressrooms, where the air was blue with smoke and vibrant with shouts into telephones.

The excitement began at 3 a. m. when it was learned that oxygen tanks had been prepared for the mayor.

At 8 a. m. Dr. Jirka expressed a belief that the mayor's chances of living were only one in ten. The pulse at that time was 130, and when the pulse goes above 130, Dr. Tice had previously said, the danger mark has been passed. Pulse of course rise to vastly greater heighth and the patient still lives.

"He's got a fighting chance," said Dr. Meyer at 10 a. m.

"I wonder—" he muttered and lapsed back into the coma brought on by drugs and weakness.

Was he wondering why a wildly fired bullet intended for a President elect marked him out of a crowd of twenty thousand for what may be its only fatal effect?

Was he wondering who will handle the tangled financial affairs of a city of three million if he goes?

Questions Go Unanswered.

No one can answer these questions. The answer lies with the mayor alone and may be carried with him to a realm from which no mortal returns.

Outside the sickroom sat members of the family with strained white faces. The seriousness of the mayor's condition was shown when all were admitted for a few moments for what might be their last glimpse of him. They trooped in and stood around the bed, the women weeping gently, the men obviously sick at heart.

The three daughters were there, Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, Mrs. Frank Jirka, and Mrs. Richey Graham. Vivian, the 15 year old granddaughter who took the stump for her grandfather during the mayoralty campaign and who is one of his favorites, leaned over and kissed the gray, still face. The mayor's eyelids flickered. He made an effort to speak but only a whisper came from his lips. The family left slowly.

Catholic Priest Waits.

Others in the group which sat in sorrow in the reception were Ald. James B. Bowler, Joe Butler, superintendent of streets in Chicago, and Aldermen Dennis J. Horan and John Touhy.

A quiet figure sitting in the reception room was the Rev. Father Sidney Morrison of St. Bartholomae's Roman Catholic church of Chicago and personal friend of the mayor, who is not of the Catholic faith. He did not go into the sick room but he said he was willing to offer his services if they were desired.

At 2 p. m. the mayor was reported to be holding his own.

"Is the end near?" Dr. Jirka was asked. As the son-in-law as well as a physician, Dr. Jirka had been designated by the other physicians to answer these questions.

"No one can tell," he answered. "He has a peculiar heart. Right now he has as good a pulse as you or I. Both in strength and number. But it might not last more than five minutes."

Unaware of Condition.

The mayor, it was learned, did not know the gravity of his condition. Richey Graham, president pro tem of the Illinois senate, and another-son-in-law, went into the sick room and upon his return reported that the mayor asked him:

"Do you think I'll make the grade?"

"You've got every chance in the world," Graham told him warmly.

"I'm a sick man," the mayor replied, according to Graham.

"But I'm still fighting and I'm fighting hard."

Under the impression that Graham was returning to Chicago soon, the mayor wanted to outline to him various angles of the political situation which he wanted attended to, Graham said. The doctors told the mayor not to talk too much and he reluctantly cut short his instructions.

The absentee ballot for Tuesday's aldermanic election in Chicago which the mayor sent for earlier in the week arrived at the hospital tonight. It will be taken into the mayor's room tomorrow morning if his condition warrants. All the mayor will have to do is to mark a cross in front of the name of Henry Sonnenschein, the candidate who is without opposition in the mayor's ward, the 22d.

There was a stir in the reception room. A secretary of President Hoover was on the long distance wire asking for details. The President sent his best wishes and a hope that the mayor would win out. Gov. Horner of Illinois was another putting in a call. A wire came from James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national commitee, asking that information as to the mayor's condition be sent to him and President Elect Roosevelt. Mrs. Clara D. Beesley sent the desired messages. She said the mayor's condition was grave, but that he still had a chance.

At 2:45 p. m. an official bulletin reported the mayor "temporarily much improved after a restful sleep."

The mayor was given another injection of the glucose fluid, this time a ten per cent solution. He dropped off to sleep while the nourishing fluid was being injected into his veins—the doctors reported. At 3:30 p. m. he was reported as "still sleeping and looking much refreshed" by Dr. Jirka.

Daughters Visit Him.

At 4:25 p. m. the mayor awakened and Dr. Jirka came out beaming. It was his mission to put the best face on things and to keep up an appearance of hope.

"He's like a new man," he reported joyfully. He told the daughters to look into the sick room but not to talk to the patient.

"Hello, daddy," whispered Mrs. Jirka and waved to him. Miraculously, almost, the mayor lifted a limp hand from the coverlet and waved feebly back.

SEE GREAT WILL POWER OF MAYOR IN PAY SIGNATURE

Writing Expert Detects Indications of Strain.

Mayor Cermak's tremendous will power is exhibited in his signature on the proxy order that will permit the issuance of $4,105,000 in tax anticipation warrants to Chicago school teachers, according to Jay Fordyce Wood, handwriting expert and a member of the staff of the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university.

Mr. Wood compared the signature on the proxy order with a signature on a letter several months old. The proxy order was signed by Mayor Cermak on his sick bed at Miami on Wednesday. Shortly after signing the order the mayor suffered a relapse that alarmed his physicians, who said that he had overexerted himself in signing the order.

Shows Physical Weakness.

"The signature on the proxy order is plain and has the individual characteristics of Mayor Cermak's writing, but indicates a certain amount of physical weakness," Mr. Wood declared.

Line Almost Broken.

Mr. Wood pointed out that the line of writing was almost broken between the "r" and the "m" in the mayor's signature. He attributed the thinness of the line to near physical exhaustion from the effort of signing the letter, or to a sudden sharp stab of pain. The line was not actually broken, however, and after a faint, wavering "m" the "a" was strong and the "k" was decisive and strong, a clearer letter than the mayor usually delineates, Mr. Wood declared.

"It is quite evident that the mayor signed his name upon pure nerve and strength of will," Mr. Wood added.

GRAVE CONDITION OF MAYOR BRINGS HORNER TO CITY

Gov. Horner came to Chicago last night to be in closer touch with news from Miami concerning Mayor Cermak. He arrived at 10:15 o'clock and went into conference with Chairman Patrick Nash of the Democratic county central committee and other Democratic leaders. Party affairs as well as anxiety over the mayor's condition were said to have prompted the governor's trip, inasmuch as the Democratic chieftains are worried over the possible selection of his successor as mayor as head of the party in Cook county and as Democratic nationa committeeman. They are said to have requested the advice of the governor in making decisions.

Kenlay in Chicago; Plans Quick Return to Miami

Floyd Kenlay, a son-in-law of Mayor Cermak, returned to Chicago from Miami yesterday, but on learning of the mayor's critical condition made preparations for a quick trip back to Florida. Mr. Kenlay left Miami on Wednesday when the mayor appeared to be recovering.

Find Law Vague on Choice of Acting Mayor of Chicago

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The question of who will act as mayor of Chicago in the event of Mayor Cermak's death and until a special election can be held, evoked a confusion of opinion yesterday among lawyers and politicians.

The discussion revolved around two opposing proposals:

1. Whether the city council should elect one of its members to serve as mayor pro tem. until the special election, or

2. Whether there should be an interregnum, in which affairs of the city hall would be administered, until a new mayor is elected, by the four cabinet members who have been running the government since Mayor Cermak left for Florida. They are Corporation Counsel William Sexton, the mayor's secretary, Henry Sonnenschein; Controller M. S. Szymczak, and Commissioner Oscar Hewitt. The four were designated by the mayor to act before he left, and from his sickbed the day after he was shot he telephoned them to remain on the job.

Law Silent on Acting Mayor.

The confusion over procedure arises from the fact that the cities and villages act, adopted in 1875, makes no specific provision for selecting an acting mayor in Chicago where the vacant term is a year or more. It simply calls for an election.

A precedent, however, in the form of a legal opinion 40 years old, on which was based the election of George B. Swift by the city council following the assassination of Mayor Carter H. Harrison, the elder, on Oct. 28, 1893, was advanced during the day by the lawyers at the hall. Mr. Harrison, like Cermak, was a World's Fair mayor.

The opinion of 1893 was written by Adolph Kraus, then corporation counsel, and yesterday it was being quoted at the city hall as likely to be followed by the aldermen.

Favor Clark and Bowler.

If the council proceeds to elect one of its members as acting mayor until a special election is held, the conjecture of the past week has placed Ald. John S. Clark [30th], head of the finance committee, or Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], who was at Mayor Cermak's side when he was shot, as most likely to be selected, with Ald Clark apparently leading.

The council calls the special election. At the election board, Robert Taylor, election law expert, held there would have to be a primary. The primary act specifies filing periods which would mean that the primary could not be held until at least 41 days after the call is issued.

Party leaders met on various political questions during the day, but said the matter of the mayoralty succession had been avoided as an impropriety at this time. At the hall there was talk that in the event Mayor Cermak should succumb a primary might be held in April and the special mayoralty election be placed in June at the time of the judicial elections.

As to the election of an alderman by the council as interim mayor, the only authority which the city legal department and Edward J. Padden, parliamentarian and chief clerk of the city council for 27 years, were able to exhume from the statutes and the tomes of legal opinions and decisions so far appears to be the Kraus opinion in 1893.

Mr. Kraus himself was apparently so doubtful as to the powers of any acting mayor designated by the council as successor to the assassinated Mayor Harrison that he advised the council: "You should confine yourselves, during the interval until the filling of the vacancy by popular election, to such legislation as is absolutely necessary."

Law Covers Smaller Cities.

In an informal opinion Henry Cutler of the firm of Chapman & Cutler, security experts, upon whom bankers rely for advice regarding validity of public securities, said last night:

"The statute is incomplete and vague. It sets up the machinery for the election of a mayor in case of death for all cities in Illinois having populations of less than 500,000. But it fails to take Chicago into account.

As some of the politicians themselves viewed it, the effect in case the council should elect an acting mayor probably would be to disrupt and disarrange affairs as they stand at the city hall, where the Cermak administration has been forcing a program of economy and lower taxation. They raised the question as to how the financiers who have been supplying the city with funds would view the matter of a pro tem. mayor.

James Oliver Curwood's Daughter Seeks Divorce

Cleveland, O., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Carlotta C. Jirus of Cleveland Heights, daughter of the late James Oliver Curwood, novelist, appeared in Common Pleas today to ask a divorce from Dr. Anthony R. Jirus on a charge of nonsupport. She said she married Dr. Jirus, now a staff physician at University hospital, Iowa City, Ia., in 1925. They have a daughter, Amy Elizabeth, 2. The hearing was continued until tomorrow. Dr. Jirus did not appear.

Seize Youth on Charge of Molesting Girl, 9

Silas Phillips, 22 years old, 617 East 91st place, was arrested last night in an alley at 71st street and Cottage Grove avenue on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 9 year old girl. Policemen Daniel Leahy and William O'Leary of the Woodlawn police said they found the girl with him. Her clothing was torn, they said.

ENDS HIS LIFE AFTER MYSTERY DEATH OF GIRL

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Claude V. Allen, 46, said by police to have been the last person to see Miss Mary Fitzgerald, Tacoma Junior league president before her mysterious death by drowning in the sound early this week, committed suicide in his home here tonight.

Allen was found by his wife in the kitchen of his home sitting in front of a gas stove with the burners turned on but not ignited. A bathrobe was draped over his head and the top of the stove.

Mrs. Allen said she had been gone but 15 minutes. A love bird and a dog in the kitchen were but slightly affected.

After Miss Fitzgerald's body was found at Woodmont beach between here and Seattle, police learned that she had called at the Allen home before she disappeared. Both Mr. and Mrs. Allen declared that the visit was of a friendly nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen had been subpoenaed as witnesses in the Fitzgerald death inquest set for next Wednesday in Seattle.

REED ASKS G. O. P. TO OUST BOLTERS FROM PARTY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Senator Reed of Pennsylvania said tonight he would ask the next Republican caucus in the senate to expel from the party rolls the independents who supported Franklin D. Roosevelt in November.

Reed said with the Republicans in the minority now they could lose nothing by casting out those senators who rebelled against the leadership of President Hoover.

Four senators—Johnson of California, Cutting of New Mexico, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Norris of Nebraska—possibly would be affected should Reed's purpose carry in the caucus.

However, Senator McNary of Oregon, who will be the party leader in the next senate, said recently that he would oppose an effort to punish the bolters.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Judgment of $37,500 against Gloria Swanson was returned today in favor of Maurice Cleary, theater business agent. Cleary sued Miss Swanson on grounds that he had secured her a contract to appear in six pictures at $200,000 each, for which he was to receive $7,500 for each picture as commission.

MAYOR'S OLD FRIENDS GATHER IN OFFICE TO WAIT FOR NEWS

Old friends of Mayor Cermak passed anxious hours yesterday afternoon in the mayor's office, while his secretary, Ald. Henry Sonnenschein, kept in constant communication by means of an open telephone line to the Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami.

Outside, in the reception room, were scores of others awaiting the latest reports on the mayor's condition. Neither in the select group inside nor the larger one outside was there any talking above a murmur. For nearly all had climbed with Mayor Cermak to positions of power and owed him much.

At intervals Ald. Sonnenschein talked to Dr. Karl Meyer. There was an air of breathless expectancy in the inner office when, at 4:30 p. m., Dr. Meyer reported: "He's right on the brink." There was visible relief and renewed hope when it was made known the mayor was still fighting hard to live.

Among those in the office were Ald. John Toman, Ald. Thomas Byrne, Edward J. Danemark, Bridewell superintendent, and his brother, Anthony, who had been playmates of the mayor when he was a boy.

JUDGE DISPUTES LAWYER'S CLAIM IN INSULL SUIT

Believes All Investors Should Share Alike.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson took issue yesterday with counsel for the committee of one thousand, representing debenture holders of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., who contend that only debenture holders aligned with protective committees may share in the possible proceeds of suits the committees have filed against ten New York and Chicago banks.

In a series of questions directed to Lewis F. Jacobson, attorney for the committee of one thousand, Judge Wilkerson indicated that as he interprets the law, all debenture holders shall share alike in the proceeds of the bank suits. Records in the case show that Attorney Jacobson's committee holds power of attorney for only 1,400 of the 32,000 debenture holders, and the amount of their investment is $3,400,000 of the $32,000,000 of debentures issued.

Circular Sent to Investors.

The Jacobson committee had circularized the debenture holders in a letter implying that unless they deposited their claims and paid a fee of $2 per $1,000 for committee expenses, the debenture holders would be "out in the cold." Former Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson had attacked the inference as misleading and Attorney Jacobson was citing cases in the court in support of his position when the judge broke in.

"I have cases here in which the courts hold that it is inequitable for one party to bear all the expenses of an investigation and suit for recovery, and then have other parties come in to share the proceeds of the suits they declined to join," said Mr. Jacobson.

"Is it not the rule that the expense of recovery is taken out of the fund recovered and that the fund is then distributed among all the claimants, just as any fund would be distributed?" the judge inquired.

Mr. Jacobson passed the subject for the moment and launched into an attack on Mr. Ettelson, who, he said, "had committed a crime worse than the shooting of Mayor Cermak when he charged a frameup in the Insull receivership and had spread scandal about attorneys in the case."

Questions Lawyer on Claim.

"I think you're about even with him on that argument," the judge remarked. "Let's get back to the law. You claim that only the investors who deposited with you have a right to recover. The principal asset of this company rests in the suits you have filed against the banks. You claim that the right to recover from the banks is held only by investors who deposited with you?"

"Yes, subject to the direction of the courts," the lawyer answered.

"Is there any doubt in the world," the judge asked, "that the trustee in bankruptcy, acting for all the creditors, has the right to recover from the banks for the damage sustained because the banks took the company's collaterals?"

Mr. Jacobson indicated there was much doubt and promised to produce the authority. At the close of the argument, the judge took under advisement Mr. Ettelson's motion for disqualification of Mr. Jacobson's candidate for trustee, Attorney W. W. Wheelock. The judge said he would try to give a decision before March 1.

School District Estimates Tax Loss at 27.5% in Levy

Members of the Cook county non-high school board, which levies taxes to pay high school tuition for pupils living outside organized high school districts in suburban and rural areas of Cook county, set a new record for estimates of tax delinquents yesterday when they gave final approval to a 1932 tax levy of $450,000.

The tuition bills which this fund will be used to meet are already in the hands of the board. They total about $321,000, while the other expenses of the board are only about $5,000, making a total of $326,000. Aside from tuition the only expenses are for elections of the board members, and the $20 each which the three members receive for attending each meeting. In normal times they meet only four times a year.

Need Only 72.5 Per Cent of Levy.

A levy of $450,000 to meet this expense of $326,000 would mean that the district could pay all its debts of the years even if it collected only 72.5 per cent of the tax levy. Most local governments, in spite of difficulties in collection of taxes, still estimate delinquency, or loss and cost of collection, at 10 per cent.

After they had approved their levy of $450,000, the board members discovered there is a legal limitation of 50 cents on their tax rate, and the total assessed valuations for 1931 in the non-high school district were only about $82,000,000. A 50 cent rate would yield a maximum of $420,000 on these valuations.

When they made this discovery the board members, John Kramer of Bartlett, president; Adam Schilling of Tinley Park, and John Suydam of Des Plaines, agreed to discuss a reduction of their levy with County Superintendent of Schools E. J. Tobin, ex-officio secretary of their board, before forwarding it to the county clerk. Mr. Tobin was ill yesterday.

Fix 1931 Loss at 24.5 Per Cent.

In their 1931 levy, now in collection, the board members allowed for 24.5 per cent delinquencies. The bills to be met out of this levy, which is $377,200, total only about $287,000.

The Cook county non-high school district is considering a request for a state law barring from the district villages of over 5,000 population, on the theory that such communities are able to support their own high schools.

"The non-high school district was organized," Mr. Schilling said, "to provide a high school education for rural pupils. Rapidly growing communities have taken advantage of the law to have their pupils supported largely at the expense of other parts of the district."

Downstate non-high school districts also are reported having their troubles, both because of tax delinquencies and because the recent "back to the farm" movement has enormously increased the number of pupils they have to care for in some counties.

James Igoe Seeks Office of U. S. Public Printer

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Representative James T. Igoe, Democratic "lame duck" from Chicago, formally announced today that he had become a candidate for the office of United States public printer. The four year appointment, paying $10,000 annually—less than the eight and a third per cent cut—would put the Chicagoan in charge of all government printing in Washington. Igoe is president of a printing company in Chicago.

DEMOCRATS FROM ILLINOIS EYE HIGH COURT POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The appointment of a Republican "progressive" in the person of Harold Ickes as Illinois' representative in the Roosevelt cabinet has led Illinois Democrats to determine that the next vacancy on the Supreme court shall go to Illinois and to a Democrat.

Foremost among the group, it is understood, is Senator J. Hamilton Lewis.

Carrying out the wishes of Illinois democracy, Senator Lewis recommended Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis for a cabinet post, but failed to persuade Mr. Roosevelt.

Neither Senator Lewis nor Senator Elect William H. Dieterich, also a Democrat, was consulted concerning the Ickes appointment, it is said, although Senator Lewis was asked later whether he had any objections to Mr. Ickes on the ground of character or capacity.

As Illinois Democrats see it, had they succeeded in winning a cabinet post for one of their number they could expect no other place of first rank. But since the appointment went to a nonparty member they have their eyes fixed on the next Supreme court vacancy.

Illinois has had no one on the Supreme court since Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, who died in 1910.

START WARRANT DISTRIBUTION TO TEACHERS TODAY

Mayor's Proxy Finishes Signing 80,000.

Distribution of 1931 tax anticipation warrants to 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other employes of the school system will start this morning. The pay day in warrants will be for the last half of May and the first half of June, 1932, and will amount to $4,105,000.

For a time yesterday it appeared that the warrants might be invalidated, but legal approval was given last night in an informal opinion rendered by Henry Cutler of Chapman & Cutler, security experts for the banks.

Order Signing Speeded.

The critical condition of Mayor Cermak led city hall officials to order his proxy, George Dahlman, deputy in the city controller's office, to proceed with the signatures at full speed. Mr. Dahlmann completed the signing of 80,000 warrants late in the afternoon.

If the mayor had not lived while his proxy was affixing his name there would have been considerable doubt about the validity of the warrants, according to Mr. Cutler. Mayor Cermak signed an order Wednesday instructing Dahlmann to act as his proxy. The exertion caused by this effort brought a relapse in the mayor's condition.

The warrants are in $50 denominations and bear 6 per cent interest. They have early serial numbers, which means that they will be among the first to be retired from 1931 taxes, which have already gone into collection.

Senior High Teachers.

Teachers and principals of the senior high schools and Normal and Crane colleges will receive their warrants this morning at the exchange bureau set up by the school board in the old City State Bank building at Randolph and Wells streets.

The warrants for the teachers and employés of other branches of the school system will not be ready for distribution until next week. Although the mayor's signature is on all the warrants, the signatures of three other officials are only on the first block of $1,000,000. These officials are Orville J. Taylor, president of the school board; Charles Gilbert, secretary, and City Controller Szymczak.

80 Year Old Employe of "L" Lines Is Missing

Search was started yesterday for William H. Nelson, 80 years old, who was last seen at 4 p. m. Thursday when he left his home at 6737 Merrill avenue for a walk. He has been employed by the elevated lines for many years as an electrician. Nelson is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 135 pounds. He has gray hair and a gray mustache.

POLICE LOOK UNDER BED AND FIND A THIEF

Peter Kleba, 24 years old, 2254 Lewis street, went into the Joan Violet dress shop at 3654 Belmont avenue yesterday afternoon. Pistol in hand, he compelled the owner, Mrs. Joan Wallinski, to surrender $2.65.

Then he fled. Mrs. Wallinski pursued and her cries attracted other pursuers. Kleba ran into a basement at 3088 Haussen court. Finding a passkey, he ascended to the home of Ralph C. Martino, whom he had never met, and hid under a bed.

Meanwhile a radio call had been sent out by the police. Squads from the Shakespeare avenue station surrounded the Martino home and, after a search of the house, found the robber under the bed. He admitted, it was said, that he had served a prison term as a stickup man.

Aurora Mayor Asks City to Adopt Daylight Saving

Mayor Conrad M. Bjorseth of Aurora suggested yesterday that the city of Aurora adopt daylight saving time this year as a way of cooperating with Chicago in the World's Fair. Daylight saving in Chicago goes into effect on April 30. Most of the cities in the Fox river valley go on daylight saving time except Aurora, Elgin, and Joliet. Acting on Mayor Bjorseth's suggestion, a petition incorporating the recommendation was submitted to the Aurora council. It is expected that the plan will be adopted.

SPAIN'S CABINET DEFEATS SCHEME TO DESTROY IT

But Grip on Rule Slips Over 'Rebel Massacre.'

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 24.—Premier Manuel Azana's government of socialists and left wing republicans just managed to save itself from disaster in parliament tonight after an ugly debate was precipitated by revelations of alleged horrors committed while putting down the anarcho-syndicalist revolt early in January.

The bloodiest incident of that uprising was the capture on Jan. 12 of Casa Viejas, a hamlet in Andalusia 30 miles from Cadiz, where some ringleaders barricaded themselves in the house of one Seis Dedos—whose name translated means "six fingers." After two civil guards were killed, the republic's crack assault guards attacked with machine guns, set fire to the house and so accounted for 22 bodies found in the ruins.

Charge Rebels Were Executed.

Weeks passed and ugly rumors began to spread. Premier Azana told parliament they were pure inventions. But today along came a self-appointed commission of opposition deputies with claims that only a half dozen rebels died defending the Andalusian cottage. The other 16 men, they charged, were dragged from their homes the next morning by vengeful police and summarily executed in the ruins.

After parrying a motion of censure grounded on his allegedly secretive behavior, Azana amid great turmoil won a vote of confidence, 173 to 130. But he saw his majority crumbling. Sixteen leading Radical Socialists, three of them holding high positions in the ministry, walked out on him and he was forced to agree to an official parliamentary commission of inquiry to save for him the support of the rest of the party on which his government depends.

Moreover, the premier's total vote fell 58 short of the absolute majority he would require to break the filibuster with which his enemies, the radicals of Alejandro Lerroux, who are hungry for power, have menaced parliament for weeks with designs of driving the socialists from power and possibl dissolving parliament.

Days Seem to Be Numbered.

Azana's days seem to be numbered and the republic enters a critical moment. Reminders are rife that the first republic collapsed when Republicans, as now, fell out. They have fallen out in a big way, the radicals blithely ignoring the constitution and the Socialists threatening force if they are cheated of what was promised them for their support in overthrowing King Alfonso. On the other hand, the moderate parties are helpless.

In today's debate Azana found aligned against him a weird company of monarchists, conservative Republicans, Lerroux's crowd, which is the oldest Republican party in Spain, not to mention syndicalists and communists. All wept crocodile tears over the horrors of Casa Viejas.

"Régimes have always fallen through abuse of power," Azana's critics stormed.

"The government is not responsible if police captains overstep their orders, but we will investigate and justice will be done," was his flurried answer.

A Mysterious Affair.

"But your condemnation lies in your failure to even know what happened, much less to do anything for forty days," was the reply.

"What greater proof of the ineptitude of the government could be found?" asked Miguel Maura, first minister of interior of the republic.

Azana swears his government was unaware of the horrors, charged at the time he denied them. No genuine proof has yet been offered. It is all very mysterious, because reputable journalists who went to Casa Vieja heard none of the charges until ten days ago, Azana concluded.

Cleaning Plant Is Bombed; Owner Blames Price Fight

A bomb, exploded last night in the doorway of the Spee-Dee cleaners, 4713 Forsythe avenue, East Chicago, caused damage estimated at several hundred dollars. The owner, Herman Fishman, said he had been warned several times that harm would befall him unless he ceased cutting prices.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKS WOMEN REPORTERS TO CALL ON HER WEEKLY

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt plans to hold weekly press conferences after she becomes mistress of the White House, she said today. This will break the tradition of other administrations that the President's wife gives no interviews. Mrs. Roosevelt, however, is no respecter of tradition as such, and has said many times that she will feel free to do whatever seems appropriate.

"It seemed the simplest way to do," she said. "I am told that the Washington newspaper women will want to ask me questions from time to time, so the easiest way seemed to be to set aside a definite time each week.

"This is just an experiment. We don't have to have it if we don't want to. If the newspaper women find it a bore after a while, we can always stop.

"There is only one rule I shall make. That is, that no one shall ask me any political questions. For, of course, I shall have nothing to say on political subjects, and any one who asks anything of that sort will not be invited again.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she had agreed to see the Washington newspaper women for the first time on Friday, preceding the inauguration.

4 BANK ROBBERS, NOW IN PRISON, SUED BY VICTIM

Four men who last year held up Milan C. Mott, then cashier of the Mundelein State bank, and who are now serving terms in prison for robbery, were sued by Mott yesterday for $5,000 damages in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan.

The suit, which is considered unusual, was filed in the Lake county Circuit court by Mott's lawyer, Col. A. V. Smith. Attorney Smith said the suit was based on the threats and assaults made on Mott during the holdup which incapacitated him for bank work. Mott is now employed in the county treasurer's office.

Defendants in the personal injury action are Edward Bennett, Edward Hallgren, and Michael Yara, who are serving sentences of one year to life in Joliet prison, and Floyd Fulbright, now in the Louisiana state prison.

KIDNAPER HUNT AT DENVER IS AT STANDSTILL

Denver, Colo., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Police search for Charles Boettcher II. was at a standstill tonight as members of his family awaited an answer from the kidnapers on the ultimatum issued last night by Claude K. Boettcher, father of the abducted man.

Boettcher gave the kidnapers of his son until Saturday midnight to free him, promising them, if they do so, he will guarantee payment of the $60,000 ransom demanded.

Young Boettcher was abducted twelve days ago, being taken from the side of his wife, an expectant mother. Mrs. Boettcher's condition today was not good because of the long strain. Her baby is expected about March 8.

ARMY CHEMICAL WARFARE CHIEF IS SPEAKER HERE

Maj. Gen. Harry L. Gilchrist, chief of the army's chemical warfare service, spoke last night at a joint dinner of the Chicago section of the American Chemical society and the Chemical Warfare Reserve Officers' association at the Midland club. He arrived in Chicago yesterday and will leave tonight.

Gen. Gilchrist said the United States army is on a par with the armies of all other nations in study, experimental work and testing of chemical agents. He said he believed chemical combat would play a leading rôle in any future wars.

Court Restores Building to Evicted Equity Owner

Mrs. Belle Laurant, 50 years old, who charged she had been evicted from her rooms in her own flat building at 4055 Kenmore avenue, was directed to return and was given the right to collect rents from the tenants in an order signed yesterday by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay. Mrs. Laurant testified she had been ordered to move without the formality of a court order during the recent subzero weather and was given only $5 by the receiver, although she was the owner of the furniture in the building which the receiver continued to operate.

in the week in which Capone was found guilty. Later, I believe it was a day or two after his conviction [Capone was still at liberty on bail], Capone came to my office at 110 South Dearborn street. With him were Serritella, Ald. Nelson, Patrick Sullivan of the Chicago Building Trade council, and Jerry Horan of the Flat Janitors' union.

"They said they had heard that Judge Wilkerson intended inflicting a heavy sentence upon Capone. Serritella thought that a two year term, as was originally proposed when Capone pleaded guilty to the indictment, would be sufficient. I don't recall who made the statement but I was told that if Capone received a two year term the opposition of railroad labor to Judge Wilkerson's elevation to the Circuit bench would be withdrawn."

Judge Wilkerson was not formally nominated for the Page vacancy on the Circuit Court of Appeals by President Hoover until Jan. 12, 1932, but he had been mentioned for the post. It was assumed that organized labor would contest his confirmation by the United States senate.

"I asked this group in my office," Mr. Brundage continued, "if they were guaranteeing that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, would not oppose confirmation. They told me they could make that guarantee. I told them I would consider what they had said."

Gets 11 Year Sentence.

Capone received an eleven year sentence, from Judge Wilkerson a few days later and is now serving that term in Atlanta penitentiary.

Ald. Nelson, in his version of these incidents, flatly denied that he went to Brundage's office with Capone and that the conversation was along any lines save politics.

"During the trial," the alderman said, "I received a call from Serritella. He asked me to drive with him to Mr. Brundage's home to discuss harmony among the Republican factions in the 46th ward. I agreed and we went to Lake Forest. There we talked politics but came to no agreement. I told Mr. Brundage that I was ready to confer with him at any time but we did not agree on any candidate for ward committeeman or for any other post.

"I learned that Capone had been there the night before and I assume that Serritella wanted me to go there in order to make it appear I was answering a summons.

Gets Another Call.

"A few days later, I received a telephone call from Patrick Sullivan and Jerry Horan. They said Serritella had called to say that Mr. Brundage wanted to talk with the three of us about politics. I agreed and Sullivan, Horan, and I went there together. I was considerably surprised to walk into Brundage's office and find Serritella and Capone with him. I had met Capone only once before in my life and knew him only casually.

"We talked politics alone. Nothing was said about Capone's conviction. Capone took no part in the conversation, save to laugh occasionally when some one said something funny. As before, there was no agreement between Brundage and me although we talked about various men in the ward. There certainly was no mention of labor opposition to Judge Wilkerson. He hadn't even been nominated at that time."

"I suppose," Ald. Nelson concluded, "that Serritella called for Sullivan, Horan, and me in order to create the impression to Brundage that he and Capone had friends in organized labor."

Mrs. Roosevelt Abandons Auto Trip to Washington

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today abandoned her plan to drive her own automobile to Washington and decided to accompany her husband on the inaugural train. She yielded to the wishes of Mr. Roosevelt and other members of the family, who wanted her to travel on the official train. She also found it would have been practically impossible for her to make the trip without being followed by secret service agents and attracting crowds along the route.

A GUEST MUST BE PROPER, EVEN AT LEAVENWORTH

When Paul Morton, convicted bootlegger and brother of the late "Nails" Morton, pioneer prohibition hoodlum who fell off a horse and was killed some years ago, knocks at the door of the Leavenworth federal penitentiary this morning and announces that he wants to be a guest, he will be told:

"You can't come in here."

It isn't that he isn't wanted there, but that prisoners mustn't choose their ways of going. More than a year ago Morton was sentenced to pay a $7,500 fine and go to Leavenworth for eighteen months. His case was fought by his attorneys up to the Supreme court and was lost at every stage.

On Monday a mandate for commitment was issued and Morton was told to report at noon yesterday in United States Marshal Laubenheimer's office. He told the marshal he'd like to pay his fare and that of his guards and go privately in a compartment on the train. The marshal told him he'd have to go with other criminals in ordinary style. So Morton decided to go by himself and he was supposedly on his way there last night.

At the federal building it was said he would be arrested as a fugitive at Leavenworth and returned to Chicago where, if he escapes additional punishment for contempt, he will be sent along with common prisoners, as planned.

MORGENTHAU TO HEAD MERGED U.S. FARM AGENCIES

New Yorker to Carry Out Roosevelt Ideas.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Agricultural bureaus at Washington which have been engaged in futile efforts to revive the farm industry will be consolidated into one agency to be headed by Henry Morgenthau Jr. of New York, it was reported today from an authentic source.

President Elect Roosevelt has advanced ambitious hopes for raising the sagging prices of farm products by various legislative means, and in all of his plans toward this end he has relied constantly upon Mr. Morgenthau, who served during Mr. Roosevelt's régime as governor of New York as his commissioner of conservation.

Lines Up Farm Organizations.

During the campaign Mr. Morgenthau was of invaluable aid in lining up the various farm organizations behind the Roosevelt campaign, and since then he has been most active in striving to get the organizations, which have always been unable to agree among themselves, to support one definite plan for the Roosevelt administration to put into effect.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated a determination to coördinate the various federal bureaus engaged in farm financing under one head, and to this end he has proposed to merge the farm board, the farm loan banks and other agencies under one head. He believes such a merger agency would minimize the errors which characterized the activities of the Hoover farm bureaus, would work for better efficiency and result in economy of operation.

Mr. Morgenthau has traveled about the farm countries of the United States lately explaining the workings of the domestic allotment plan which, it is believed, will be put into force as soon as the President elect can form the legislation and put it before a special session of congress. While he has denied being the direct spokesman of Mr. Roosevelt, it is known that his efforts were undertaken at the President elect's behest.

Seeks to Try Out Allotment Plan.

Mr. Morgenthau has sought to gain general consent for trying the domestic allotment plan out first on cotton and wheat, and he resisted the attempts in the present short session of congress to include corn, tobacco, peanuts and other products in the first tryout of the plan.

Returning today from Albany, where he had gone last night to attend a dinner, Mr. Roosevelt entered into a detailed discussion of federal jobs with James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, who is slated to be the postmaster general in the new administration.

Mayor James A. Curley of Boston dropped in on President Elect Roosevelt for a brief visit tonight. Mr. Roosevelt is desirous of giving Mr. Curley some post in recognition for his services during the campaign, but is at a loss to fit him in. One suggestion that has been offered is to make Mr. Curley minister to the Irish Free State.

The President elect revealed today that he expected to announce the names of the remaining members of the cabinet before next Wednesday and that he would send their names to the senate on March 4.

Issues Call for Senate Session.

President Hoover already has issued a call for the new senate to meet in special session on that day, according to Mr. Roosevelt, who declined to comment on reports that the senate will take up the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and the world court protocol before adjourning the session.

The President elect today confirmed reports that his inaugural address will require only eight minutes for delivery which it is believed will come close to setting a record. No details of his program for world trade recovery and ending the depression will be contained in the address, it is said, the President elect reserving announcement of a program until he includes it in a call for a special session of congress.

Mr. Roosevelt will stay in Hyde Park until next Tuesday afternoon, when he expects to go to his New York house. He plans to leave Jersey City Thursday afternoon in time to be in Washington only to go to bed. He will stop at the Mayflower hotel.

Mr. Roosevelt showed deep distress when informed of the turn for the worse in the condition of Mayor Cermak of Chicago.

SEEK $6,545,143 R. F. C. LOAN FOR MARCH RELIEF

Relief of the idle in Cook county and thirty-six downstate counties will cost about $6,545,143 during March, it was estimated by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday. The commission plans to seek a loan of $6,506,522 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and to supply the additional funds out of a balance held over from this month.

So far the R. F. C. has loaned Illinois $38,493,478 for relief of the idle, and the loan requested for March will bring the total to $45,000,000, which is the maximum that may be loaned to any one state under the R. F. C. regulations. The commission did not state where its officers expected to obtain funds for the relief work after March.

50 SHERIFFS WILL HELP M'DONOUGH SEIZE PROPERTY

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday made arrangements with Sheriff Meyering for a detail of fifty deputy sheriffs who are to help deputies from his own office seize the personal property of delinquent 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxpayers who have received warning notices and still refuse to pay. The treasurer plans to sell the personal property at public auction, applying the proceeds against the delinquent realty tax bills.

Letters warning citizens of the contemplated action were sent out last Monday by registered mail. The first fifty to receive these warnings will be given ten days to show intention of paying the bills before their personal property is seized.

The 1931 tax collection yesterday totaled $143,000, the largest single day's collections since the bills were sent out. All the payments were from residents of Hyde Park or Lake townships, which are the only two city tax divisions where bills have been received. The first bills for the townships of West and South were mailed yesterday.

RETURN VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health was returned at an inquest yesterday into the death of John A. Johnson, 48 years old, 8920 Exchange avenue, who shot and killed himself earlier in the day in Bessemer park, 89th street and South Chicago avenue.

DEPOSITOR IN CLOSED BANK FIGHTS FEE OF RECEIVER'S LAWYER

A depositor of the closed Madison Square State bank filed an intervening petition before Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday opposing the payment of fees to the attorney for the receiver of the bank on the grounds that he was also employed as an assistant attorney general and should have been representing the state auditor and depositors of the bank without extra compensation.

The petition charges that fees amounting to $8,015 were granted by the judge on Jan. 5 without notice to the attorney general's office so that no opposition was offered at that time.

The attorney for the receiver is Paul T. Klenk, who was an assistant attorney general under Oscar S. Carlstrom and who now is a partner in Carlstrom's law firm. The receiver is Harvey R. Dow, who was appointed on June 30, 1932, when the bank was closed. The petitioner is Charles A. Paesch, a depositor.

Through Attorney Albert C. Boehm, Paesch alleged that Klenk's salary as assistant attorney general was $5,000 a year. While working 408½ hours for the receiver of the bank, according to the petition for fees, Klenk valued his time at $20 an hour. The petition also requests that Klenk be ordered to return the $8,015 in fees if he already has been paid.

SOCIETY LEADER SLAIN, CORONER REPORT CLAIMS

Mount Holly, N. J., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Bradway Brown, socially prominent executive of a Philadelphia printing firm and a witness at the Wilson-Roberts inquest nearly four years ago, was the victim of a murderer on the night of Jan. 16 at his home at Palmyra, according to an opinion announced today by Coroner William O. Cunningham of Burlington county, after a long investigation.

Coroner Cunningham issued his statement while Prosecutor Howard Eastwood was questioning additional witnesses at his office here before deciding whether to ask the grand jury to reopen the inquiry into the deaths on June 1, 1929, of Horace Roberts Jr. and Miss Ruth Mowdray Wilson of Moorestown.

Horace Roberts Sr., father of the dead youth, in his recent request for a new investigation contended that the case was not one of murder and suicide as the coroner's jury had decided, but of double murder, and that there was a connection between the earlier double shooting and the mysterious death of Brown.

HANGS SELF IN HOME.

Harry Everakes, 44 years old, the father of four children, hanged himself yesterday in the bathroom of his home at 1848 South Avers avenue. His wife, Della, who found the body, told police her husband was despondent over ill health.

MITCHELL ASKS SENATE RECORD ON BANK'S ACTS

U. S. Inquiry for National City of New York.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—War on frauds that violate federal laws was declared today by Attorney General William D. Mitchell. He announced a federal inquiry into the Insull utilities crash. He indicated there might be such inquiry into the security affiliate of the National City Bank of New York. He also told of joint effort by the departments of justice and state to put new force into existing extradition treaties.

The attorney general announced he has taken steps to obtain copies of the testimony recently given before the senate stock exchange committee, "relating to the operation of various banking, utility, and investment security houses."

The recent efforts of that committee have been directed toward Samuel Insull and officials of the National City bank and its securities affiliate, the National City company. Senator Norbeck said he would certify the record and send it to Mr. Mitchell.

Tells of Inquiry Plans.

"This testimony," the attorney general's statement declared, will be examined in the department of justice to ascertain if there is anything in it which may be of use in connection with certain grand jury proceedings now under way in federal courts, or whether it reveals violations of national banking laws, federal income tax laws, or any other federal statutes."

From New York came the report that Federal District Attorney Medalie had already begun an inquiry into the income tax returns of Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank and National City company. Mr. Mitchell testified before the senate committee last Tuesday that in 1929 he had sold to a member of his family 18,000 shares of National City bank stock at a loss of $2,800,000 in order to avoid paying income tax.

With Mr. Mitchell and H. B. Baker, president of the National City company, as witnesses at today's committee hearing it was shown that, although prohibited by law from lending on or trading in its own bank stock, the National City bank had made loans totaling $20,800,000 in October, 1929, to the brokerage house of J. R. Schmeltzer & Co. to finance the purchase of 46,747 shares of National City bank stock for the account of the National City company.

Into the record Ferdinand Pecora, committee attorney, read the much discussed opinion written in 1911 by Frederick W. Lehmann, then solicitor general, in which he held the setup and practices of the National City bank and National City company to be contrary to law.

he contrary to law. Mr. Pecora told the committee he had sought to subpoenae George W. Wickersham, attorney general, in 1911 for questioning, but that Mr. Wickersham was in Europe.

Walsh to Make Fight.

With March 4 only eight days away, the campaign begun by Attorney General Mitchell must, if carried on, be handled by Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], noted for his oil scandal investigations, who will occupy the attorney generalship in the Roosevelt administration.

The fact that the Hoover administration has embarked on no definite policies without consulting the President elect and his advisers, gave color to the opinion that Mr. Mitchell acted in conformity with the wishes of his prospective successor. This view was further reinforced by statements of Senator Walsh to friends that he intends to be a prosecuting attorney general and not submit to the administrative and political demands which have weighed down so many occupants of that office.

Deals with Mail Frauds.

Attorney General Mitchell's announcement with respect to the necessity of more forceful extradition laws dealt particularly with mail fraud cases. Specific reference was made to a case taken to be that of Frank P. Parish, who is said to have fled the country on the eve of going to trial in Chicago in connection with the sale of stock in the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company.

"By use of the mails," Mr. Mitchell said, "in furtherance of schemes to defraud thousands of citizens of the United States have been defrauded of the savings of a lifetime.

"The federal government," said Attorney General Mitchell, "can only reach frauds in the sale of worthless securities by punishing the use of the mails for that purpose, and there being no similar crime defined by the laws of foreign countries with whom we have these extradition treaties, obstacles exist to the extraditing of such offenders."

JAPANESE BOLT LEAGUE AFTER VOTE OF CENSURE

Geneva Maps Scheme to Enforce Decision.

Matsuoka asserted that Japan insisted on the independence of Manchukuo in the belief that "under the present circumstances this is the only basis for keeping peace in the far east."

"The Japanese government," he said, "now finds itself compelled to conclude that Japan and other members of the league entertain different views on the manner in which peace in the far east is to be achieved, and the Japanese government is obliged to feel that it has now reached the limit of its endeavors to coöperate with the league of nations in regard to the Sino-Japanese differences."

Action Fails to Excite Tokio.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Feb. 25.— [Saturday.]—The adoption by the league of nations assembly of the report censuring Japan has not created much of a sensation here, because it has long been recognized as inevitable.

Interest is now centering on how the government means to carry out its decision to quit the league. It is reported that the cabinet, at a meeting this afternoon, will consider a withdrawal program that will be submitted to the emperor, who will refer it to the privy council.

Premier Saito and Foreign Minister Uchida seemed confident after Wednesday's meeting of the councilors, at which the reasons for withdrawal were exhaustively explained, that assent would be only a matter of procedure.

CAPTURE 20,000 CHINESE

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 25.—[Saturday.] — (AP) — In the opening phase of their offensive in the Chinese province of Jehol, the Japanese have encountered the feeblest resistance, and have seized the strategic cities of Chaoyang, Kailu, and Peipiao at little cost. These three points are "gateways" into the province and from them the Japanese are now pushing on towards Chengteh [Jehol City], the capital.

Twenty thousand Chinese guerillas surrendered to the Japanese today, mostly in the region west of Tungliao, Manchuria. Japanese reports from Kailu also said several thousand Chinese irregulars had offered to submit to the Manchukuo government.

Chinese defenders at several points fled as the Japanese approached. This was particularly true at Peipiao, railhead of the Chinchow-Peipiao railroad spur. Last Wednesday 35 Japanese soldiers on an armored train occupied that city, losing only one private.

Hear Gunfire at Shanhaikwan.

Heavy cannonading was heard yesterday in the vicinity of Shanhaikwan, the city where the Great Wall goes down to the sea, which was taken early in January by the Japanese. It was believed that the Chinese were attempting to ascertain the strength of the Japanese garrison there, but the Japanese did not reply to the gunfire.

Despite the ease with which the Japanese have won the initial clashes in Jehol, observers predicted that they would run into serious resistance before long. The points already captured are held to be strategically unimportant.

From Kailu the invaders must advance 250 miles to the southwest to reach Jehol City, passing through the pass at Chihfeng, about halfway down. The column from Chaoyang must negotiate the pass at Lingyuan, about midway on the 125 mile route from Chaoyang to Jehol City. If the Chinese are to stop the attackers they must at all costs hold these two passes. Neutral observers assert that the Chinese should be able to hold Lingyuan several weeks. It is especially heavily defended.

Leaflets warning missionaries to quit "danger zones" in Jehol will be dropped from airplanes, the Japanese command announced today.

So far as the American consul in Mukden knows there are no Americans in Jehol. At Chaoyanu, Chihfeng, Lingyuan, and Jehol City there are about a score of British Protestant missionaries, and in southeastern Jehol there are about fifty Belgian Catholic priests.

Fear New Trouble at Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Intensified anti-Japanese feeling among Shanghai Chinese resulting from the Japanese thrust into Jehol has created danger of disturbances hereabouts, Chinese sources said tonight. Statements to this effect were published in Chinese newspapers. Subsequently the Japanese legation issued a statement saying:

"The local situation is quiet. Rumors of disturbances emanating from irresponsible Chinese sources are causing undue fears in the minds of the people and are conducive to unnecessary turmoil and confusion in Sino-Japanese communities."

No announcement was made of the decisions reached at an emergency meeting of the defense council at Nanking. Chinese newspapers quoted Finance Minister T. V. Soong, one of the leaders attending the meeting, as saying the government was prepared at this time to finance the Jehol campaign for three months.

Urges China to Fight.

The official Central Daily News was the only Chinese newspaper at Nanking to comment. It said:

"The only way out is to fight as we have never fought before. Further reasoning is futile. In the eyes of the Japanese military leaders, the Chinese have ceased to be one of the world's races and China is no longer a nation. Now is not a time to solicit opinions in Washington, Geneva and Moscow. We should not hope for outside assistance or luck."

A possible straining of Sino-Japanese relations in the Yangtze was reported from Hankow. Chinese defenses were reported to have been strengthened and the Japanese tightened up their concession patrols.

The Chinese were reported to have moved an additonal division of troops into Wuchang from southern Hupeh, mounting artillery on the south bank of the Yangtze and training it on the Japanese concession at Hankow.

MARCH ON JEHOL

The map indicates how Japanese army plans to seize Chengteh (Jehol City), capital of Jehol province. The Japanese have captured Kailu and are marching towards Chihfeng (1), a mountain pass where Chinese resistance is anticipated. The Japanese also have captured Nanling, Peipiao, and Chaoyang, and are marching on Lingyuan (2), another fortified Chinese position.

HULL, STIMSON CONFER TODAY ON FAR EAST CRISIS

U. S. May Act on League's Censure of Japan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The extent to which the United States will coöperate with the league of nations in its future handling of the Manchukuo-Japanese problem will be the subject of discussion at the state department tomorrow, when Cordell Hull, the newly appointed secretary of state, holds his first conference with Secretary Stimson.

Indications were that the state department will let it be known tomorrow, either through a note or a statement, that the United States approves the league report condemning Japan's policy in Manchuria. Officials said, however, that it was unlikely that a decision would be reached for some days on the question of whether this government will agree to serve on a consultative committee which would advise the league on future action if Japan continues her advances in Jehol.

Roosevelt Ideas Not Known.

The first reaction of the Stimson state department administration would be to accept a league invitation to serve on such a consultative committee, even though such action might make it possible for the league eventually to dodge responsibility for handling the Manchurian crisis.

President Elect Roosevelt has indorsed certain phases of Secretary Stimson's far eastern policies, but no announcement has been made as to whether he would be willing to go so far as to join with the league powers and Russia in serving on a consultative committee which would consider the situation caused by Japan's rejection of the league report.

Study Manchurian Problem.

As understood here, the consulative board would be composed of members of the Committee of Nineteen, Holland and Canada. The United States and Canada would be invited to participate in its deliberations. It was reported here that Russia had agreed to accept membership conditional upon American acceptances.

State department officials devoted several hours to a study of the Manchurian problem. In informed quarters it was said the United States will withdraw her civilans from the Peiping-Tientsin sector should the Japanese decide on a military campaign. Whether this withdrawal would include the movement of the military as well was not disclosed.

DAY IN WASHINGTON

[By the Associated Press.]

Federal Judge Harold Louderback of California was impeached by house for alleged "misdemeanors in office."

LITTLE CHANCE FOR EMBARGO ON ARMS SHIPMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Prospects for passage of legislation giving the President authority to impose an embargo on shipments of arms to belligerent nations appeared remote today.

Twin resolutions in the senate and the house authorizing the President to establish arms embargoes against nations engaged, or likely to be engaged, in war, have met with little success. The senate passed such a measure on the recommendation of the administration, but Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] tied the proposal up with a motion to reconsider.

In the house the committee on foreign affairs reported an arms embargo resolution which conformed only in part to the administration's proposal. It extended only to nations on the American continents. House leaders have shown no disposition to bring it to a vote at this session, and Chairman Sam D. McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.] of the foreign affairs committee today saw no prospect of its passage at this session.

Representative Melvin Maas [Rep., Minn.] today filed a minority report bitterly attacking the proposal as dangerous to the peace of this country and inimical to our foreign trade.

FRENCH BLAME U. S. FOR ACTION TAKEN BY LEAGUE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The extreme gravity of the decision of the league of nations assembly against Japan was emphasized here today. There is deep regret in the comments that such a great power as Japan should have been forced to this pass and that the league, too, should have been inexorably driven to take its present stand.

There is much criticism of the United States, which in many quarters is held responsible for the stiffening of resistance at Geneva against the Japanese.

There is grave anxiety lest, instead of furthering peace, it may lead to a new great war in the Pacific area.

4% FOOD PRICE DROP HERE SHOWN BY U. S. SURVEY

Eggs and Butter Are on Bargain List.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Shopping for the week-end needs in foodstuffs today assumes all the fascination of a jigsaw puzzle for the thousands of women in Chicago and its suburbs. And they will find that careful investigation of current food prices will reward them by enabling them to pick the bargains.

A dispatch from the United States bureau of labor in Washington, for instance, shows that while some foods like peas, cabbages and lamb have advanced somewhat since mid-December, most other foods have been lowered in price. Chicago was one of fifty cities covered in this national survey, showing an average decline of 4 per cent in retail food prices here in one month. Incidentally, prices in Washington, D. C., declined the least of all.

Lower Prices Quoted.

The quotations on markets in Chicago today show that prices have fallen during the week for eggs, butter, rolled oats, macaroni, imported cheeses, rhubarb, head lettuce, cauliflower, steaks, and forequarter lamb cuts.

Somewhat higher prices are quoted for new turnips, green peas, cranberries, apples, radishes, some kinds of cabbage, and refined sugar in sacks. Little change is to be noted in quotations on most of the popular cuts of meat and citrus fruits, with the exception of tangerines, which are now nearing the close of their season.

The protein foods such as meats and cheese will be found in a wide variety. Rib roasts, pot roasts, and fresh pork cuts are recommended by meat retailers in a range of prices from 6 to 17 cents a pound.

The recent lowering of prices for domestic cheeses have served to force a drop in those imported from Europe. The retail decline has been as much as 15 to 20 cents a pound in four weeks on imported Swiss and Roquefort. Fine quality cheese from nearby domestic cheese plants is selling at 13 to 21 cents a pound.

Frozen Strawberries on Sale.

An innovation in the markets this week is to be found in the form of frozen strawberries, priced at as low as 25 cents for a two pound carton. An ample supply of fresh strawberries from Florida is on hand, selling nearly everywhere at 10 cents a pint, despite a slight advance in wholesale prices.

California navel oranges of medium size are somewhat reduced in price today, as compared to a week ago, meeting the competition of large shipments of Florida oranges.

JEWISH CHARITY WILLED ESTATE OF A. J. WEICHERT

Alfred Jacques Weichert, former Chicago superintendent of the American Railway express, who came to the United States from Germany when a boy of 7 years, left his estate of $25,000 to the Orthodox Jewish Home for the Aged in a will admitted to probate yesterday. Weichert stated in his will that he had several brothers and sisters, but because he had never heard from them after his arrival in America, he willed his entire estate to charity. Weichert died last Jan. 28. He was 65 years old.

Jaroslave Skopek, owner of a Saskatchewan, Canada, ranch, left his property to a brother, Emil, of Cleveland, O., in a 27 word will. The will which read: "In this will I wish to make it clearly understood that I am leaving my entire estate as it stands, lays, or hangs, to my brother," was also admitted to probate. Attorneys for the estate said that the ranch and its stock of cattle were valued at $20,000. Skopek was 39 years old when he died last Sept. 18.

PHYSICIAN, LURED BY FAKE CALL, SHOT BY ROBBER

Lured by a fake emergency call, Dr. Benjamin F. Garnitz, 40 years old, of 5159 South Damen avenue, was shot in the left side last night by one of two bandits. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital, where physicians said his condition was serious.

Dr. Garnitz was at his home, where he also has his office, when a man telephoned him to "hurry to 4344 South Artesian avenue." A woman there was seriously ill, the caller said. When the doctor reached that address two gunmen stopped him. Dr. Garnitz put up his arms nervously and one of the men, evidently believing he was about to resist, fired. Dr. Garnitz is a member of the surgical staff of the Evangelical hospital.

Sergt. Joseph Devery took Dr. Garnitz to the hospital and began a search for the bandits. Police records show that during the last two weeks half a dozen physicians in various sections of the city have been lured by fake calls and robbed.

STUDENTS TAKE CONTROL OF 3 HOTELS FOR DAY

The management of three Chicago hotels was turned over yesterday to students of Michigan State college, who are studying hotel administration. The experiment, put into practice at the Palmer house, Bismarck, and Morrison hotels, was arranged at the recommendation of the American Hotel association, whose directors believe there is a need for college trained administrative officers. At the Palmer house John Laraway of New York City assumed the position of general manager in place of Walter Gregory. Thornton Leland, Saugatuck, Mich., replaced Leonard Hicks at the Morrison, and James Gates, Detroit, took over Otto Eitel's duties at the Bismarck. In addition departmental positions were student governed during the evening.

INDIANA SENATE VOTES FOR BEER, DRY ACT REPEAL

Measure as Amended Is Back in House.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Legalization of beer up to federal limits and repeal of the state bone dry act were voted, 30 to 16, by the Indiana senate late today.

The so-called beer bill as passed includes a dry law repeal clause and also permits the prescription of medicinal liquor.

The bill has already been approved by the house of representatives, 80 to 13, but as it was slightly amended by the senate will not go to Gov. Paul V. McNutt for signature until the house goes through the formality of concurrence.

Second Repeal Bill Passed.

The senate passed, 34 to 14, this evening a second bill providing only for repeal of the state dry act as an insurance against possible unconstitutionality of the beer bill. This bill has been approved overwhelmingly by the house and goes to the governor immediately.

The bone dry law, which technically made Indiana the most arid of the states, was enacted in 1925.

The bill passed today fulfills administration pledges made by Indiana Democrats last summer before they swept the Hoosier election in November.

Manufacture, bottling, possession, sale and delivery of alcoholic beverages in Indiana will be under control of an excise director appointed and removable by the governor, the bill provides.

Scale of Fees Set.

A fee of four cents a gallon will be charged manufacturers and importers. A fee of three cents a gallon will be paid on wort or liquid malt and two cents a pound for malt sirup or extract.

Manufacturers will pay $50 annual license, wholesalers $25 and retailers $5. Drug stores, groceries and confectioneries may sell malt beverages in 24 ounce bottles with a maximum of 12 bottles to the customer, not to be consumed on the premises. Clubs, restaurants, hotels, trains and boats so licensed may permit consumption on premises.

Stills are unlawful, public intoxication will bring one dollar to $100 fine and imprisonment up to six months, and places of violation will be declared public nuisances and duly closed.

FEDERAL JUDGE IS IMPEACHED BY HOUSE; FIVE CHARGES LISTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Harold K. Louderback of San Francisco was today impeached by the house of representatives for misdemeanors in the conduct of his official duties as a member of the federal bench.

He will be haled before the bar of the senate and tried on five articles of impeachment adopted by the house by a vote of 183 to 142. Ten "managers," elected from the membership of the house under constitutional impeachment procedure, will be his prosecutors. The presiding officer of the senate will be his judge, with the membership of the senate his jury. It was uncertain today whether he will be tried at this session of congress.

The charges against Judge Louderback allege that he appointed friends and political supporters to lucrative receiverships and attorneyships in bankruptcy cases under his jurisdiction.

Supposed Nurse Found Unconscious in Street

A woman about 45 years old, believed to be a nurse, was found unconscious last night in front of 4827 North Western avenue. She was taken to the county hospital. In her purse police found a nurse's training pin issued to Wisconsin nurses and another pin issued by a German nursing association.

ROB WOMAN IN HALLWAY.

Mrs. Florence Somers was robbed of $12, a mink coat valued at $300, and a ring worth $35 by two men as she entered the apartment house in which she lives at 4401 West Jackson boulevard.

HOUSE DRYS VOTE TO LET DOCTORS PRESCRIBE BEER

But They Hope to Defeat Medical Liquor Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—House drys voted in a body for beer today, but their purpose, as usual, was friendly to prohibition.

In an effort to load the Celler medicinal liquor bill with amendments which they hoped would insure its defeat, the dry members supported and carried an amendment by Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] permitting physicians to prescribe malt, as well as spiritous and vinous beverages for their patients.

The bill, removing all statutory restrictions on medical liquor prescriptions, will come up for a vote tomorrow. A roll call on its passage was forestalled tonight by the parliamentary strategy of Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], rabid dry.

Then Fireworks Starts.

Representative Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.], author of the bill, opened the debate by stating that the measure was outside the pale of wet and dry controversy. But the membership apparently saw it otherwise and launched into one of the most heated battles over prohibition seen on the floor of the house this session.

It was Mr. Blanton who started the fireworks when he shouted that "this bill will make saloons out of drug stores and bartenders out of doctors."

Mr. Blanton pointed to the chair, where Representative Vincent L. Palmisano [Dem., Md.], a former Baltimore bartender, was presiding.

"There's a bartender in the chair of this house," declared Mr. Blanton. "He ought to have a white apron on. If we pass this bill every doctor in the country ought to have a white apron on."

Resent Texan's Remarks.

Mr. Palmisano relinquished the chair a moment later to answer him, but not before Representative T. Alan Goldsborough [Dem., Md.], had declared that the entire Maryland delegation resented Mr. Blanton's reference to their colleague as a bartender.

Said Mr. Palmisano, in response to Representative Blanton: "Yes, I have been a bartender, and I'm proud of it. I got from that position to the one I now occupy by gaining the respect of every man, woman, and child in my district.

"I've been a bartender and that is why I'm opposed to prohibition. I've seen its good side and its bad side. And I see conditions now. I see young people, who couldn't get a drink before prohibition, going into dance halls now with bottles of bad liquor on their hips. I see young girls drinking when, before prohibition, women wouldn't associate with men who drank in public."

700 LINCOLN PARK EMPLOYES GIVEN TWO WEEKS' PAY

Seven hundred employés of the Lincoln park system received pay checks for the last half of September yesterday. President Alfred D. Plamondon said the pay roll amounted to more than $60,000. Mr. Plamondon also announced that in order to afford relief the park employés in the future will operate under a wage assignment plan similar to that put into practice by the city. Under the plan employés will be given "N. S. F." checks which they can exchange for merchandise. The checks will be made good by the park board when cash is available.

City employés will receive $2,100,000 in cash today, representing salary payments for the last half of September.

HAIR PULLED BY HANDFULS AS 5 WOMEN BATTLE

Policemen John Howe and Iser Rake of the Grand Crossing station broke through a ring of 100 interested spectators at 72d street and Ridgeland avenue last night and separated five fighting women.

The combatants, some minus handfuls of hair, were taken to the station. Three were released without recording their names. The remaining two were Mrs. Margaret Gillette, 30 years old, of 7147 Ridgeland avenue, and Mrs. Sophia B. Jonas, 34, of the Flamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive, wife of Dr. Samuel T. Jonas, a dentist. Last Sunday Mrs. Jonas lost $12,000 in gems when her purse was stolen from a Milwaukee theater.

At the station, police said, Mrs. Jonas described Mrs. Gillette as "a love pirate who is ruining my home." Mrs. Gillette retaliated by signing a disorderly conduct charge against Mrs. Jonas. The matter will be heard in the South Chicago court this morning.

Stories told to police indicated that Mrs. Jonas and another woman who allegedly held a personal grievance against Mrs. Gillette waited in front of the Gillette home last night. Soon Mrs. Gillette drove up in a car with two other women. In a moment the battle was on, Mrs. Jonas and her companion on one side and Mrs. Gillette and her two companions on the other. The fight was going on when the policemen arrived.

Gunmen Take $3,000 in Loop Restaurant Holdup

Three gunmen entered the John P. Harding restaurant at 160 West Monroe street last night and in plain view of more than a dozen patrons compelled the floor manager, George Ebling, to surrender about $3,000. The robbers waited until the outer doors had been closed to more patrons and then forced a watchman to admit them.

BRAZIL READY TO RUSH FLEET INTO CHACO WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Feb. 14.—[By air mail to avoid censor.]—Because of a serious incident Brazil may be drawn into the Paraguay-Bolivia conflict for possession of the Gran Chaco territory. The government has ordered the cruiser Rio Grande do Sul, several destroyers, and six airplanes to stand by to proceed to Paraguay river to protect Brazil's neutrality.

According to information from Porto Murtinho, Brazil, on the Paraguayan frontier, a platoon of Paraguayan soldiers took a number of Bolivian prisoners of war into Brazilian territory and killed them, leaving the mutilated bodies behind. The platoon then returned to Paraguayan territory.

It has been learned that Foreign Minister Mello Franco has asked Paraguay for an explanation. Rio de Janeiro official circles are pessimistic concerning the possibility of future trouble with Paraguay. Brazil already has a military and naval force at Tabatinga in the northwest watching for possible violations of neutrality in the Peru-Colombia conflict over Leticia.

Asks Declaration of War.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 24.—(AP)—President Eusebio Ayala sent a message to congress today asking a declaration of war against Bolivia.

The president's message said that a declaration of war would enable other South American countries to establish their neutrality. This was interpreted in some quarters as indicating hope that Argentina, Chile, Peru, and Brazil would blockade Bolivia.

Declaring that a state of war already existed in fact, the message said: "In giving official status to the existing situation Paraguay fulfills her duties toward her sister nations, especially her neighbors whose attitude may thus be defined in accordance with customary traditions and principles."

The senate, after hearing the message, adjourned until Monday.

Peru's Planes Bomb Gunboat.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A Peruvian government bulletin issued today anounced that four Peruvian planes bombed the Colombian gunboat Barranguilla in the Cotuhe river on Thursday. Twelve Colombian planes attacked and one Peruvian pilot was slightly wounded, but the Peruvian squadron returned safely to its base.

Denies Ships Were Sunk.

BOGOTA, Columbia, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The government today denied Peruvian reports that the Colombian gunboats Narino and Pinchincha had been sunk in a battle by Peruvian airplanes. The navy office was in communication with the two boats today.

COURT REJECTS COUNTY "PAYLESS VACATION" PLEA

Judges of the Appellate court yesterday refused the petition of the county commissioners for a certificate of importance, which is the first step in seeking an appeal to the Supreme court from a decision upholding a writ of mandamus compelling the board to pay $1,000,000 in salaries to 4,500 county employés for the payless vacation ordered in August, 1931, and for a repayment of a 15 per cent pay cut taken from the employés from Dec. 1 to March 12, 1932. The mandamus was granted recently by Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor and upheld by the Appellate court.

The mandamus action was brought by a deputy sheriff, Mario Pallestrini, in behalf of all other county employés. The court's ruling invalidates most of the economy measures adopted by the commissioners for 1931 and some of the 1932 measures. The courts held that the board could not withhold payment of an appropriation already made for the vacation periods in 1931, and ruled that the salaries of county employés for 1932 remained at the same rate as given in 1931 until the 1932 budget formally had been passed on last March 12.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell said yesterday that the efforts of the board to appeal the writ to the state Supreme court were not ended. He said that the board could still file a petition for a writ of certiorari directly with the Supreme court.

Wife of Store Owner Is Wounded by Holdup Man

Mrs. Fay Harris, 34 years old, was slightly wounded last night when a robber fired at her in the drug store of her husband, Herman, at 4230 West North avenue. Harris was in the rear of the store when the gunman leaped across a counter and told Mrs. Harris to keep quiet. She screamed and the man fired, his bullet grazing her back. The bandit then fled, without getting anything.

BOOKS

Book Business Gives Promise of Better Days

2 Positive Signs of Gains Make Appearance.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

PERHAPS the groundhog of business DID see its shadow and there are to be six weeks [or months or years] of bad business before the arrival of the spring that even economically is never far behind if winter comes. But there are certainly signs in the publishing business that the sunshine of better days is coming. It's this way: There are two kinds of books that simply don't sell unless the reading public is buying a lot of books. One is collections of short stories. Only last week, if you remember, I called your attention to the fact that five volumes of short stories appeared within a period of two weeks. The other is plays. And now, for whatever it means, I call your attention to the fact that lately there have been nine volumes of plays and one of biographical criticism of a playwright, which is a record even for palmy days, and even more remarkable, one of the books sells for $7.50 and another in two volumes for $10.

Those of us who are devoted to the theater have cast longing eyes toward a tremendous dramatic success in New York. We may still regret our geographical remoteness from the acting of the author and the two most delightful players in New York, but we need no longer wander around asking what all the shootin's for. "Design for Living" [Doubleday Doran], Noel Coward's flip coat of many colors, dramatically cut for himself and Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, comes to us with its text complete. It is another "Vie de Boheme," shocking most of its contemporaries, even dramatic critics, who are supposed to be shockproof, but devastatingly funny. It concerns two artists, a painter and a playwright, a fascinating but sapient decorator [lady], and a cosmopolite who sells pictures. The lady loves first one of the artists, then the other, marries the art dealer, and is rescued from a life of social probity—and boredom—jointly by her two lovers for what promises to be a life of laughing polyandry. Stated thus the plot does make the reader blink, but in Mr. Coward's deft fingers it is irresistible. It has the audacity of the second act of Noel Coward's roaring "Private Lives."

At the other end of Mr. Coward's genius is the sentimental "Cavalcade," the panorama of English life from the Boer war to 1930. It comes to us in two editions, the plain acting version [Doubleday Doran] and one dedicated to the motion picture production [Grosset & Dunlap], with photographs of memorable scenes in the play. The drama is still the show piece of London, where it has been running for so many months I've lost count.

Another published play came to us first in the films. It was written for the cinema, and from the film this dramatic version was made [an odd sequence]. I think "Mädchen in Uniform" is merely a German adaptation of Clemence Dane's marvelous novel, "Regiment of Women," for that unforgettable tale published in 1917, fourteen years before "Mädchen in Uniform," has every emotion, indeed the very essence, of the world famous film. It is, incidentally, infinitely the better art form. "Girls in Uniform" [Little Brown], the American translation is called. It reads to me like a dullish play whose chief interest is its implications, more than its actualities.

And speaking of Clemence Dane, her "Wild Decembers" [Doubleday Doran] brings us vividly the three ill-fated Bronte sisters, the ambition-driven Charlotte, the spartan Emily, and gentle Anne. Like Miss Dane's "Will Shakespeare," "Wild Decembers" is real characterization in the drama. The play is dedicated to Katharine Cornell, who will play it as soon as the public has stopped remembering her so intensely as another famous literary figure in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

The short lived "Lucrece" [Houghton Mifflin], in which Katharine Cornell had little to say, though much weeping to do, comes to us in the exact acting version translated by Thornton Wilder from the French of Andre Obey. The reason for its brevity of life is plain after one has read its delicate, pure line Greek text and remembers that it was mounted in a large theater in the grand manner. It is a work of art exactly described in the French word "precieuse." It is the classic story of the rape of Lucrece which Shakespeare made famous.

"Biography," by S. N. Behrman [Farrar & Rinehart], which is still current in New York, is about a famous woman portrait painter who is commissioned to write her autobiography. It is not a memorable play, certainly nothing to compare with the author's fine drama, "The Second Man," but it has caused infinite gossip There are two principal candidates mentioned as the original of the heroine, both sculptresses, who, like Marion, have become famous through their portraiture of great men and both authors of autobiographical books, Claire Sheridan and Nancy Cox MacCormack. Mrs. MacCormack was, until a few years ago, a Chicagoan.

The University of Chicago Press recently published Charles Rann Kennedy's volume two of "Plays for Three Players." It contains three plays, "Old Nobody," in which the author of "The Servant in the House" continues his lifelong warfare against war; "Crumbs," which has to do with the resurrection from the dead, and "Flaming Ministers," which gives the depression a new meaning.

"World Drama," a two volume work, is edited by Barrett Clark, and is the only collection of its kind available in any language. Chicago may be proud of the fact that Mr. Clark was not so long ago one of us. Barrett Clark is also the author of "Eugene O'Neill the Man and His Plays," a critical biography.

"Masterpieces of the Russian Drama," edited by George Rapall Noyes, professor of Slavic languages, University of California, contains the acting texts of twelve famous dramas, all but one of which have been translated, either alone or in collaboration, by the editor.

BRIEF REVIEWS

BY M. D.

Walter D. Edmonds, author of "Rome Haul," the story of life on the Erie canal at its height, goes back in "Erie Water" (Little Brown) to the making of that canal, the lives that were devoted passionately to its formation, the fascinating development of the canal itself. Though Jerry Fowler and his wife, Mary, are the nominal hero and heroine of this book, the canal itself plays such an important rôle in their lives that it can be said "Erie Water" is the pivotal point around which the story revolves.

WALTER D. EDMONDS.

Jerry Fowler, a young carpenter, plans to go west and farm. He sees Mary, a Redemptioner, on board an Albany sloop and buys her for $70, a few days later freeing and marrying her. All his money is gone, so he decides, when he is offered a job on the canal, to stay in that part of the country and give up his longings for land. The canal soon becomes the passion of his life, one that even supersedes his love for Mary. Their life together comes very near destruction before the canal is finished, but at last they build a new structure from the debris.

This tale has epic proportions. It is a vivid picture of the early nineteenth century, of the stupendous project that made New York the queen of American cities, the glamour and romance and humor of the great adventure. If there is fault to be found in this splendid novel, that combines the best aspects of imaginative fiction and historical realism, it would be in the treatment of the Norah episode, which in its modern accents and intonations of style and psychological indirection becomes anachronistic and out of place in the rest of this story.

Meetings and Lectures

This morning at 11 o'clock at the Hotel Sherman Llewellyn Jones will give his fourth lecture in his series of six discussing current literature.

At noon today Mr. Jones will also talk about "Critics" at the Round Table luncheon of the Midland Authors in their clubroom in the Hotel Sherman.

Publish Interesting Diary of Traveler in America of 1785

A book that should be of interest to historians and collectors of Americana alike is "An Englishman in America, 1785, Being the Diary of Joseph Hadfield" [Hunter-Rose]. The originals of the diary were received through the granddaughter of the diarist. Unpublished narrative travel diaries of this period are very rare, so this book has an especial interest for collectors.

Joseph Hadfield was a young English journalist who visited America for the first time in 1785. He was the guest of Gen. Washington at Mount Vernon. He traveled up the Hudson river route to Montreal and thence up the St. Lawrence to Lake Ontario. He also visted Oswego and Fort Niagara.

Returning to Montreal and Quebec he was privileged to meet many of the important men who were there. On his way home he traveled through New England and was entertained lavishly in Boston. This diary sheds many new lights on an early America about which there is never too much information and literature. The editor and annotator of the diary is Douglas S. Robertson.

Williamson Holds T. S. Eliot Is Key to All Modern Verse

The author of "The Poetry of T. S. Eliot" [Putnam], Hugh Ross Williamson, firmly believes that the personality of T. S. Eliot is the one important influence in contemporary poetry. He considers "The Wasteland," published in 1922, to be in many respects the turning point in modern poetry. Without a knowledge and appreciation of T. S. Eliot, the author asserts, that poetry in the future will be unintelligible even to the intelligent man.

Williamson realizes, he says, the certain esoteric quality that has made T. S. Eliot often disliked and misunderstood by the older generation. In the present book the reader will find a lucid and sincere attempt to analyze for the common man who is interested in poetry the meaning and poetic theory of T. S. Eliot's work.

Edith Wharton Gets Place on Muzzey History List

David S. Muzzey, historian and author, professor at Columbia university, started a flurry of talk when he compiled a list not long ago of forty-nine Americans who would appear prominently in American histories fifty years hence. Only one woman's name appeared and that was Edith Wharton. The only other literary figure in America to win a place in Dr. Muzzey's list was Eugene O'Neill.

Father Semper Discusses H. L. Mencken in Essays

Father I. J. Semper has written a books of essays, "The Return of the Prodigal" [Edward O'Toole], in which he discusses H. L. Americanism Gets New Definition from F. E. Hill

Frank Ernest Hill has attempted in "What Is American" [Day] a new definition of Americanism. He says: "We have thought of the American quality as a modification of the European. If we are to realize it fully, we should perhaps give it as definite and separate a place as we give to 'African' or 'Oriental.'"

Thomas Mann Busy.

Thomas Mann is still hard at work on his long anticipated novel. When he first began writing it several years ago he said it would be in two volumes. Now he states that it will be in three and that the first two are already written and in the hands of the translator.

Two Novels Get Attention of London Critics

Francis Stuart and Storm Jameson Authors.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The young year is already full of interesting new novels, ranging from Mr. Wells' "The Bulpington of Blup" and Sinclair Lewis' "Ann Vickers" to Miss Angela Thirkell's "Ankle Deep" but the two early novels which have so far received most critical admiration from London readers are Miss Storm Jameson's "A Day Off" (a very short realistic account of a single day in the life of a decaying drab) and Francis Stuart's "Try the Sky" (published in America as "The Colored Dome"). Both of these books offer some difficulty to the ordinary person, Miss Jameson's because it is a very sober, sincere, but disagreable work and Mr. Stuart's because Mr. Stuart is driving at something which is outside the sympathy and experience of the majority.

FRANCIS STUART.

Months ago I spoke of Mr. Stuart's "Pigeon Irish" as a noteworthy novel; and "Try the Sky" is a further stage in the author's journey from the earth into realms of poeticized ethics. Not an easy book, but the work of a writer of outstanding quality who is much more modern than the accepted "moderns." He is not intolerant, as the "moderns" are, or tolerant, as the older writers endeavored to be, but is bent upon creating a new way of life by way of a new attitude to life.

In contrast with these books the pastiche entitled "She Saw Them Go By," in which the central character (and narrator) is a woman, whereas the teller of "The Prisoner of Zenda" was a man, is both "easy" and very readable indeed. It is a story of Zarayia, a mountainous state which one assumes to be in the Balkans; and Sophia, who is our informant, goes to the capital of the state as lady in waiting to the Princess Dagmar of Tolna-Steltsburg, great-niece of Duke Andrew. Uniforms in plenty, princes and princesses, intrigue, romance, and the rest of that once familiar and favorite revived medievalism, give the book color and liveliness: the signs are that it will be a popular success, particularly with those who are no longer young enough to take life seriously.

By contrast we may expect shocks from the new novel of Caradoc Evans, which is called "Wasps" as if to warn us that it is full of stings. Mr. Evans, who is a London journalist as well as a writer of scarifying novels about his own people, the Welsh, has hitherto made his successes with pictures of the small shopkeepers and poor of Wales. He now rises higher in the social field, and his characters, although not quite what are called in the English countryside "gentry," are among the privileged. The book will probably arouse a good deal of indignation, for Mr. Evans is something of a stormy petrel; but it is sure to demand and receive attention.

If Miss Storm Jameson required great technical ability in order to write a novel describing a day in a single life, what shall we say of the daring of James Cleugh, who has written a whole novel (it is called "Rush Hour") on the subject of one hour in the lives of four characters? If this book is a success it must surely be the last word in the limitation of time.

Keyserling's Latest Philosophical Book Given High Praise

Count Hermann Keyserling's philosophical comments on men and the world appear in a new volume titled "South American Meditations" [Harpers]. Critical comments from abroad are extravagantly lavish in their praise.

Dr. Jung, the famous psychoanalyst, says, "In my opinion Keyserling's 'South American Meditations' are one of the most important manifestations of the rebirth of the spirit of the age."

Jakob Wassermann, the novelist, declares, "This book has fascinated me. It is undoubtedly Keyserling's masterpiece, his profoundest creation."

Sigmund Freud states, "I was surprised to see the effect which the insight into a society ruled by primitive and elementary impulses has produced on Keyserling. In his great capacity for inner experience he has now become open to a new side of reality."

Thomas Mann, one of the most famous of Germany's literary men, writes: "Keyserling's most picturesque, dynamic and poetic creation, superior even to the world famous 'Travel Diary.'"

INAUGURATE

The Taking of Omens

When we speak of the inauguration of a president we use a word that carries us back to ancient times when people believed in omens and looked for them on every important occasion. Latin augur meant a member of the highest class of official diviners of ancient Rome, whose duty it was to observe and interpret the omens, such as the flight of birds, at the time of any important event. Inaugurare meant "to take omens" before entering upon a critical undertaking, such as the proclamation of an Emperor. From the past participle inauguratus is derived English inaugurate, though the ceremony of inauguration to-day does not call for the observation of omens. There are thousands of such stories about the origins of English words in

PURE MILK ASS'N ANSWERS CHARGE OF LEGISLATOR

Officials Deny Group Is Aiming at Monopoly.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Officials of the Pure Milk association, cooperative marketing agency for 18,000 dairymen supplying milk in Chicago and suburbs, took issue yesterday with charges made against them at Springfield by Frank A. McCarthy, Republican representative from Elgin.

McCarthy is author of a bill before the state assembly which would place milk distribution in the class of a utility, subject to regulation by the state commerce commission. He charged the association with conniving with Chicago milk dealers to prohibit nonmembers from selling milk in the metropolitan area.

D. N. Geyer, secretary of the Pure Milk association, in a statement issued last night declared that his association controlled less than half of the milk under inspection and available for Chicago consumption. Hundreds of producers in Illinois are selling milk to Chicago buyers without interference from the association, he said.

On the other hand, he charged that the present low prices paid to farmers could be traced largely to the fact that the independent farmers are selling at low prices, making no effort to control surplus production and enabling some dealers to cut prices.

Commenting upon the McCarthy proposal to regulate milk as a public utility, Mr. Geyer pointed out that such regulation would not hold up prices for farmers unless provision were made for monopoly on the part of a certain group of farmers and with definite control over production.

"This would bring about exactly what Mr. McCarthy charges the Pure Milk association with attempting to do for its members," Geyer declared.

Mr. McCarthy's charges that milk and cream from Wisconsin were coming to Chicago several days late and were from inferior dairy farms were denied yesterday by the Chicago board of health.

"There is no truth to the claims that Chicago's milk and cream supplies are inspected on a double standard," declared Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board. "Every drop of milk, cream or ice cream mix sold in Chicago passes the same identical inspection."

GOVERNOR HALTS FORECLOSURES IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mortgage foreclosures were prohibited in Minnesota until May 1 "or until further order" today by Gov. Floyd B. Olson. He declared the step necessary to preserve order.

An emergency proclamation urged the legislature to enact relief measures promptly, the Farmer-Labor governor saying increasing interference with foreclosure sales by protesting farmers had created an acute situation.

Orders went tonight to every sheriff and other peace officers in the state telling them to "refrain and desist" from foreclosing or attempting to foreclose any mortgage on certain specified properties.

The governor said the legislature should empower state courts to pass on the reasonableness and justice of foreclosure at the time desired by the mortgagee. The legislature already is considering measures designed to ease the mortgage burden. One declaring a two year moratorium on real estate mortgage foreclosures was recommended by a house committee. Another house committee approved a bill for a two-year postponement in sales of property on which 1931 taxes are delinquent. The senate passed the measure.

FRANCE IS URGED TO BUILD NEW BATTLE CRUISER

PARIS, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The substitution of a battle cruiser of the Dunkirk class for four light cruisers voted in the 1932 naval program is under consideration of the naval committee of the chamber of deputies.

Proponents of the change claim that it would be an economy move and yet would increase the power of the navy in the first line.

The battle cruiser Dunkirk, a ship of 26,500 tons with a speed of thirty knots and carrying nine 13 inch guns was authorized last October.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

Franklin Roosevelt will enter upon the tremendous responsibilities of the presidency with one heartening assurance. We all wish him well. If there is an element of self-interest in that sentiment, there is much more. It is one of the saving characteristics of the American people as a body politic that partisan conflict does not engender deep and persistent rancor. When the battle of the polls is over an acceptance of the verdict, which may be called sportsmanship and is, in fact, good citizenship, retires difference and unites us in the bonds of loyalty. This is the fundamental strength of a self-governing people, underlying the diversities of opinion and the competitions of party.

In Mr. Roosevelt's case public sentiment has been ingratiated by a pleasing personality and by a general confidence in his sincere intention to serve faithfully and zealously the common weal. There is also, it must be owned, a disposition, born of the common misfortune, to hope for the best from a new deal. This was the most potent factor in his election and it will serve him well on the threshold of his new responsibilities.

In short, Mr. Roosevelt, in spite of the acute and critical problems he must deal with, has, we think, a clear path before him if he will follow what it should be natural for a Democratic leader to follow, the path of Thomas Jefferson. Political ruin awaits him, as well as disaster for America, if he deserts that path for Marx. As a leader of Democracy, Mr. Roosevelt finds a situation in government created by a generation of heedless centralization and extension of governmental intervention in private affairs. Its results have piled an exhausting burden of debt upon the people, have entangled their activities and discouraged their initiative, have invaded their liberties and disparaged the principles and guaranties upon which their government was founded. In foreign relations he finds a similar departure. No President, not even Washington and Lincoln, has confronted issues more vital in the present and future of American institutions or duties more essential to the preservation of the republic.

It should be a reason for assurance for him and for the nation that if the dangers upon us were forcseen, as they were, by the founder of Mr. Roosevelt's party, the wisdom and philosophy of that great American is a guide for his footsteps. The decision is fateful, but it should not be doubtful. The path is plain and leads to as great an achievement as any statesman ever builded for a nation's salvation and his own undying honor.

WISCONSIN MILK STRIKE.

The Wisconsin milk strike is wrong, any way you approach it. Students can see no benefit to result either through the deliberate destruction of a highly perishable food product or from interference with the orderly process of marketing. Only to the promoter and organizer of the strike, whose talent for self-advertisement is thereby given full opportunity, does there seem to be any prospect of advantage in it.

All the people of Wisconsin fully understood that dairying, which is Wisconsin's largest industry, should be conducted at a decent profit. Nor is the price of $1.40 per hundred pounds of milk at the farm demanded by the strikers too high. At that price even the skillfully conducted and best managed dairy farms will not make an exorbitant profit.

Like the price fixing effort of the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets, the strike seems an effort of the dairy industry to lift itself by its bootstraps out of the price despondency. Though the objective is admirable, the strike apparently cannot result other than in increasing the difficulties of a people already hard worn by high taxes and low prices.

The strikers apparently have disregarded completely the world character of the butter and cheese market. The base price is inevitably fixed by world production and world consumption. They have also disregarded the depleted purchasing power of many thousands of families and the increased production of milk that has come with improved dairying methods of the last decade.

The agricultural school of the University of Wisconsin and the U. S. department of agriculture together have spent millions to induce the dairyman to improve his herds and to increase the flow of the milk he is now persuaded to throw on the ground.

Wisconsin dairymen have not stopped at producing large quantities of milk, butter and cheese. A good source of income came from selling to other farm communities pure bred dairy sires and cows of large producing capacity, all of which have helped create the enormous quantities of food products the country cannot now consume at a profitable price.

In 1912 the average tax of an 80 acre Wisconsin farm was around $35. In 1930 the same eighty paid from $120 to $135. This year the same eighty will pay $100 to $105, while the prices of dairy products are as low or lower than they were in 1912.

If the farmers would get back of a tax reducing movement with the energy they are putting into the milk strike and could force a reduction to the 1912 tax figure it would mean an annual net saving to the average 80 acres from $65 to $70 a year. This is a larger net profit to each than can be effected by raising milk from its present price to the $1.40 demanded by the strikers.

Gov. Schmedeman, who is making a courageous fight to force a 25 per cent reduction in the state's expenditure, is showing himself a better friend of the farmers than those who are leading them into a forlorn and hopeless cause.

THE DEMAGOGUE WHEN CORNERED.

Senator Huey Long's outburst in the senate the other day was one for the book. Huey's candidate for the senate in the Louisiana primary of 1932 was John H. Overton, who was declared the winner. It is charged that the campaign was characterized by fraud and corruption and that Mr. Overton is therefore not entitled to his seat, just as Frank Smith was found not to be entitled to his. A senatorial investigating committee has been down in New Orleans interviewing Huey's friends and relatives, among others, seeking to get at the facts. The committee found enough to raise the question whether a Democratic senate will have the stamina to do to Overton what a Republican senate did to Smith. The attorney for the investigating committee was Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, U. S. A., retired.

When Huey arose in the senate on a point of personal privilege he had fresh in his mind a statement issued by Gen. Ansell demanding that the inquiry be continued until all the relevant facts could be uncovered. Huey, however, had little to say about the continuance of the inquiry, less about his participation in the primary campaign with which the inquiry is concerned, and nothing at all, so far as the news dispatches show, regarding the right of Mr. Overton to a seat in the senate. The personal privilege which Huey craved was the privilege of obscuring the issue with a diatribe against Gen. Ansell.

Some day, it is to be hoped, the children in the public schools will be taught the arts of the demagogue. The subject is, perhaps, the most important to be taught in the field of citizenship, for without knowledge of the ways of demagogues the voters are forever being led astray. If they knew the tricks of the demagogue's trade the citizens could save themselves a good many million dollars a year in such items as expert fees and prevent the enactment of three-quarters of the fool legislation that bedevils the country.

When that study is seriously undertaken Huey's collected works will provide, by themselves, a pretty useful textbook. When hotly pursued, even when caught red-handed, the demagogue always seeks to turn the issue from his own derelictions to the derelictions of others. The honest man in politics, like an Alexander Hamilton or a Grover Cleveland, faces the charges and answers them. The demagogue who is accused screams that those who accuse him are drunkards and beat their wives.

It is not necessary to have read the evidence obtained by Gen. Ansell to know that it struck close to Huey and his senatorial candidate. If it hadn't Huey would not have used language so virulent. He would have stopped a little short of calling a retired officer of the United States army such names as "Benedict Arnold, burglar, scoundrel, and thief of the deepest dye."

DISCHARGE THE DRY SNOOPER.

Now that repeal of the 18th amendment is on its way to the people and the demand for a speedy relief from the prohibition régime has the overwhelming support of public opinion, no time should be lost in getting rid of the army of federal snoopers. There is no excuse for keeping them on the pay roll another month. Their immediate discharge would accomplish an economy which only the professional drys can object to. To retain them could only mean political corruption. Politicians who cling to the patronage represented by the dry enforcers may resist this saving, but the taxpayers demand that all expenditures for the perpetuation of the system of espionage created by the prohibition bosses be cut out at once. The legal machinery of the federal government should be restored to normal. The dry cheka should be abolished.

Editorial of the Day

THINGS COULD BE WORSE.

[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

Every day one sees or hears of things which lead to the conclusion that current conditions in this country, even among people hardest hit by the depression, lack a great deal of being as bad as they might be. This is not to say that many victims of the economic situation are not suffering. They are, but their hardships are relatively mild as compared with those suffered in panics of the past, and even by many foreign victims of the present depression. The instances are few in which people have been reduced to an actual struggle for existence and where all their thoughts are concentrated on that struggle.

Almost any person one engages in conversation can tell of incidents showing that many needy unemployed persons still are thinking in terms of the prosperity era. The experience of Norwood, Mass., is a case in point. Some 300 jobless individuals in that town were offered free instruction by the Norwood recreational committee. Courses of training in practical gardening, sewing, cooking, and many other pursuits were available, the unemployed being permitted to choose the instruction they deemed best to answer their needs.

One would think such persons would welcome that opportunity. The knowledge, say, of how to raise much of their own food, how to cook well balanced meals on meager rations, how to recondition wornout clothing, and do other things of like nature should prove exceedingly valuable to the family with a depleted income. Yet how many jumped at the chance to acquire such knowledge?

Of the 300 men and women to whom the training was offered, 134, between the ages of 24 and 48, asked to be taught modern dancing.

Forty-two elected to be instructed in the intricacies of contract bridge.

Admittedly, things of that nature are invaluable in keeping up the morale of people who are out of jobs and see no immediate prospect of getting employment. They should not be left out of any adequate relief program. Nevertheless, things could be worse when forty-five out of a hundred wish for nothing more than ability to do the rhumba.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WE DON'T BELIEVE any such thing! That is, that Mr. Roosevelt took names out of the telephone books from all over the country, shook 'em around in a big tub, and then threw 'em up at the ceiling and those that stuck went into the cabinet. For how do you know they had a telephone?

ONE ILLUSION after another vanishes as we travel wearily on through this vale of tears. Personally we've always preferred reading history to any kind of writing. Novels we've never cared much for because they never happened; we wanted realities and so read history because it told what had actually happened. And then last night in reading an old book on the civil war or the war between the states, depending on which side of Mason and Dixon's line you happen to live, we ran smack into this: "The fact is, history, 'that vast Mississippi of falsehoods,' as Matthew Arnold styled it—particularly military history—is simply an aggregation of special pleas for this one or that."

AND THINKING OVER a lot of history that we've read, especially biographies that deal with history, we are inclined to believe there's a lot of truth in that "it's simply an aggregation of special pleas for this one or that."

SONNET.

The heart that's breaking makes no sound at all,
Less than a petal leaving any rose,
Less than the moment when the red leaves fall
Or the slow stir of loneliness that goes
Over the water at the winter's call.
There is an instant when the crisis grows
Greater than sound, when the deep pulse is tall
As a green tree that topples in the close,
And silence thunders in the stricken heart
That falters for a little and returns
To the recurrent beat of sorrow's day,
The long sick surge that cleaves a life apart.
The heart that's breaking for a moment burns

IF YOU HAVEN'T fallen for it yet, then don't. When somebody tells you that he'll make a bet that six months after the Democrats take hold of the government you'll be getting wooden money just say you've heard it and say his money will be as welcome as any other. This thing isn't really worth exposing, but this lame joke is based on the fact that within six months money signed by William H. Woodin as secretary of the treasury will take the place of the greenbacks we have now with Uncle Andy's signature on them. Maybe if it's sprung on you you needn't make the comeback we suggested. Just stamp on his left foot or push him into a snow pile.

AND EVEN if they make the hole on the putting green eight inches in diameter, what of it? There are any number of golfers that could miss that cup if you planted a bathtub in its place in the green. It doesn't seem possible, but they're simply wonderful that way. It's a gift, that's what it is.

BAD NEWS for us Lucy Stone leaguers! The U. S. comptroller has ruled that married women's names on the governmental pay rolls must be carried as such. And Miss Frances Perkins, expected to be Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of labor—oh, what of her? Is Frances to give up that for which she has fought and bled and died, the right to her own name? Must she sign Mrs. Paul C. Wilson when she gets her pay check? Never, never, never! A dastardly attack on women's inalienable rights! Up, girls, to arms, to arms! On to Washington!

A NEW RAILROAD ENGINE, the Diesel electric, in a tryout on the main line from London to Birmingham accomplished the run at the rate of sixty-five miles an hour. It's expected they'll soon be in use in the United States. That'll make it a little harder for the "I'll beat that train to the crossing" drivers, but, gosh, that isn't going to discourage 'em any. They'll try, anyhow.

CONFUCIUS AND HIS DOG.

Confucius, after wandering for years,
Accompanied but by his blinded dog
Approached his home with poised indifference.
He walked through unchecked growth of cinnamon
And willow trees that hung above his path.
Strange vines had come to twine themselves about
The ancient trunks of noisy sycamore.
And in a briar branch hanging like a noose,
Across the ancient way, the dog Yo Fei
Was caught up in the thorned impediment
And breathed his last before Confucius knew.

He called Shan Ko to bring the dampened cloths,
Rice wine and brandy of the mulberry:
But all were useless. Yo Fei had escaped . . .
Had gone to join the ribboned unicorn
Confucius' mother saw when he was born.
Shan Ko brought straw into the rock garden
Confucius chose for Yo Fei's burial place.
They worked together with their slow needles
Sewing a shroud for Yo Fei's mangy form.
And as he lay there under blue-gray slate
Confucius wiped a tear from dimming eyes,
And shaping soil between his curving palms
He said, placing a pungent cherry bloom,
"At parting, friends should never say farewell,

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON say that Mr. Hoover will not ride with Mr. Roosevelt at the head of the great parade down Pennsylvania avenue after the inaugural ceremonies at the capitol. It's just as well; they're fishermen and they'd be so busy telling about the ones they caught and the big fellows that got away and that sort of thing they'd forget to hist their silk hats every thirty-two and a half seconds to the cheering throngs.

LACK OF WINTER SUNSHINE.

THERE is an old children's story about the grasshopper that sang all summer and, being very busy enjoying himself, stored nothing for the future. When the winter came he starved.

When it comes to sunshine man is no grasshopper. He may sing all summer, but nature does not permit him to be improvident, so far as sunshine goes. He stores it for the winter in the form of oil soluble vitamins and this supply he draws on for his own profection and welfare during the very lean winter season.

In northern climates in midwinter the sun stays above the horizon less than nine hours. Until it is somewhere near three hours up in the morning its rays penetrate so much dirt and water soaked air that they lose all of their ingredients needed by man except light and heat. And the same holds true of the several hours just preceding the setting. From this small remainder are to be subtracted the hours of cloud, rain, snow, and fog. Between the few hours of sunlight and the poor quality of the ray very little of the health giving properties of sunlight are available to inhabitants of northern cities in midwinter.

A study of the vitamin producing capacity of sunlight in different months of the year, made at New Brunswick, N. J., and extending over four years, showed January as the worst month, giving that month a value of 3. December and February tied for second place with one of 4. Conditions are practically as bad in these two months as in January. November had a rating of 6; March, 8. In the opinion of many March is the month in which the supply about equals the need, November, December, January, and February being the debtor months. April had a rating of 9; October and May, 14; June, 15; September, 16; July, 25; August, 27.

In hours of effective sunshine the rating was substantially the same. In this table December was lowest with a rating of 1. January followed with a rating of 1.5; November, 2; February and October, 2.5; March, 4; September and April, 6; May, 7.5; July, 11; June, 12; August, 15.

It is worth while noting that in sickness prevalence the months arrange themselves in practically the opposite order. July and August are the healthiest months. Sickness begins to increase in the autumn and reaches its peak about March 1. Then begins the spring decline.

SHINGLES.

T. J. R. writes: Kindly publish cause, preventive, and remedy, and average duration of shingles.

REPLY.

Shingles is herpes, a kind of fever blister. It is caused by an infection of the nerve roots by a virus, or some microbe. As a rule the pain leaves in a week or two and the eruption is healed by another week. Soothing salves are applied locally. The various salicylic preparations internally ease the pain. Physicians are trying out some newer methods, some of which promise to be better than the old ones.

HIVES.

L. writes:

1. What is the cause of hives?
2. How can I get rid of them?

REPLY.

1. The cause of hives is exposure to something to which you have been sensitised. As a rule, this is some food. However, there are other possibilities.
2. Avoid the cause.

POEM FOR INSOMNIA.

Miss C. V. W. writes: I was interested in your advice to some woman who found it difficult to go to sleep. You suggested she spend the time in "quiet happiness." Excellent advice, but not so easy in these times. I would like to tell her and others of a device which I have used successfully for many years. Select some rhythmic poems, preferably descriptive of nature, so that one can visualize them easily. Memorize them and go through them as silently and slowly as many times as are necessary. For example, I find Lew Sarrett's "Frail Beauty" or "Wind in the Pine" admirably adapted to the purpose. They are expressed with rare beauty and are full of a woodland philosophy—most soothing to a tired or restless spirit.

2. Are they good for children under five years?

1. Yes.
2. Yes.

FIREMEN'S PENSION.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly inform me the amount of pension a fireman's widow would receive providing the fireman lost his life in the line of duty prior to the new pension law effective July 1, 1931?

M. A. W.

Under the provisions of section 10 of the firemen's pension law of 1917, which was in effect until June 30, 1931, the widow of any fireman dying from any cause was entitled to a pension of $45 per month for life or until marriage.

INHERITANCE TAX.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A woman died in Indiana in 1929 leaving an estate appraised at between $13,000 and $15,000 to three sons and three daughters. 1. What would the inheritance tax on an estate of this amount be? 2. Approximately what would the administrator's and attorney's fee be? 3. If one of the sons should die before the estate is settled, leaving no children, would his widow receive his full share or only a portion? F. E. M.

1. Since the Indiana exemption to a child under 18 is $5,000 and to a child over 18, $2,000, it seems probable that there will be no tax.
2. Depends on facts that are not before us.
3. If both parents are dead then the surviving spouse takes all.

PROPERTY DESCENT.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A man in Wisconsin died ten years ago leaving about $100,000. Two grown children and a [2] second wife survived. The wife died last October leaving no will. A niece of the second wife now claims all this man's property. Can she take it away from these children? She never did anything for her aunt. 3. While this stepdaughter was the stepmother's slave for ten years, in all that time she never grew mentally or physically. M. W.

1. If he has left no will his widow and his children would share.
2. Her property, including what she received from her husband, would descend to her relatives.
3. She may be in a position to file a claim for services against the estate.

LEGAL SERVICES.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can land be purchased without the aid of a lawyer? 2. Can a deed be drawn without cost? I am planning on buying some land, but the price being very small its seems very foolish to hire a lawyer. E. K.

1. The law does not require the employment of an attorney, but unless you have had experience in such matters the dispensing with expert advice would be poor economy. You would run the risk of acquiring a bad title or being overreached in the tax adjustment.
2. Depends on your ability in such matters.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 25, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A long session of the senate brought a heated attack upon the attitude of President Wilson toward the war issue. The session also brought to a climax and collapse a filibuster by the Republican senators against administration measures. At midnight Republican leaders agreed with their Democratic colleagues to take a final vote on the big revenue bill next Wednesday night, Feb. 28, at 8 o'clock. The Republicans insist, however, that they will not relax their efforts to force an extra session of congress after March 4. The debate upon the administration's policy toward Germany proved the most sensational that has occurred since relations with that nation were severed. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts voiced the discontent with the administration, having been aroused to it by a charge from Senator John Sharp Williams that Republicans in congress were embarrassing Mr. Wilson in his handling of the German crisis.

NEW YORK.—Women of the lower east side and other Jewish districts gathered in Madison square to protest against the high cost of living. Hundreds brought with them their children, some of them in arms. Some men also came, and at the height of the demonstration perhaps 3,500 were listening eagerly to speeches that were being delivered simultaneously from six stands. Three hours of speechmaking aroused the crowd to an unexpected mood. It found its manifestation when Mrs. Bella Neuman Zilberman, one of those in charge of the meeting, said: "How many of you will go there and march about that palace of eats—the Waldorf Astoria—where Gov. Whitman is stopping, and show him that you are hungry? You need no leaders, let your empty stomachs be your leaders." "Five thousand of us!" cried the crowd, and before any one was quite aware of what was happening the descent upon the Waldorf was under way. Police were unable to stop the march. Warned of the approach of the marchers, employés of the Waldorf bolted the doors. The women beat on the glass doors and some ventured to climb through windows. Cries of "We want to see the governor" and "Our babies are starving" echoed from the sidewalk. It was late in the evening before the police finally succeeded in dispersing the mob.

THE HAGUE.—Holland's strained relations with Germany are near the breaking point as a result of attacks by submarines on seven Dutch steamers. General indignation is expressed over the attacks, which are termed "deliberate." Only a short time ago the foreign minister announced that Germany tacitly agreed to except Dutch ships from attack up to Feb. 22, "but could not guarantee absolute safety." The seven ships were attacked on Feb. 22.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports the capture of the village of Petit Miraumont, south of here, in France. The British line south of Sere has been pushed forward on a front of more than a mile and a half. Berlin admits the advance of the foe in the Somme sector. An Austrian force in the valley of the Drave was dispersed by Italian troops and almost entirely annihilated, Rome says. Italian raids on enemy trenches southeast of Goritz are chronicled. Eleven ships were sunk by submarines yesterday, four British and seven Dutch. The total ships sunk since Feb. 1 now number 164, with a tonnage of 330,200.

CHICAGO.—Chicago's cold storage warehouses and commission firm cellars are fairly bulging with foodstuffs, while a so-called shortage of these same commodities is sending prices to a point prohibitive to the poorer classes and even beyond the comfortable reach of middle class families. This fact was brought out yesterday, the first day of a city-wide food census by municipal and federal authorities to learn the causes of high prices, when three groups of investigators entered warehouse after warehouse. These they found packed to capacity with tons and tons of meats, poultry, dairy products, vegetables, eggs, potatoes, and other necessities, some of which apparently have been in storage for months. Whenever the investigators sought information as to the factors or the persons to be blamed there was almost frantic buck passing from middleman to retailer, from retailer to jobber, and back to the commission men.

CHICAGO.—There is a famine of women workers in the country. Jobs for 10,000 domestics are open at high wages, and it is impossible to find workers to fill them. This is the declaration of Col. Alexander M. Damon, field secretary of the Salvation Army in the eastern territory, with headquarters at New York, who is in Chicago. "Good women in domestic service are practically unobtainable," said Col. Damon.

THEY ALL HAVE TO TRY THE BOOT STRAP THEORY.

HOW TO GET THE MONEY.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Monday's editorial exhortation to the police to enforce the purchase of state license plates and city vehicle tags manifests no evidence of any more profound thought than that city and state need money—the same old cry. The editorial offers nothing more constructive to the subject than has any former editorial assault.

There is a far more potent solution than the ineffectual expedient now invoked. We can learn from California. Of course the cities, towns and villages out there haven't even heard of a municipal wheel tax for private vehicles. But the state sets a deadline shortly after the first of the year. After that applicants for licenses on cars registered the previous year must pay a penalty. There is no court procedure. The price just goes up, that's all.

If proof of its efficacy beyond the simple statement that I saw the California method operate and produce is needed we can at least get all the substantiation we need from our own courts. Observe motorists summoned into court producing evidence of application [usually made after issue of arrest slip] in order to escape fine. This fact and even the most simple understanding of human nature indicate the average human's aversion to any penalty measured in dollars and cents. J. E. T.

LICENSE PLATES.

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 22.—I noticed what you have to say concerning 1932 license plates still being used in Illinois. It would seem to me it is up to the secretary of state to grant an extension of time to a certain date in 1933 [if the cost of plates is the same as in Michigan] in times of stress like we are in. If this law were rigidly enforced on Jan. 1 it would necessitate about 80 per cent of the car owners leaving cars in garages, thus depriving the owners of use and the state of gas tax. Jan. 1, when most people are thinking of their heavy taxes, just one thing more makes a little too much. RAINER FIELD.

THE MILK MONOPOLY.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 2.—The foreign farmers in Wisconsin are on strike and won't ship milk to Chicago, and your Pure Milk association won't let the American farmers of Illinois join and keeps them out of the Chicago market. If Illinois farmers were allowed to sell milk in Chicago, Chicago might not have to pay such big state taxes.

IN PRAISE OF A CONDUCTOR.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Just a word of praise for conductor 1609 on the Englewood "L."

He's a stout, good natured lad, who considers it part of his duty to request the male seat hogs to move over and make room for the standing female passengers.

What this city needs is not a good five cent cigar; it is more conductors like him. C. A. D.

TOO MANY DOCTORS!

Chicago, Feb. 22.—It is hardly surprising that Mayor Cermak is tossing about nervously in bed with brief snatches of sleep. I believe a daily attendance and frequent examinations by seven physicians would suffice to render a healthy man either desperately ill or insane, to say nothing of one whose heart and nerves have already been strained to the utmost by the tragic incident.

Why make a clinic of our poor mayor?

BERNICE A. RODZINSKI, R. N.

THE CHURCH IN RELIEF.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The writer has seen no answer to the statement printed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Feb. 3 wherein Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal church assailed the policy of the Illinois relief commission in allotting state funds to the Catholic church for distribution to its own needy. As on the face of things this seems a serious and questionable departure, Bishop Stewart's point would appear to be well taken; in fact, intelligent Catholics would be more quick to sense a church and state affiliation danger than he would be. But no traditional dust must be allowed to obscure the present crisis. Aid for the unemployed has passed from the realm of mere eleemosynary effort to a life and death basis. This is true of the state which supplies the funds as it is of the recipients. Granted the vital necessity of relief, relief costs are mounting, and such as have to do with administration must be kept down in every way.

It is this thought, I believe, which was at the back of the policy announced by the state relief commission. Due to its parish organization and a charitable auxiliary named the St. Vincent de Paul society the Catholic church functions in the charitable field with impressive directness, and, since the members of the St. Vincent de Paul society serve without pay, the administrative overhead is practically nil as compared with secular agencies. There can be no question of the right of a Catholic person to receive state aid as well as the non-Catholic citizen, and the state has a right to allot its dollar where it will yield the most relief for every one hundred cents expended.

On the whole, non-Catholic well-wishers and Bishop Stewart can feel that the relief funds of the state, so far as they apply to Catholics, will be efficiently administered. In fact, this writer overheard one family state that while, as Catholics, they were privileged to do so, they would not go on the Catholic relief list. They preferred to remain on the public relief list, believing their allotment per capita would be more liberal.

ELEVATED SERVICE ON A HOLIDAY.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Today apparently was declared a holiday by the elevated lines. Nevertheless there were still some of us who were obliged to work. The Loyola express carried, instead of the usual eight coaches, five, and the regular express also five, which simply meant that by the time the train arrived at the Argyle station it was packed, and those waiting were obliged to pass it up and could only hope the next train would be able to accommodate them in order that they might arrive at their place of business before noon.

Can't something be done to force these people to put on extra coaches whenever needed? Has our city nothing to say?

D. E. L.

THE BELMONT LINE.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Will not some one investigate why the Belmont avenue cars run so far apart? Why is it we have to wait so long, then have to crowd on like a herd of cattle or else wait another ten or more minutes? I know that the people using the Broadway or Clark street cars would not stand for such treatment. This condition has been going on for some months now.

PRUSSIA TO ARM HITLER'S TROOPS AS EXTRA POLICE

Nazis to Aid Regular Force Fight Reds.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's National Socialist storm troopers today were given power to act as guardians of the law in Prussia. A decree creating an auxiliary police force was issued by Capt. Hermann Goering, Prussia's Nazi minister of interior.

Though the decree does not refer specifically to the enrollment and arming of Nazi storm troops, Capt. Goering intends to appoint as many men from his own organization as possible. He has announced that only "nationalistic-minded" men will be eligible. The auxiliary police will wear distinguishing arm bands.

Capt. Goering did not say how many men will be enrolled, but political circles declare that he intends to arm 60,000 Nazis to assist Prussia's police.

[By the treaty of Versailles the entire German police force is limited to 140,000 men, of which 81,000 are allotted to Prussia.]

Blames "Communist Menace."

Capt. Goering blames the increasing "communist menace" for the necessity of appointing auxiliary police.

"The regular police force is working beyond their physical ability," he said. "Therefore it is impossible to get along without additional police.

"The auxiliary police will be used to assist the regular police in the enforcement of public order. They will also guard election meetings, protect offices of political organizations, and assist police in raids. In case of unrest and other emergencies, they will be used to support the regular police and will be detailed to protect public buildings and factories."

Opponents Up in Arms.

Opponents of the government are up in arms. They point out the impossibility of holding regular election meetings with armed storm troopers acting as censors and protectors of law and order.

Meanwhile Hitler spoke to cheering crowds in Munich, the Bavarian capital, and repeated his warning that he and his government will not relinquish power regardless of the outcome of the reichstag elections on March 5.

"We never will allow Germany to drift back into the hands of men who have destroyed her in the last fourteen years," he shouted.

Hitler was suported by Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Nazi minister of interior, who threatened the southern states with "dire consequences if they continue to consider the possibility of restoreting the monarchy.

"Whatever happens," he said, "we will remain at the helm of the government."

Hindenburg Faces Task.

Here in Berlin 85 year old President Paul von Hindenburg is facing what seems to be the most decisive week in his public career. Whatever the outcome of the election, his power to control and direct the men assisting him will decide the republic's fate for a year at least. He is fully aware of his task.

"I took an oath to uphold the constitution. I want to respect that oath, but for the sake of my fatherland it may be better to disregard parts of the constitution. I must fight this out with my conscience. The results of the election will help me see more clearly the path of duty."

Von Hindenburg definitely has abandoned the idea of resigning the presidency. He believes his presence in the executive palace is needed to control and curb the "Hitler hotheads." He continues to trust Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen implicitly.

Reports that the Nazis planned a "march on Berlin" after the election aroused the president. Before Hitler left for Munich, he summoned the chancellor and wrung from him a promise to forbid all post-election demonstrations by his own party or any other party.

BRITISH EXPRESS TRAIN LOST IN RAGING BLIZZARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Great Britain was swept yesterday and today by the heaviest snowstorm in more than 30 years. Many parts of the country are isolated and transportation has been disrupted by drifts 10 to 15 feet high. All means of communication are out off in some sections.

The Irish Mail, the Great Western railway's crack express train, due in London early this morning, was not reported for hours and Great Western railway officials admitted communication was so bad that they had no knowledge of the train's location. Shortly before midnight the train was located. A message from Swindon, midway between Fishguard and London, said the express had left there.

Railroad tracks throughout western Britain are littered with broken telegraph poles and service on all lines is crippled. Few bus lines are operating in southwestern England.

Late tonight three persons were reported dead. Two were frozen to death and a 19 year old boy was washed overboard from a fishing boat in the North sea.

Forty children were reported stranded in an auto bus north of London.

Norwegian Cabinet to Quit in Dispute Over Radicals

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Premier Jens Hundseid announced tonight that the government will resign tomorrow in consequence of the adoption by the legislature by a vote of 80 to 67 of a resolution of regret at the government's noncooperation with the Radicals.

NEW YORK BASIC TAX RATE LOWER ON CURRENT BILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—New York City's basic tax rate for this year will be $2.33, a reduction of 26 points from the 1932 rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessed valuation. Controller Charles W. Berry so announced this afternoon.

To the basic tax rate are added various additional assessments for local improvements in the five boroughs. Mr. Berry estimated that the total rate, by boroughs, this year will be: Manhattan, 2.43; The Bronx, 2.39; Brooklyn, 2.44; Queens, 2.48, and Richmond, 2.48.

The figures last year were: Manhattan, 2.68; The Bronx, 2.65; Brooklyn, 2.67; Queens, 2.74, and Richmond, 2.72.

Controller Berry said the balance in the city's general fund is now $1,045,195, and that it will approximate $32,245,195 later. That, with the drastic cut in the budget, will permit the rate of 2.33.

The reduction in the tax rate follows a reduction of $1,195,008,742 in assessed valuation of all taxable property in the city.

PHYSICIAN FACES TRIAL HERE AS COUNTERFEITER

Plot Hatched in Russia, Bogus Count Says.

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Judge Alfred C. Coxe in the federal court today signed an order directing the removal to Chicago of Dr. V. Gregory Burtan, New York physician who is under indictment there for possessing with unlawful intent $90,000 in counterfeit $100 bills.

Immediately after the order was signed Dr. Burtan's attorney, Benjamin Hartstein, presented a writ of habeas corpus to the court seeking his client's release on bail. Judge Coxe scanned the writ and denied it, and Hartstein asked time to prepare an appeal from the denial.

Differ on Origin of Money.

After some argument Dr. Burtan was released in Hartstein's custody on condition that the appeal be lodged with the federal Circuit court by Monday morning, at which time bail will be fixed for the defendant by that court.

Dr. Burtan, variously described as an agent of the soviet government and a reputable New York medical man, was born in Russia, but is now a naturalized American citizen. According to Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell his connection with the counterfeit money has been definitely established, though the question of how and where he obtained it is still a mystery.

Two stories of the origin of the money have been reported to federal authorities, one being that it was manufactured in Germany. Some weight is given to this story by the fact that "Count" Enrique Dechow von Buelow, a German aviator, is also under indictment in Chicago in connection with the passing of the bogus bills.

Printed in Russia—Von Buelow.

Von Buelow, who admits he is not a count, was arrested at the Newark airport several weeks ago as he alighted from a plane from Canada. He went to Chicago voluntarily.

The second story, which was told by Von Buelow himself, is that the $90,000 in question was a part of a large quantity of counterfeit currency of the United States, Great Britain, France, and Germany, which was printed secretly in Russia in 1928 for some purpose not revealed. This story is borne out somewhat by the fact that the bogus money of this country was all of the old style, large size, which was in circulation at that time.

Mr. Treadwell told Judge Coxe that another of the alleged conspirators, Frank H. Smiley, a private detective of Chicago, already had identified Dr. Burtan before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill as the man to whom Von Buelow introduced him and from whom the money was received.

FRANCE WARNED BY ITALY TO CURB 'PERIL TO PEACE'

Mussolini Backs Austria in Row Over Arms.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 24.—"Europe's peace is menaced by a grave and delicate situation which must cease immediately," Fulvio Suvich, Premier Mussolini's undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, told the chamber of deputies today.

His statement was in reply to interpellations from Deputy Iti Bacci on the Franco-British note to Austria on Feb. 11 regarding the Hirtenberg arms affair and the more recent agreement among the little entente countries (Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Slavia) reinforcing their alliance.

(Austria on Thursday suspended Egon Seefehlner, director general of the Austrian state railroads, on a charge of trying to have the 50,000 rifles involved in the Hirtenberg affair smuggled to Hungary after the government had promised France and Great Britain that they would be sent back to Italy.)

"This grave situation must not be prolonged and it must not overstep certain limits," Mussolini's mouthpiece said.

Suvich said the Italian government as yet is not possessed of full details of all clauses of the new agreement among the little entente powers and could not judge it yet, but he implied that there were secret military clauses in addition to the ones published.

He told the chamber that the pact between Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania, Bosko Jeftich of Jugo-Slavia, and Dr. Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia had alarmed world opinion because it was against the system and spirit of the league of nations.

Says Italy Remains Calm.

Italy, however, was following events without alarm or preoccupation, he said. "It is for the society of nations, not Italy, to be concerned with this new little entente pact," he continued, "for otherwise, the reasons for the league of nations' existence will be irreparably compromised."

The uproar which was raised about the shipment of 50,000 guns from Italy to Austria was a mere noise about nothing, Suvich said. The arms which were shipped through Austria were not new weapons, he said, but merely a lot of old rifles captured from Austria, which had been sent back to the factory for repairs. Suvich commented ironically that Austrian territory was evidently reserved for transhipment of arms between other countries—implying between Rumania and Jugo-Slavia.

Declaring that the French and British note had impaired Austrian sovereignty, Suvich said that Italy intervened in behalf of Austria because it did not think Austria should be submitted to the hard conditions of the French note.

FRANCE NAMES BODY TO COMBAT HOSTILE FEELING IN AMERICA

PARIS, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Concern over reports of an anti-French campaign in the United States as well as in other countries was expressed today in the senate foreign affairs committee, which appointed a subcommittee to study methods of combating this sentiment. The committee examined Franco-American relations since Dec. 15, when France defaulted in its war debt installment, and directed the chairman to keep in close contact with Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour on the debt question and on the world economic conference.

CUBA IN GRIP OF CENSOR; TROOPS RUSH TO INTERIOR

HAVANA, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Various disturbances throughout Cuba last night and today marked the republic's celebration of its 96th Independence day, but tonight the capital was without evidence to indicate any organized movement against President Machado's government, as had been rumored.

The government said "all is tranquil, but military censorship veiled the true situation in the interior. Two truckloads of troops left for a secret destination in the interior. A message over private wires said a railway bridge near Gaspar, in western Camaguey province, had been dynamited.

Eight bombs exploded harmlessly in Havana before dawn and at midday police raided the Y. M. C. A. building here. They found one submachine gun, eight rifles and shotguns and quantities of ammunition. The Y. M. C. A. president, Evelio Crespo, Secretary Eugenio Menendez, Dr. Orestes Figueredo, and Justo Gonzales Carrasco, professor in Candler college here, were arrested.

Canada to Give 60,000 Civil Employes 10 Pct. Cut

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The government won the first skirmish today in its plan to lop $8,000,000 off the national pay roll. The house of commons approved a resolution preliminary to introduction of a bill to cut 10 per cent from civil service salaries and the indemnities of members of parliament and senators. The cut would affect 60,000 persons.

CHICAGOAN HELD IN KIDNAPING AT EAST MOLINE

Moline, Ill., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—In default of $80,000 bond John Costagna, alleged Chicago gangster held in the Huughe kidnaping case, was jailed late today. Costagna's attorney said he might seek a writ of habeas corpus to have the bond lowered.

Costagna is charged with the kidnaping of Adhemar Huughe, an alleged East Moline bootlegger. He also is charged with extorting ransom from Mrs. Huughe.

Four others are under arrest on federal charges in connection with the kidnaping of Huughe and Fred De Filippi, Spring Valley. They are Dan Zook and Jules Veys, East Moline; Fred Barnum, Spring Valley, and Angelo Vota, Chicago. Other arrests are expected.

AMERICAN ENVOY PROBES DEATH OF U. S. SPORTSMAN

SURAKARTA, Java, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The American consul is investigating the death of John R. Fell, Philadelphia sportsman, who was found dead yesterday in the hotel where he and Mrs. Fell were staying during a brief visit to Java as part of a world tour.

Mrs. Fell told police that while her back was turned she heard her husband cry, "It's my fault. I did it." She turned and saw the handle of a knife protruding from his breast. She drew it out, then fainted. She knew of no motive for suicide.

She was unable to give any further help today, for a doctor had administered a strong sedative. Examination showed the knife had penetrated the coat and shirt and cut through a heart muscle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The paper alleges that many foreigners who acquired town properties during the inflation or "in the period when foreign capital poured into Germany" now are extracting the last cent of rent, evicting idle tenants and neglecting necessary repairs. Angriff announces that the police commissioner of Berlin will take action against these foreign property owners.

RAILROADS FIGHT TO MAKE BUSES PAY MORE TAXES

Taxpayers Join in Move to Regulate Trucks.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The Illinois Railroad and Taxpayers' association, formed two months ago, is conducting an active campaign throughout the state to place additional taxes and regulations on motor trucks and buses in the hope of increasing railroad revenue.

James M. Graham, Springfield attorney for four railroads and president of the Sangamon county chapter of the organization, this afternoon explained the aims of the association.

Use Public Pavements for Profit.

"Our thought is to tax and to regulate those who use the public's pavements for a profit," he said. "There is a bill in the general assembly that would have the desired results for common carriers and the legislature should apply these measures to contract carriers as well. The new Texas truck law is a good model."

The lawyer referred to H. B. 174, introduced by Representative Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur], which provides that the commerce commission "shall fix the same rates or charges or classifications for the service of motor vehicles that it fixes for the services of railroads of a like character."

Railroads Shackled, He Says.

"The rules of the boxing commission," Mr. Graham illustrated the point, "wouldn't permit a fight with one man shackled and barred from butting and biting and with the other free to punch, bite, kick, and butt. That's the way the competition between trucks and railroads is now being conducted."

"Would you suggest that the shackles be placed on the trucks or that the shackles be removed from the railroads?" he was asked.

"The railroads," he continued, "are now tied neck and heels by the law and by rules imposed by national and state commissions while their competitors are virtually unhampered by any legislation.

"The railroads have to buy their own right of way and construct their own road beds, whereas the public, including the railroads, provides the ground, builds the hard surfaced roads, and keeps them in repair and virtually presents the use of the highways to the truck and bus lines."

Pay $13,813,786 in Taxes.

Trucks and buses in Illinois last year paid $13,813,786 in license fees and gasoline taxes, according to the National Highway Users' conference. This was 30 per cent of the state's total revenue from these sources, paid by 12 per cent of the state's total motor vehicles.

The truck and bus operators contend that their tax for the use of the highways should be determined by their proportionate use of the pavements, that the taxes and fees should be fixed by the state after determining what share of the original construction cost, the maintenance, and the improvements are chargeable to these commercial users.

Circulate Petitions.

"The rates fixed for similar service by the railroads must also be considered in fixing rates to be charged by trucks and buses," Mr. Graham insisted.

Branches of the Illinois Railroad and Taxpayers' association are being organized in every county of the state. An organization meeting of the Cook county branch was held this week. They are gathering signatures to a petition calling for the legislature to place commercial highway users under further regulations and additional taxes. Eight thousand signatures have been obtained in Sangamon county alone.

John Reynolds, Roy Wallace, Delair McConnaughey, Richard Dittman, and George S. Gabriel, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Five members of a bandit gang, who had pleaded guilty on charges of robbery with a gun, were sentenced yesterday to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court. They are John Reynolds, 40 years old, the father of two grown daughters; Roy Wallace, 24 years old; Delair McConnaughey, 19 years old; Richard Dittman, 20 years old, and George S. Gabriel, 20 years old.

All of the men except Wallace invaded a New Year's eve party at the home of Carl Heim, 2621 Morse avenue, and robbed the guests. A bootlegger appeared during the robbery and was relieved of his money and five pints of whisky. Heim saw Reynolds on the street the next day and followed him to 3842 Sheffield avenue. Heim notified police and the arrests followed.

A sixth member of the gang, Carl Nelson, who pleaded guilty, was not sentenced yesterday because his attorney was not in court. The six men were identified and admitted from four to eight robberies each. Reynolds and McConnaughey are wanted on warrants issued in Green Bay, Wis., charging assault to kill. The warrants will be held until they have completed the robbery terms.

DODGE DISMISSED AS PHILADELPHIA SAFETY DIRECTOR

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mayor J. Hampton Moore today dismissed Kern Dodge as director of the department of public safety, an office in which many other directors have had stormy careers. There had been reports for ten months that the mayor and the director were at odds.

Today the mayor asked Dodge to resign, but the director refused, declaring he would trouble the mayor to discharge him. His removal followed.

Tonight Theodore F. Wood, the assistant director, was in command of the police, but whether he will succeed Dodge as director the mayor declined to say.

Dodge in private life is a consulting engineer and widely known in his profession. His appointment as director at the beginning of Mayor Moore's term in January last year came as a surprise to political leaders. It was a personal appointment, as Dodge had little experience in politics and had no influential backing from political leaders.

REFUSES TO LIFT BAN ON MEETINGS OF TAX STRIKERS

Judge William J. Lindsay in Superior court yesterday refused to dissolve the injunction prohibiting James E. Bistor, former president of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers' and John M. Pratt, former secretary, from holding a mass meeting of the 28,000 members, broadcasting speeches, handling the finances of the association, or acting as officials of the association. The injunction was amended, however, to prevent the present officers of the association also from broadcasting speeches.

Attorney Walter P. Murphy, representing Pratt and Bistor, appeared to seek dissolution of the injunction which was granted to Thomas D. Colline and six officials of the organization on Feb. 10. The lawyer asserted that neither Pratt nor Bistor had been suspended from membership, as charged by other officials, and alleged that the action had grown out of the wish of the plaintiffs to use $30,000 of the taxpayers' organization funds to put out a "newspaper" to attack public officials.

David Eisendrath, counsel for Collins and the other plaintiffs, told the court the newspaper plan had been dropped. He asserted also that the suspension of Pratt and Bistor had been voted by the organization's board of directors.

COUNTY RETAINS SHERIFF'S POLICE FORCE TO JULY 1

Members of the county board worked until late last night on a tentative budget for 1933. The budget must be officially completed by March 6, under the law.

Sheriff William D. Meyering gained a victory yesterday in his fight to retain his county highway police force of 100 men. Several weeks ago the Circuit court judges' committee on employment, which fixes the number of fee office employés, refused to authorize the continuance of the force on the grounds a metropolitan state police force was to be organized to do the county department's work. The county force was to end April 1.

The sheriff appeared before the judges' committee yesterday and represented that little progress had been made in organizing a metropolitan police force. The judges thereupon provided for the extension of the county force to July 1. Sheriff Meyering reported this extension to the county board and the board allowed $50,000 for this purpose.

Today will be given over to public hearings on the budget and citizens desiring to offer suggestions will be heard.

FIND F. H. ROLFE, 73, KILLED SELF AND BROTHER, 68

A verdict of murder and suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the deaths of Frederick H. Rolfe, 73 years old, and his brother, Clark, 68 years old. Testimony showed Frederick Rolfe killed his brother and then shot himself during a quarrel Thursday night in their home at 6512 Perry avenue.

George Colby, son-in-law of Frederick Rolfe, said the quarrel started when Frederick told his brother to stop whistling. Clark had been paroled from the state hospital for the insane at Dunning to the custody of his brother and the shooting is said to have occurred when Frederick discussed Clark's return to the hospital.

"I'm crazy and I'm going back to Dunning, so it doesn't matter," the younger brother is quoted as saying before the shooting. The father of the brothers, John Rolfe, was a south side pioneer. Frederick Rolfe is said to have operated a bicycle shop in Chicago at the time of the 1893 world's fair.

Too Much Oil Causes "Broken Mayonnaise."

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

A question from G. D. on mayonnaise troubles starts out the kitchen clinic this morning. "Can you tell me," she writes, "why my mayonnaise sometimes, not always, becomes thin and like liquid in the jar in about two weeks or longer. Also why, from the beginning, does it sometimes refuse to become thick and at other times becomes very thick?"

Your trouble, Miss D., is with what is known as "broken mayonnaise." Mayonnaise is a mixture in which finely broken up particles of oil are held separate from each other by some substance—usually egg yolk. In making mayonnaise the finer the particles become from beating the thicker the mixture gets. If too much oil is added this thick mixture will suddenly "break," the oil flow back together again, and the egg or other material which has formed a film to keep the oil particles apart will no longer be able to keep the mayonnaise stabilized or thick.

A number of things beside the addition of too much oil, however, can cause mayonnaise to break. Overheating, drying on the surface, freezing, or jarring can any of them cause thick mayonnaise to break. You will also find that the thicker your mayonnaise was when you made it the more tendency it has to separate.

As for your difficulty in making the mayonnaise stiffen, this may be due to several things. Fresh eggs are more satisfactory than storage eggs. A better result is usually obtained by beating all the vinegar and seasoning with the yolks at first and then adding the oil gradually later. Using ingredients of room temperature rather than chilled ones gives best results. Powdered arrow root cooked with water to a paste may be used instead of egg yolk as the stabilizer. It is far less effective, however, than egg yolk in keeping the mixture from "breaking."

Next, Mrs. A. V. asks, "How, when one bakes a coffee cake with chopped nuts on top, are the nuts kept on the cake?"

Usually just before the cake goes into the oven the top is brushed with unbeaten white of egg and the nuts sprinkled over this. The egg white stiffens enough to hold the nuts in place.

Now more questions about arrow root. This one is from M. E. S.: "How much arrow root is used for thickening when it is substituted for cornstarch or flour? How is it sold?" And from G. D. comes another: "How, in what form, and in what proportions is arrow root used in mayonnaise as a stabilizer?"

Arrow root, if you're not acquainted, is a starch obtained from the root of a small tropical plant of that name. It is powdered very finely and in this fine state has three times the thickening power of cornstarch. Cornstarch has about twice the thickening power of flour. Therefore if the recipe calls for cornstarch and you wish to use arrow root, use one-third the amount specified. Or if the recipe calls for flour and you wish to use arrow root, use one-sixth of the amount specified.

Flour, cornstarch, or arrow root pastes may be used instead of egg yolks as a stabilizer in mayonnaise to divide finely the particles of fat and keep the mixture thick or "in emulsion." To prepare the dressing by the arrow root method use the following recipe:

ECONOMY MAYONNAISE.

3 tablespoons arrow root paste
½ tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mustard
⅛ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon powdered sugar
1 cup oil

Prepare the arrow root paste by cooking one-half tablespoon of finely powdered arrow root with one cup of water. When the paste is cool but not firm, take three tablespoons of it and add to this amount the seasonings and vinegar, beating with a rotary egg beater. Then add the oil, a little at a time, beating steadily until the mayonnaise has formed.

Senator Walsh to Be Wed at Brilliant Rites

Highest Cuban Officials Will Attend.

BY GUSTAVO A. RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 24.—Senora Nieves Perez Chaumont Viuda de Trufin, multi-millionaire society leader, and United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh will be married here by Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Clemente Vivanco at 5 p. m. Monday in the ballroom of the United States embassy.

The future United States attorney general, who is 73, arrived here yesterday, traveling by air, and is staying at the embassy while his fiancee, who is 48, was making hurried preparations tonight at her palatial residence, Villa Trufin in Buena Vista, Havana suburb, to depart for Washington the day following the wedding. She has two sons.

The bride to be is the widow of Regino de Trufin, sugar producer, businessman, and honorary minister of Russia to Cuba under the late Czar Nicholas, who died here five years ago.

President Gerardo Machado will be a witness for the bride. Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim and President of the Senate Alberto Barreras will be witnesses for Senator Walsh.

The ceremony, promising to outshine any similar event ever held here, will be witnessed by the cabinet in full, province governors, mayors, congressmen, the army, navy, and police chiefs of staff, all the judiciary, officials of the United States embassy and consulate, and the elite of Havana's society. Eight hundred invitations already have been distributed through the offices of Secretary Guerra, the embassy, and the de Trufin home.

The ceremony will be devoid of religious rites due to the different creeds professed by the participants.

Interviewed tonight, the future Mrs. Walsh said, "I am happy to confirm my marriage to Mr. Walsh whom I met in New York in the spring of 1930. I saw him in Washington in the winter of 1930, dining with him at several times. It was merely a case of love at first sight and although we corresponded regularly ever since, I never saw him personally again but once when he visited me here during the spring of 1931. Tonight I am praying that God may let me kiss my beloved future husband again tomorrow.

"We will return to Washington in time for Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration. I only wish that some of Mr. Walsh's friends in Chicago and the western sections of the United States could be present at our wedding and I am availing myself of THE TRIBUNE'S courtesy to extend through its columns a most hearty invitation to all of his and my American friends."

The insect, which was discovered at Perth, was described as of a structure more primitive than any known living species, possibly identical with fossils of ancestors of the ant family—a species known as priono-myrmex, which was thought to have become extinct before the final evolution of man.

Every Girl to Have Beau on Benefit Cruise

Mrs. Breckinridge Provides College Boys.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF those lucky young women who are sailing today on the S. S. Belgenland for a fifteen day cruise to the West Indies sponsored by the patrons and trustees of the Frontier Nursing Service don't have the time of their young lives it won't be the fault of that gallant lady, Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, volunteer director of the service, for she has tried to arrange everything so that the young girls who are along will have such a jolly time that they will want to go on more of the service's cruises.

She hasn't forgotten the older ones, either, for many special things for their entertainment have been arranged, also, but the very most special thing is that there are to be enough college boys on board so that every single girl will have a beau. And a dancing beau, too, for Mrs. Breckinridge insisted that the boys from Harvard, Princeton, and Yale who were invited to go on the cruise not only should be on the deans' lists but that they should have sea and dancing legs.

Being on the deans' lists means that they are good enough students so that they can take enough "cuts" from classes to be absent two or three weeks without seriously interfering with their college careers. Mrs. Breckinridge arranged with the Mercantile Marine, from whom the service is chartering the Belgenland, to send these young college men on the cruise instead of cabaret entertainers. Two of those asked to go are Mrs. Breckinridge's own cousins, Bob Breckinridge of Harvard and Brook Alexander of Princeton, and there are no bluer bloods in this country than the Breckinridges, so the girls will be assured of aristocratic dancing partners and not just common "garden variety" gigolos!

Gen. Brown to Receive Party.

An outstanding event of the cruise will be a reception given by Gen. Preston Brown, who is in command of the Panama Canal Zone, for the entire passenger list. He will meet the boat at Cristobal, accompanied by an escort of airplanes and the marine band. The whole party will take a train to Balboa, where the general's house is located, and there he and Mrs. Brown will hold the reception.

Mrs. Breckinridge is the official hostess on the cruise, and another well known member of the blue grass aristocracy, Mrs. Joseph Carter, is the official volunteer chaperone. The Chicagoans on the cruise will be Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Charles S. Frost and her daughter, Miss Virginia Frost; Miss Betty Whatley, Miss Carol Bloomingston, Mrs. Richard Walsh and Miss Judith Walsh, and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse M. Watkins and Miss Elizabeth Watkins.

The Frontier Nursing service, which gives nursing service to mothers and babies in the mountains of Kentucky, plans to sponsor a similar cruise every winter as a means of covering the deficit in the budget. Mrs. Upham is chairman of the Chicago committee and Mrs. Frost, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Miss Naomi Donnelley, Mrs. Cornelius M. Trowbridge, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughey, Mrs. William V. Kelley, and Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell are a few of the Chicago women actively interested in supporting the service, which was started by Mrs.

Eleanor Blue Gown Is Ready for Inaugural

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The blue velvet costume which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will wear to her husband's inauguration as President was finished today, and the next mistress of the White House had her final fitting of the gown and wrap which were made for her by a 5th avenue shop.

The fabric is crystelle velvet, the dress of a springlike hyacinth shade known as "Eleanor Blue," and the wrap is a darker blue, somewhat lighter than navy, which, at Mrs. Roosevelt's suggestion, has been named "Anna Blue" for her daughter, Anna Roosevelt Dall.

Mrs. Roosevelt's inaugural gown is a one piece affair, distinguished by its simplicity of line. It had a draped crossed surplice, which rolls to a high V neckline, giving a standup effect in the back and forming a smooth peplum in the front. At the belt Mrs. Roosevelt will wear a jeweled buckle, given to her by her husband's godmother many years ago.

The skirt is ten inches from the floor, slightly flared below the knee. The sleeves are puffed from elbow to wrist, accentuated by fine inverted tucks and finished at the wrist with a narrow band of white mousseline de sole, repeated in a slim rolled undercollar at the throat.

The coat is a wrap around type in three-quarter length of "Anna Blue" crystelle velvet. Its wide shoulder effect is accentuated by a deep epaulette pleat and full puffed sleeves taper down to a bell effect at the wrists. A slim scarf is shirred at the neck into a small rolled collar.

With this costume Mrs. Roosevelt will wear a hat of Anna blue crystal Milan straw from the same establishment. The hat is a modified sailor type known as Watteau, with a band of grosgrain ribbon across the shallow crown and forming a small wing at the back, which has been slightly raised and cut out. It tilts slightly in the front and hugs the back of the head with a grosgrain ribbon band.

Mrs. Roosevelt will carry a large envelope purse made of antelope kid in the Anna blue shade, fastening with a metal clasp. Her gloves will be white glace kid in the fashionable eight button length and her shoes will be dark blue kid pumps, with medium heels.

Among the other costumes which Mrs. Roosevelt has assembled for wear at functions during the inaugural period are several outfits she has bought at other 5th avenue establishments. All are in some shade of blue, which has been a color favored by other White House ladies.

These include a dull blue satin gown in Eleanor blue to wear at the dinner for the Roosevelt cabinet members on the night before the inaugural ceremonies. This gown has a low back, a long skirt, and a panel train.

Good Morning!

Another "musical"! Yes, and a good one!

Intriguing tunes, pretty girls, gorgeous and unusual ensemble numbers trickily photographed, an A1 set of principals, commendable direction, and an interesting story are what "Forty-Second Street" has to offer. Enough?

The film gives the layman an idea of the tremendous labor and strain involved in the production of a successful revue. Never a sign of either in the gala scenes and smiling faces that front a first night audience; but, it seems, behind that entrancing swirl like in "After the Ball"—remember?—"Many the heart is aching, if you could read them all——"

He's the harried producer whose shot nerves and other anatomical irregularities worry his doctor, and who has been warned to slow up if he expects to live. He's lost much money in the last few years and must have a heap more if he's to take the long rest ordered by the physician. This revue MUST be a success . . . ! The uniqueness of his part lies in the fact that it is minus love interest. Abundance of romance in the air—but not for him. Well, he gives a bang-up performance.

Bebe Daniels as leading lady and George Brent as a vaudeville chap who loves and trails her from town to town do nice work. So do Una Merkel, Guy Kibbee, Ginger Rogers, etc. But to me the prize and surprise package of "Forty-Second Street" was little Ruby Keeler [Mrs. Al Jolson]. She is charming! There's a sort of bloom about both her personality and her work. Why have they been hiding her? She portrays a naive chorus girl who gets her big chance at the lead when—never mind . . . !

The photography is exceptionally fine throughout. There's a glamour about the piece and the back stage atmosphere is inveigling. "Forty-Second Street," "You're Getting to Be a Habit with Me," "Young and Healthy," and "Shuffle Off to Buffalo" are the song hits.

In my opinion this movie will bring you an hour of real enjoyment and relaxation. So why not try it, darlings?

Blazing Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

From the fact that many English heirloom quilts of this design have been found in the United States, we are able to deduct that the "Blazing Star" pattern was brought to the western world from England by the early colonists. Since then it has established itself firmly with us and is one of the most lucid of the galaxy of star patterns.

For a pattern of the "Blazing Star" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a cathoat on Peconic Bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to keep and sends Bart help and raises home. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived in seclusion on the island fifteen years. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. He confesses in a letter left for Bart to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly Island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his invalid mother's sake, to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. When Bart realizes he loves Alice he resolves to stay away from Folly Island. He sees a lot of Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcee, and soon finds himself unexpectedly engaged. The Bayleys visit New York, and Bart sees them. Ingy Warren has been visiting the Island and has invited Alice to Wyattville. Bart tells Alice of his engagement. Hen Love, an oil catcher, long employed by the Bayleys, tries blackmail when he sees their newly acquired affluence. Ingy invites Alice and her mother to Wyattville for the annual flower show. Alice takes first prize with her exhibit.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

CONFLICTING MYSTERIES.

Then in came Aunt Augusta, trailing robes of royal purple. With her gay air, determined to enjoy Wyattville society, she was like an out-moded tragedy queen perversely playing a comic rôle. She all but pirouetted before the plebeian Mrs. Warren and the utterly mysterious Bayleys.

Bart Burgess, standing apart, a troubled Hamlet in modern clothes, felt again the whisper of impending calamity. He watched the girl as she smiled, answered questions, decked herself with the ribbons proper to a public appearance. She's getting what she wants, he thought bitterly, and she's too vain to go home. The Warrens will trot her all over Wyattville, and Ingy'll fix it somehow so that she gets to our house. . . .

She didn't want to talk to Bart, that was apparent; but in every crowd there comes the moment when people separate and the central figure stands alone. He took his opportunity and said thickly:

"Alice, I'm glad you're having a good time here. I want you to be happy, in every possible way. And that's why I've got to ask you not to——"

Now Lora was on them, her arm hooked in Mrs. Bayley's. Rattling on, she asked if they didn't ever go to Belmont Park. Then Ingy sauntered back to the group just as Aunt Augusta came striding up with two new arrivals, Gen. and Mrs. Jacob Newell Farnham of Philadelphia. The general, bald, dumpy, puffing, his wife, thin, dark as an Italian, narrow-eyed, unassailable with a stiff fall hat pinned to her Spanish war pompadour. The visitors from Folly Island were busy with Ingy Warren when Aunt Augusta intruded mightily, and almost formidable was her air.

"This is Mrs. Bayley, Mrs. Farnham," she said sententiously. "And Gen. Farnham. And Miss Bayley, Gen. and Mrs. Farnham."

Mrs. Bayley was smiling when she raised her eyes. She had reached out her hand to meet Mrs. Farnham's. Then her arm seemed to wither like a neglected stem. Withered, too, was her face. The poise with which she had armed herself against every emergency had melted away, leaving her ashy pale and weakly defiant. All in the flash of Mrs. Farnham's cruel little eyes this change was visible.

"How do you do?" asked Mrs. Farnham with all the sweetness of broken glass.

"How do you do?" asked Mrs. Bayley, again nicely balanced to meet the emergency. Mrs. Farnham's gaze, sharp as a knife, dug into Alice, then she took her husband's arm and moved to another side of the room.

For Bart the luncheon was pandemonium. It was as though twenty mad people had met together to make a noise in a cave of echoes. Mrs. Warren had Gen. Farnham on her right, and down at the other end of the table Col. Warren was making his usual ebullient fuss over Mrs. Bayley. Noise, noise, noise. Ingy, across the table, working all his bag of tricks on Alice. Bart sitting next to Lora, one fist clenched under the table, wanting to go berserk, to bust Ingy in the jaw, to turn the whole affair into a carnival of bloodshed. Lora, rattling in his ear like a badly aimed machine gun. . . The Farnhams weren't so hot for the Bayleys. Did Bart notice that? And why? There was something funny about those Bayleys.

Bart answered mechanically, but his eyes were roving toward Alice and her mother. Alice's eyes were unrevealing aquamarines, focussed on Ingy. Mrs. Bayley sat calmly talking to her host, showing no interest in anything but what he said to her and she replied.

That was the mad hatter's luncheon, as Bart remembered it. Talk, talk, talk, and something deadly, like an invisible vapor passing between Mrs. Farnham and Mrs. Bayley; they never looked at each other, but their poison permeated the room. The flower of Wyattville, gathered there, seemed to feel it, pretend it wasn't there. Some ancient feud, reopened between two women who by all outward evidence should not have known of one another's existence.

"Did Ingy do that?" Bart asked Lora suddenly.

"Do what?"

"Bring the Bayleys and the Farnhams together?"

"Shouldn't wonder. What's the tragedy, if he did?"

"There isn't any."

"Am I?"

But he couldn't keep his mind on Lora. He was watching Mrs. Farnham just as she arose with dignity, shook hands with Mrs. Warren and passed out of the room, the general puffing after her.

In the confusion of conflicting mysteries Bart plucked at one small idea, a thread in the great tangle. Lora fully realized that he was in love with Alice. You can't keep anything away from women. Yes, but there was one woman who had let herself be fooled for a lifetime. His mother. And it was his work today, more fiercely than ever before, to keep her fooled.

Luncheon over, the crowd breaking up, Alice and her mother went into the main hall in charge of Ingy and Aunt Augusta, watchful as a police escort. Then Col. Warren had joined them with a set of his mechanical anecdotes. Bart, giving little or no heed to what Lora was saying, stood on the outskirts, determined now to warn Alice, harshly if needs be, away from his mother's house.

"Lamb pie," begged Lora, a little shrilly now. "I won't you trot out to my car and gather up my handbag and my gloves and my special kind of cigarets?"

Bart went down the veranda and out into the parking space in search of Lora's car. Naturally it wasn't there. She never put anything where you'd expect to find it. At last he saw it, parked among the weeds across the road. In the tonneau was a purse and one glove, but no cigarets. He rummaged a while, gave it up and started back with what he had found. . . .

Distantly, for Lora had parked her little blue roadster fully a block away from the clubhouse, Bart saw the Warrens' limousine drawing up to the veranda. People were filing down the steps, getting into the car; the Warrens, the Bayleys, Aunt Augusta. He almost ran to catch up with them, but the big limousine moved away.

"Where are they going?" he asked excitedly when he saw Lora on the porch.

"Somewhere to look at flowers," she said scornfully. "Tell you what let's do, presh. Come on over to my shanty and I'll show you a pile of Paris shopping guides that mother's collected. I mean, we've decided to go to Paris, haven't we?"

Big Ten Beauty Winner May Get Film Bid

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 24.—Blanche Waddell of the University of Illinois, the dimpled girl who was chosen as "Miss Big Ten" in the recent comparison of campus beauty types from western conference schools, may shortly become a motion picture actress and join Kathleen Burke of Chicago, Verna Hillie of Detroit and other recently imported midwest beauties under contract.

The Paramount studio is interested in Miss Waddell's film possibilities. I was told at the studio today that Paramount had opened negotiations through its Chicago office to have the Paramount news reel men there give Miss Waddell some screen tests. It isn't a question of whether she is naturally pretty enough; the photos convince them of that; but it's a question of animation, how her beauty registers in action, and how much of the girl's personality transmutes itself onto the screen.

Rita Kaufman, stylist at Fox's, says black linen will be "very smart" for beach wear this summer; either black linen pajamas or ankle length dresses, "which are a little newer." She also says: "Your hats can't be too big to show real chic. If possible, they should be the same color as your dress or pajamas." She also says: "Cotton materials will be the summer fashion, even for luncheons and semi-formal affairs."

The footage about adventurous doings in Arabia which Ernest Schoedsack just brought back from Asia Minor will be made by Radio-RKO into a film titled "The Uncrowned King."

Consistency Is Important in Training Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The last mother to be quoted in our column this week has children of all ages and varied experiences. She writes: "Some years ago, when lectures to parents were becoming popular, a noted psychologist came to our town to give such a lecture. We went to hear him and came away with one thought which we have never forgotten in our own job as parents.

"At the opening of the talk he gave a brief resumé of what was believed to be the mechanism of habit formation. He explained something of children's emotional life and needs, and so forth. He told us parents where we had been failing in different directions, but the one thing he said that I have not forgotten was this. "'In guiding your children keep up a gentle, continuous pressure. Let them get used to the reins of a skillful driver. Good drivers don't jerk at their horses' mouths; they don't use the whip. The slightest movement of their reins is recognized and responded to by a horse that is not spoiled by bad driving.'

"Talk about driving horses sounds like ancient history to this generation. But the same principle prevails in driving an automobile. The best drivers handle their cars quietly. They do not rush around corners, ignore traffic regulations, start and stop with a bang, wearing out the brakes, etc. They do not insist on getting ahead of every one else on the road all the time.

"Just so, the parent who manages his child best is the one who does it quietly, but steadily. He doesn't ask a great deal of the child, but he does ask the things he thinks really necessary.

"Each parent will know which things really ought to be done by his child, if he considers the matter carefully. But when he has decided what he should require of his child he has only just begun. The gentle, consistent pressure must now be applied, not one day or sometimes, but every day and all the time. He must make it his business to help the child to keep the rules."

Every Girl to Have Beau on Benefit Cruise

Mrs. Breckinridge Provides College Boys.

Breckinridge and of which she is a volunteer director.

Miss Mary MacCaughey and Miss Katherine Trowbridge are the only Chicago girls who have been couriers and seen active service.

Tommy Leiter of Age Today.

Today is the day that Tommy Leiter comes of age—and that means something when you're a Leiter even in these times of depression—and tonight is the night that he is celebrating his birthday and the betrothal of Miss Constance Hasler and John MacLaren Simpson with a party for 100 at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest.

The party is to be a supper dance and one of the largest affairs being given for Miss Hasler and Mr. Simpson before their wedding March 18 in the Church of the Hody Spirit in Lake Forest. Although Miss Hasler was in bed yesterday with a cold, she assured her host that she would be "up and about" today.

The very fact that Mr. Leiter has scooped every one else in having the fashionable Onwentsia club opened for his party after a winter of dark silence is enough said for the gay time that is in store.

Preceding the dance Miss Audry Campbell, a cousin of Mr. Leiter, is giving a dinner for 24, including the host, Miss Hasler, and Mr. Simpson, at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest. The table will be spread before the great log fire and gayly decorated in spring flowers. Another group of Mr. Leiter's Onwentsia guests will dine at the Deerpath as the guests of the Walter Movings, who are occupying the James Haywards' Lake Forest house this winter.

"Bock to Beer" Party Tonight.

So far the originators of the "Bock to Beer" party which is being given tonight have remained unknown, but he or she or they must be "in on the know" [and it is popularly thought that a group of twelve organized it] for the couples have been admirably paired off, each "invite" having had some one's name on his invitation for him or her to escort or accompany.

A few of the couples are Miss Nancy Traylor and Torrey Wilkins, Miss Edna Doering and Joseph Nolan, Miss Ethel Dixon and John Davis, Miss Helen Marie Castle and Eugene Talbot III., Miss Marion Gordon and John R. Hurley, Miss Barbara Eldridge and Philip B. Hosmer Jr., Miss Suzanne Morris and William A. Little, Miss Isabel Gordon and Cyrus H. Adams III., Miss Barbara Graf and Charles Connel, Miss Grace Fitzmorris, and John Barsbach.

Walter Egan Trevvett will go "stag" because Miss Margaret Hamill has gone east to a prom, and Edward Sullivan will also go unaccompanied. Two or three of the girls have borrowed beer suits and others are getting out beach pajamas, and another is thinking of wearing her maid's uniform. Rompers and shorts well known in service club circles will once again come into their own.

Mrs. Frank Sims to Be Busy Today.

Mrs. Frank Sims will be one of the busiest young matrons in town today. This noon she is to be one of the hostesses for the luncheon the Chicago alumnae of Dana hall at Wellesley, Mass., are giving at the Woman's Athletic club, and this evening with Mr. Sims she will entertain a party of ten at dinner at International house at the University of Chicago preceding the performance of Camille."

Miss Dorothy Waldo, acting principal of Dana hall, arrived in the city yesterday to address the Dana luncheon. Other hostesses will be Miss Helen Dawes, Mrs. Royal Cooper Vilas Jr., Miss Margaret Goehst, Miss Molly Mason, Mrs. Rudolph E. Prussing, and Mrs. Charles Ward Seabury.

Another activity at International house today is the students' bazaar from noon until midnight. The foreign students living at the house will exhibit the handicrafts of their native lands.

The reception the Alumnae club of the university is giving at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Ida Noyes hall is expected to bring out a notable group of faculty members and donors to the school. Frederick A. Stock, leader of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Charles H. Hamill, president of the Orchestral association, will speak, and the University String quartet will give a musical program. Mrs. Portia Carnes Lane, president of the Alumnae club, and Mrs. Barbara Miller Simpson, social chairman, will be hostesses.

Tea on Tuesday for Irish Players.

"You will know them by their carnations—green ones, to be sure," was the message yesterday concerning the Irish players from the Abbey theater, Dublin, who are to be guests of the English Speaking union at tea Tuesday afternoon at the Palmer house. For several days officials of the union have been wondering how they would distinguish the players in the crowd that is expected to attend the tea, and then suddenly one of them hit upon the carnation idea.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker will introduce at least three of the players, who will tell of their experiences both here and in Ireland. Hostesses for the tea will be Miss Clara Gilbert, Mrs. Everett L. Millard, Miss Beatrice Borland, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Lewis Barnays, and Mrs. G. Russell Leonard.

Mrs. George W. Dulany Jr., who has been in Miami visiting her mother and in Nassau and Dallas, Tex., visiting friends, is expected home tomorrow.

Mrs. William O. Green of Winnetka and her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, will leave Monday for a month's stay at Phoenix, Ariz.

The Henry C. Bartholomays of Winnetka, who have been at Nassau, are now in Palm Beach. Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr., also of Winnetka, is another one of the Chicago colony at the Brazilian court in Palm Beach now.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Henneberry have gone to Palm Beach for a fortnight's stay. Mr. Henneberry's sister, Mrs. Henneberry Robertson, is planning to go south later in the season, but their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Henneberry, have no plans for traveling this winter.

On March 8 several autos will start for Biloxi, Miss., and two or three of them will be filled with Marshalls—Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, Miss Dorothy Marshall, Benjamin H. Marshall Jr., Mrs. Richard H. Fleming, the former Betty Marshall, and her small blonde daughter. Several of their friends probably will be down there with them for the two weeks they are going to spend at the resort.

Mrs. C. Lewis Moore arrived in town Thursday to visit her friends, the Charles Webber McNears. Mrs. McNear is giving a luncheon and bridge for her Tuesday at the Opera club.

Getz and Bride Return to City.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Getz Jr. have returned from their wedding trip and are at home at the Drake hotel. Mrs. Getz is the former Olive Atwater.

Mrs. Elmire D. Williams will come to Chicago from San Francisco within two weeks to become the bride of Commander John C. Parham of the medical corps of the U. S. Navy at the Great Lakes Naval hospital.

Mrs. Williams is coming east with her mother, Mrs. J. W. Dowell. She is the widow of Lieutenant Commander L. Hicks Williams of the medical corps of the navy.

The ceremony is to be performed by Capt. R. D. Workman of the chaplain corps of the navy at the Lake Forest Presbyterian church with only the immediate families attending. After the wedding the couple will drive to Commander Parham's plantation in Alabama for a few days of hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Walter came to Chicago a week before Mr. Walter's scheduled lectures for a vacation and rest, but they have found themselves plunged into a round of luncheons, teas and dinners. Tonight Hardin W. Masters, an old time friend, is to entertain for them at a dinner party and tomorrow noon the Silas Strawns, whom Mr. Walter met abroad, will have a luncheon at their Lake Shore drive apartment. On Monday evening the Walters will be the guests of the Arnold W. Totmans of Winnetka at dinner and afterwards go to the Northwestern-Indiana basketball game.

Hold Ping-Pong Tourney Today.

Mrs. George L. Cragg, who is the ping-pong director at the Woman's Athletic club, predicted yesterday that today's competition would rest between Miss Patricia Norton, daughter of the Ralph Nortons, and Miss Jane Ashcraft and her sister, Miss Betty Ashcraft, daughters of the Raymond Ashcrafts. Others in the tourney are Miss Barbara Graf, Miss Ruth Holloway, and Miss Florence Sargent.

There will be some close competition in Geneva today and tomorrow for the best badminton players. They are going to play the elimination matches for the second annual Winnetka-Geneva badminton tournament to be played March 5 in Geneva. Seven matches will make up the tourney this year—three men's doubles, two mixed doubles, and two women's doubles. "Holly" Hunter is in charge of the arrangements in Geneva and A. Charles Goodrich is chairman of the return match to be played later in Winnetka.

Tonight the South Shore Country club is to hold another of its big cabaret parties in the club ballroom. There will be a floor show and supper at midnight.

She will leave immediately afterward to return to Washington for the last reception of the Hoover administration, to be held tomorrow evening at the White House. Future Paris Fashions May Be Guided by a Glance Back at Grecian Modes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—New styles have a way of sneaking in in unprotected parts of the wardrobe if the door of feminine public opinion is locked against them. Lately the women who mold Paris fashions have been set against any period influences in their clothes, contending that bygone epochs cannot be fitted into up to date fashions.

Just to be feminine and illogical, however, these very ladies are adopting teagowns that look considerably like those women wore in ancient Greece. And what is a teagown today may be a dress for the public eye tomorrow, as every one in the know of styles learned long ago, so the Greek-French teagown is something to know about.

A pure and unadulterated example of the new Greek teagown is shown today. It is a creation of Molyneux and is made of pale pink crêpe de chine of gold and pink. The draped neckline, the cascading drapery, with a cord and tassel girdle down the right side, and the general effect are undeniably inspired by the golden age of Greece.

There is a cape of pink crêpe de chine, shown in the background, that may be worn over this gown. It is edged around the neck and down the front with pink crêpe de chine roses.

Deep Breathing Helps Rid Face of Tiny Lines

Cold Water Makes Good Astringent.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One of the things a woman rarely thinks about as a cure-all for what ails her face is deep breathing. Tell any of our sisters about a new lotion for the complexion—and she's all eyes and ears. Suggest deep breathing—and she is apt to give you a languid nod. BUT——

I'm telling you, girls, that you can take lines out of your face with the deep breathing habit. Naturally, I do not mean lines that have been embedded there for years. I mean those lines that are seen on young faces as well as on older, due to living too tensely. Little lines around the eyes that speak of late nights and no catching up on sleep. Lines that run from nose to mouth corners—tired, tense lines.

Here's a practice offered you to clear away those lines and to put a new vitality and freshness in your face. It only takes a minute in the morning, but it's a magic moment when employed as we suggest.

After you've done your stretching work—and please keep on doing this every morning as ordered in my recent exercise series, stand before your open window in a warm bathrobe and breathe as deeply as you can with comfort. Do this before you step into your shower.

Now, there are two ways of treating the face from here on. If you wear a rubber cap, turn your face and throat up and let the cold water act as a needle massage. Or, if you don't use a shower, when you get out of your tub fill your bowl with cold, cold water; take your wash cloth and soak it with that cold water and hold it again and again over your face and throat. You have no idea how freshening to the skin and how firming this is.

If your cheeks are beginning to show a tired droop, the result of tense life, worries or what ails you, this treatment will do marvels. Just deep breathing—and cold water! And it won't cost you a single sou.

You can double on your deep breathing and stretching by standing on tiptoes as you swing your hands overhead, inhaling as your hands go up, exhaling as they come down—and streaching the body full height.

Engaged Pair Happy, but Their Friends Object

BY DORIS BLAKE.

These two people have agreed to marry. They are of different faiths, but the man is perfectly willing to become affiliated with the girl's church, as he has no set opinions, and he says graciously the girl's produced her and that's recommendation enough for her faith. So, the matter of religion is cleared up as far as they are concerned.

The man is ten years older than the girl. Taller, too. He's been around the world some. The girl has been a sheltered person. But they agree together that "couples like they aren't grown any more." They have ideally compatible tastes—sports, reading, shows, and ideas about life. And they're not in the early twenties!

But with all these advantages, there is a problem. Rather, they're making one for themselves.

Friends and relatives—not all, but some—ask the girl why she doesn't pick out a man of her own faith, one not so much taller, and with more money. Her sister is the ablest knocker. Her sister's friend is a close runner-up.

The obvious suggestion is to turn a deaf ear on sister's harangues—and to tell her friend to go peddle her papers. Tell any other interfering party that the world is so full of a number of things they might be doing, it's a shame that they're not better occupied. Anyway, dismissing the trouble makers with a laugh or a sharp remonstrance is definitely within the province of the pair who have made up their minds to marry.

The object lesson to other couples is, if you have made up your minds to marry, establish a sort of fort around yourselves and under no circumstances let interfering friends or relatives dictate suggestions of any kind.

The way to enforce this is not to give ear at all to the suggestions; more important—not to give voice to them. Not to pass them on to each other. You're taking a stand of your own free will. You're going through with it. So, why let any avoidable thing come between you and those happy dreams you're entitled to at this stage?

The weakness and the problem is not with the other people. It's repeating what's been said. In marriage much trouble would be spared were the same rule observed of refusing to repeat what's been said.

Isn't this a pretty coat model? The deep round shoulder yoke is smart, and the coat has a two way closing. It may be worn buttoned close to the neck or opened and rolled in rever fashion. The full sleeves are gathered into narrow cuffs. A brown tweed mixture or a red diagonal monotone woolen will either one be smart.

The pattern, No. 3352, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material with 1⅝ yards of 39 inch lining.

The Accessory Counters Have New Displays

Costume Jewelry, Handbags Win Attention.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There's a fine salty savor to some of the newest pieces of costume jewelry . . . flat bracelets, very obviously copied from beach life savers (the inanimate life savers), or the round canvas covered tires that are bound with contrasting cord at quarter sections. These nautical bracelets come in bright cheerful colors and are matched with compass clips of the same colored enamel as the bracelets. As you may surmise the compass clips have the four important points each labeled, as they should be, N., S., E. and W. Any casual street or daytime frock or suit can send out an S. O. S. call for these timely gadgets as chest and wrist decoration!

Then, for something else to wonder about, you might be interested in some good looking colored necklaces that are certainly new and decidedly different. They are flat beaded affairs about two to three inches wide and lie flat and smoothly around your neckline. They look like very wide daisy chains and are available in a bright scarlet, yellow, almond green, delft blue, chalk white and black, and the matching bracelet is priced as modestly as the necklace.

Are you searching for something new in fabric handbags? Some stunning gray and beige tweed bags of simple design will be found, with a smart tweed turnover clasp decorated with a bit of silver filagree. Silver gray and a delightful oxford gray, as well as a most unusual beige, are featured, the beige, of course, boasting about the dusky gold clasp as a perfect accent.

These tailored handbags are extremely moderate in price, considering their exquisite silk linings and fittings, smart square shape and fashionable colors. You will not have any difficulty in matching your pet tweed suit with any of these new bags.

Some superkidskin handbags are knockouts . . . pouch affairs of the softest, smoothest kid imaginable, you will find pearl gray, black and a most effective shade of navy blue . . . they can be matched perfectly to fine French kid gloves as well as swanky kidskin street shoes. Luxurious tailored street handbags like these expertly designed models have been hard to find heretofore, so the discriminating bag buyer will have a grand time gloating over such a discovery.

Brown handbags have marched into town just in time for the spring shopper . . . stunning pouch models, big swanky envelopes, oblong creations, square shapes, all exquisitely lined and fitted with practically everything a demanding shopper insists upon carrying around.

Supple, smooth calfskin handbags to clutch under the tweed arm of your brown and yellow mixed tweed costume are either smoothly without any frills in the way of decoration, or else glitter with clasps, monograms and modernistic slabs of copper, gold or chromium metal, and if you sniff at metal extras, try the wood motifs. Huge circular clasps of spicy brown wood, clasps and frames accent both brown and blue and black or beige bags with considerable distinction.

All shades of blue overhang the handbag horizon . . . stunning cornflower shades that used to be so hard to locate, good clear navy blue, old blue, gray blue, and midnight blue, really any indigo tint you may desire will be found on display. Try the newer cornflower blue tones for the smart contrast to a beige or dove gray spring suit and later as an accent for gay prints and checks or plaids with a blue background.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

CLASS DAY.

"You had so much fun several months ago with the old chestnut, BROTHERS AND SISTERS I HAVE NONE, that I am going to give you another on the same principle which was sent to me by my young friend Charles Igyarto," said Prof. Fordney.

His students smiled in expectation, as today's studies had been unusually difficult and they welcomed a little diversion and relaxation.

"You can have only ONE MINUTE to solve it," he continued, "and you SHOULD get it in half that time.

"There were two fathers and two sons who were great pals. The two sons were the only offspring of the fathers. So compatible were they that most of their leisure time was spent together.

"The morning before Thanksgiving they set out for a rabbit hunt. Luck was rather against them, for they shot only four rabbits and then the youngest boy had the misfortune of losing his from his game bag.

"Dusk was beginning to fall and rather than retrace their steps in search of the lost rabbit one of the fathers said they could very nicely manage with the three that were left.

"So saying, he quite nonchalantly divided the three rabbits between the two fathers and the two sons so that each received a whole rabbit!

The above was sent to Prof. Fordney by Charles Igyarto, Chicago, for a class day problem. Perhaps you have one you would like the students to try and solve. If so, send it to the professor in care of this paper. He will be delighted to see what they make of it.

[Copyright, 1933, By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The finger of suspicion that closely guarded details of a new supertank invented by British military experts have been sold to a private firm, which in turn offered to sell the same weapon to foreign governments, is being pointed at Lieut. N. Baillie-Stewart of the Seaforth Highlanders.

This officer of one of the proudest regiments in the empires' service has been charged with violating the army's official secrets act and his trial by general court martial has been ordered for early in March. He is a closely guarded prisoner in the Tower of London.

Army Conducts Investigation.

Extensive inquiries are being made by the army's intelligence service and Scotland Yard as to whether the lieutenant betrayed the army by giving out the secrets of the supertank or sold specifications of the tank. If it is discovered that he sold the specifications he may be charged with the graver offense of espionage and possibly treason.

In any case, the army's high command has taken a most serious view of the matter and exhaustive investigations reputedly point towards an effort to determine whether Lieut. Baillie-Stewart is at the head or involved in a network of foreign espionage in Great Britain.

It is believed by military officials that the firm involved in the reputed betrayal of war office secrets is British. Information concerning the new tank indicates that it doubles the effectiveness of any tank known in any army in the world. It is reported that the greatest secrecy was imposed upon all concerned with its trials, partly because its appearance coincided with the sittings of the disarmaments conference in Geneva.

Leak in Balkan Country.

Reports in London are that the secrets of the supertank first leaked out in a Balkan country, said to have been Rumania. The war office, it is said, acted on information supplied by a British military attaché. According to this information, he reported to his superiors that a British firm was offering to the Rumanian army a greatly improved tank, supplying such details of the tender as he could obtain.

The war office is said to have discovered at once that the specifications mentioned in the report accorded in every detail with the army's new tank. An investigation was begun and suspicion pointed toward the Seaforth Highlanders' officer. He is reported to have been among those selected for operations against the tank in the army maneuvers, all of whom had been initiated into its mysteries.

These details had been closely guarded from the beginning. The tank was assembled in military workshops, without civilian aid. The designer is said to be an officer of the royal engineers, and no civilians were permitted to approach the building while the tank was under construction.

Mounts Heavy Gun.

It is said that the new tank mounted a heavier gun than had ever been placed on a land dreadnaught before. A new explosive was used which prevented a detonation such as had heretofore blown the sides out of a tank. This explosive also gave a minimum of recoil. Reports are that the details of this new explosive were also betrayed.

Other specifications include a new naval steel composition used in the tank's springs to prevent the crew from being stunned by the repercussion of the explosive. All these improvements were incorporated in a weapon no larger than the ordinary heavy tank.

The arrested officer is suspected of revealing the secrets of the machine knowing that he acted in contravention of the obligations to secrecy imposed upon him. The last case in which a British officer was convicted of being a spy was during the world war when an officer of the royal artillery at Bourlon wood was discovered signaling gun positions to the enemy by means of a small mirror. He was shot.

BRITAIN REDUCES ITS CIVIL SERVICE COST 50 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Between 50 and 75 million dollars [at par] will be saved during the forthcoming fiscal year in the civil service and revenue departments, according to the 1933-'34 estimates, published today.

The departments are asking $2,005,850,000. They received $2,115,550,000 during the current fiscal year ending March 31. The margin between these two figures is $109,700,000, but complete figures for the ministry of labor, which is included in the civil service estimates, are not yet available because the government is planning changes in transitional benefit payments this summer. Then more money will be needed and supplementary grants, which will be put through parliament later, will reduce the saving.

The economies were attained despite increases of $5,000,000 in widows' and other pensions, nearly $3,000,000 in old age pensions and other grants in the form of subsidies to sugar and other industries.

SOUTH SIDE COMPLETES GOLDEN GLOVES TEAM

Not Even Bell Halts Wild Battle.

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—In his very best form as a "spoiler" of heavyweight ambitions, despite his 31 years, Bounding Johnny Risko, the round faced baker boy from Cleveland, gave King Levinsky a thorough trouncing tonight in ten rounds. It was Risko's third decision over the wild punching Chicago youngster.

It was a fine old Pier 6 brawl between a couple of the roughest warriors in the ring today and entertained thoroughly a crowd of over 10,000, although the duel was of little significance in the present heavyweight scheme of things.

Risko Scores Knockdown.

Risko scored the only knockdown of the match in the first round. He smacked Levinsky down with a left and right handed volley to the head, but the Kingfish bounded up again without a count.

Except for the first three rounds, Levinsky made very heavy weather of it, as Risko, getting the jump, belted him all over the premises with looping lefts.

In the second round particularly, Risko staggered Levinsky twice with punches to the jaw and belted his body so vigorously that the Kingfish sat nauseated in his corner between rounds. Johnny's margin was smaller in the third, when he felt so frisky that he started dancing around Levinsky, peppering him with left jabs.

The Boys Go to It.

Once Levinsky got his wind back after the third round, they put on a fantastic, free-punching melee that had the crowd roaring with a mixture of laughter and admiration. They paid absolutely no attention to the bells that indicate the end of a round and merely slammed away at each other until Pete Hartley, the referee, only half as big as either one of them, wore himself out so that he had to get the help of all the seconds in both corners prying them apart after the final gong.

On the Associated Press score card, Risko won six rounds, the first three and the last three, and Levinsky three, with one even. The Kingfish put on a manful spurt, throwing punches that looked like a catcher trying to toss out a runner stealing second, but colliding with Risko's jaw often enough to take the fourth, fifth, and seventh rounds, and hold Johnny even in the sixth.

Risko at His Heaviest.

Risko, now in the midst of a comeback that has brought him victories over Mickey Walker, Tuffy Griffith, and Levinsky thrice, weighed 199½ pounds, the heaviest of his career. Levinsky weighed 196.

Despite Risko's apparent wide margin and the general approval of the crowd at the decision, he received only the votes of Referee Hartley and one judge, the other casting his ballot for Levinsky.

QUINN CONSIDERS SPEEDY SALE OF RED SOX INTEREST

Boston, Mass., Feb. 24.—(AP)—On the eve of a visit from President William Harridge of the American league, Bob Quinn, Boston Red Sox owner, today admitted the possibility of a speedy disposal of his baseball interests to a New York syndicate.

Quinn did not appear greatly impressed when he admitted that a New York group was dickering for his club. He predicted, however, that if the deal is not made within the next 24 hours, there is slight chance of its being consummated thereafter.

THE GUMPS—IN THE PRISON CELL I SIT

WHEN THE POLICEMAN CARRIED MRS. DE STROSS OUT AND FOLLOWED THE PATROL WAGON TO THE STATION TO CLAIM HER PURSE AND THE BROOCH—
BUT, YOUR HONOR—IT WAS MY BROOCH—THE VERY SAME BROOCH THAT MY MOTHER GAVE ME ON MY WEDDING DAY—I CAN PROVE IT!
HOW DO YOU ACCOUNT FOR IT BEING IN MRS. GUMP'S POCKET-BOOK? AND YOU HAVING HER PURSE IN YOUR POSSESSION?
I DIDN'T MEAN TO STEAL HER POCKET BOOK—I WAS JUST TRYING TO GET THE BROOCH—
THAT'S ENOUGH! BOOK HER ON A CHARGE OF ROBBERY—WE'LL HOLD YOU TO THE GRAND JURY—
CERTAINLY. SHE WAS TRYING TO GET THE BROOCH AND IT WAS MINE—PUT HER IN CELL NUMBER THIRTEEN—
I AM INNOCENT! SOMEBODY WILL SUFFER FOR THIS—POOR MAMA—ALONE IN THAT DARK CELL—AND WHAT HAS SHE DONE?
HER ONLY CRIME IS THAT SHE FOUGHT—LIKE THE BRAVE LITTLE WOMAN THAT SHE IS—FOR WHAT RIGHTFULLY BELONGED TO HER—IF MY POOR MOTHER COULD SEE WHAT THAT BROOCH HAS BROUGHT ME TO—

CUBS, OLD AND NEW, GET TOGETHER

Bushes Meet Malones for Cub 'Pennant'

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 24.—Charley Grimm, a foxy fellow, this day cashed in on one of baseball's most intense rivalries, the Guy Bush-Pat Malone feud, to make his Cub charges work hard without being fully conscious of the drudgery involved. Manager Grimm put Bush in charge of one team and Malone in charge of another and the heat forthwith was on to a degree rarely approached in early intra-club conflict.

The two teams will meet in a game Sunday afternoon. Since the powers of baseball frown on even the minutest wager on the outcome of baseball contests, we won't go into details about incentives. Suffice it to say that no Malone-Bush clash is a sissy affair, whether the proposition be a duel on a marble machine, a debate on the name of the world's longest river, or whatnot.

Both Teams Confident.

Both teams tonight were radiating confidence after two drills held during the day, but Bush's exuberance was the more convincing, the reason being that Babe Herman is cleanup man on his team. Babe, having been in training all winter, is days ahead of everybody in the matter of physical condition and this morning proved it by socking several long ones out of the ball park.

Aside from several clicked in the past by such masters as Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson before their decline, no one ever has hit a baseball as far as Babe hit two today, according to the testimony of the most ancient of Catalina observers.

Two Good Captains.

Bush claims that the masterful demonstration of Herman is not all that gives him cheer, pointing out that among other things the team will have his own batting strength at all times, he having made a second baseman of himself. He also appointed Woody English captain, an honor he says Woody deserves because of his able captaincy of the Cubs last year after Grimm became manager. On the other hand, Malone has a good captain himself, having accorded that honor to Grimm, his first baseman.

MALONES—Bill Herman, ss; Gabby Hartnett, 3b; Stephenson, cf; Zack Taylor, c; Grimes, rf; Grimm, 1b; Malone, lf; Nelson, 2b; Yerkes, p; Richmond, p.

Eddie Ran Gets Decision Over Frankie Petrolle

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Eddie Ran of Poland won a decision from Frankie Petrolle of Schenectady, N. Y., tonight in a ten round fight. Ran, who weighed 147 pounds, was given six rounds and Petrolle, weighing two pounds less, was awarded the others.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Thomas L. Grenier's Lyceum theater flourished in the '80s. A helper recently referred to the officer who rapped in the gallery for order and called "Hats off" as the show was about to open.

This policeman was Dennis Donahue, who about 20 years ago married a tobacco heiress and now lives at Stoughton, Wis. He came to Chicago from the Emerald Isle many years ago. He was a character. All the kids in the gallery were afraid of him when he rapped his club on the iron railing for quiet. He was a good friend of Mayor John A. Roche. Officer Donahue also traveled with Grenier Brothers' circus.

John Ringling of Ringling Brothers, when in Chicago, always visited the Lyceum in those days, because the burlesque shows were the best in the U. S. A.

Thomas L. Grenier was still living at my last reports. His brothers, Henri and Achilles, are dead.

GEORGE A. COOK.

I was born up in the north woods and well remember the lumber camps where chaps from the cities, including Chicago, would come in the fall to work and make a so-called stake.

They built a camp of logs and moss in a day, used straw bunks and floors, made stocking hangers from bale wire, and hung socks to dry around the quick blast stove. They worked from sunup to sundown. Going home for Christmas they certainly enjoyed the warm water bath in the barn, where mother required they change from their lumberjack clothing before being admitted to the family circle. Then that great home Christmas day dinner.

We kids thought it old fashioned—
Now we're glad that she did.
In the front oval are our mom and pop,
"Taken in Richard Center, Wisconsin,
Mom's in black velvet, right pretty, too,
Smiling so sweetly; she had eyes of blue.
Here's our Aunt Min with hubby the third,
Look at the ears on that West Allis bird!
Her second was a joke, died of a thirst;
I'd like to see his mug, along with the first.
This is Uncle Marcellus, sailor was he—
He was a rover, seldom at home;
Perhaps for a month, then he'd live on the foam.

GRIFFITH STOPS OTTO VON PORAT IN EIGHTH ROUND

Take Loser to Hospital After Fight.

Tuffy Griffith, west side heavyweight, won by a technical knockout from Otto von Porat of Norway at the Coliseum last night when the Norwegian failed to answer the bell at the start of the eighth round. The bout was scheduled to go 10 rounds.

Von Porat weighed 202 pounds and Tuffy 190, the heaviest he has ever scaled for a contest. The crowd was estimated at 5,000, and receipts were $7,000.

Von Porat was in distress after the fight, being unable to leave his corner for about 10 minutes, and Dr. Frank Lagorio, athletic commission physician, ordered him removed to the Columbus hospital. An examination showed, however, that aside from dizziness Von Porat's condition was good. He remained in the hospital overnight. Dr. Lagorio issued the following statement:

Ed Stevenson, manager of Otto, explained that Von Porat ate at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and because of the quick knockouts in preliminary bouts did not have time to digest his meal before entering the ring.

Regard Result as Upset.

The result was one of the biggest upsets in Chicago boxing. The Norwegian was generally expected to score a knockout, and until the seventh round started it appeared that he would.

The bout was Tuffy's first local start since he was stopped by Max Baer at the Chicago Stadium last September. It was Von Porat's first start here in two years. He had scored four straight knockouts in Europe before he returned to Chicago last month.

It was the third time Von Porat lost a bout in this country by a knockout. Martin Burke stopped him in 1928, and Young Stribling knocked him out in a round two years ago.

Tuffy Begins to Tire.

Tuffy opened the bout by rushing out of his corner and tossing a wild right at Von Porat, which missed. Griffith used a left jab to the head and Otto covered up bewildered when Tuffy punched with both hands in the clinches. Von Porat found the range late in the round and Tuffy held on.

Shortly after the second round started Von Porat knocked Tuffy against the ropes. He didn't follow up his advantage quickly enough and Griffith recovered. Griffith appeared tired in the third. Otto hurt him with a left to the body which made him leap in the air. Tuffy went down from a half push in the fourth.

It looked as if the Norwegian heavyweight would score a knockout in the fifth round and again in the sixth, but Tuffy managed to hold on and maneuver out of harm.

Griffith Turns Tide.

The spectators went wild in the seventh round, when Griffith turned the tide of battle his way. He swarmed all over Otto and hammered right and lefts to Von Porat's head and body. The Norwegian was out on his feet at the bell and failed to answer the bell for the eighth round.

In the ten round semi-windup Joe Sekyra, Dayton, O., 182 pounds, whipped Jack Roper, Chicago, 192.

Izzy Gastanaga, New York heavyweight, demonstrated how he knocked out Charley Retzlaff at New York last year by stopping Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., in the third round with a series of swings to the head. He dropped Hunt twice for nine counts just before Referee Joe McNamara stopped the match, scheduled for 10 rounds.

Iowa Blocks Ohio's Path to Title Tonight

Iowa's Hawkeyes will get another opportunity to halt the march of Ohio State university to the Western conference basketball championship at Iowa City tonight. The Buckeyes, rambling along the trail to their first title since 1925, will be seeking to duplicate their 38 to 23 victory, accomplished at Columbus last Monday, and their ninth consecutive victory.

Bastian to Start.

Bastian, Iowa's star center, who was counted upon to help defeat Ohio State in their first game, will be in the starting lineup. Bastian was ejected late in the first half on personal fouls last Monday. Barko and Kurmbholz will be at forwards, while Grim and Selzer will be at the guard positions.

The second place Wildcats of Northwestern meet Wisconsin at Madison. A victory over the Badgers is predicted, but Purple followers have more interest in the number of points Capt. Joe Reiff scores. The tall forward now is leading the conference individual scoring with 116 points. Reiff needs 39 points to establish a new all time record. The present mark is 154 points, made by Johnny Wooden of Purdue in the 1931-'32 season.

Michigan at Purdue.

Purdue, holding a .500 percentage in its eight games, will meet Michigan at Lafayette.

The tenth consecutive defeats for the hapless Chicago and Minnesota quintets are practically assured. The Gophers will travel to Champaign to meet the Illini, while the Maroons play Indiana in the Maroon fieldhouse.

NOTRE DAME WINS OVER MICHIGAN STATE, 30 TO 25

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Notre Dame defeated Michigan State tonight, 30 to 25, in a game in which Ed Krause and Ed Voegele made 24 of Notre Dame's points and were the chief cogs in a defense which held Michigan State to eight field goals. Ability on the foul line kept Michigan State in the running, the Spartans making nine out of 13 free throws. So tight was the Notre Dame defense that in the first half the visitors were able to score only two field goals, both by Don McCaslin.

It was the seventh consecutive victory for Notre Dame and the second over Michigan State. A crowd of 4,500 witnessed the contest. Lineup:

TENNESSEE'S CHAMPIONS TO ARRIVE TODAY

BY ARCH WARD.

The eight amateur boxing champions of Tennessee who won their titles in the tournament conducted by the Nashville Tennessean will be the first of the 23 out of town teams to arrive for the Tournament of Champions opening at Chicago Stadium Monday. They will be here at 7:30 o'clock this morning. Reservations for the party have been made at Medinah Athletic club.

The next squad to arrive will be from Vincennes, Ind. The winners of the tournament conducted by the Sun-Commercial will come in this evening and will be quartered at the Atlantic hotel. All of the visiting teams will be in the city by noon Monday, for they must report at the Stadium to be weighed in and undergo a physical examination at 2 p. m.

None of the 320 boys who take part in the three day meet at the Stadium receives a penny for his services. All expenses of the out of town teams are paid by the newspapers sponsoring Golden Gloves qualifying rounds. THE TRIBUNE donates net receipts of the tournament to charity.

The first bout will go on at 7 o'clock each night at the Stadium. There will be approximately 100 contests on each card. The prices, 40 cents to $1.10, afford Chicago boxing fans the greatest bargain in the history of amateur boxing.

Fred Caserio, captain of the 1931 Golden Gloves team, who remained out of the meet last year to fight in the Olympic games, looked better than ever in the White City trials. He stopped Frank Kausak in the second round last night. Kausak had caught so many blows his only chance to win was by a knockout. There was little chance for that eventuality when his best punch, a right to the stomach was bouncing off Caserio's mid section like a feather dart against concrete. When your ace won't take a trick it is time to quit and Kausak did.

One of the best looking novices on the south side was Donald Tanner of Leonard Victorians. He won his first four bouts by knockouts. Tanner, a gas station attendant, is a 20 year old welterweight. You will hear more about him in 1934 Golden Gloves.

Earl Watson, colored welterweight, who was runner up to Chauncey Crain on the 1930 Golden Gloves team, made an impressive showing in his debut at White City. He earned a decision over Jean Janovsky, a knockdown in the second round being the deciding factor.

The attendance record for the four Chicago sectional meets goes to the north side. More than 7,500 saw the trials at Loyola. This exceeded by approximately 1,000 the figures for the south and west sides. The far south section was last, both in attendance and number of contestants.

The White City meet marked the end of the largest tournament in Golden Gloves records. A field of 2,232 entered the Chicago qualifying rounds.

Whatever you desire in the way of fistic entertainment can be yours next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings at the Chicago Stadium, when boxing's biggest show, the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, will be presented to fans of Chicagoland.

Amateur champions from seven states will battle in two rings. Approximately 100 bouts will be waged each evening. And can those boxers sock? Ask the boy who stops one!

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago is ready for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions which starts Monday at the Stadium. Last night at White City, before a crowd of 2,200, sixteen south siders fought their way on to Chicago's team of 64. These boys now await the invasion of the championship teams from 23 cities in seven states and the onslaught of the eight champions of the Catholic Youth Organization.

The finals at White City ended 11 nights of Golden Gloves boxing in Chicago. Nearly 960 bouts were necessary to determine the team which will represent the city in the Tournament of Champions and to reduce the novice division to 64 boxers, who, starting Monday, will continue in conjunction with the open tourney. On nine of the eleven nights two rings were used.

Now for More Action

With the trials finished, the greatest Golden Gloves tournament ever held in Chicago is ready to begin. Two rings will be used at the Stadium each of the three nights, insuring continuous action between the central states' greatest amateurs.

Admission to the Tournament of Champions will be 40 cents, 75 cents and $1.10. This is the biggest bargain ever offered boxing fans.

Last night's sectional finals ran true to form in the open division with possibly one exception. Freddie Caserio, 1931 Golden Gloves team captain and present national A. A. U. champion, had no difficulty reaching the Tournament of Champions. He scored two knockouts. Earl Watson, lightweight Golden Gloves runner-up in 1930, qualified in the welterweight class. He won both of his bouts last night on decisions.

The upset in the open division came in the heavyweight class when John Pacek of the C. Y. O. won from Frank Ketter in three rounds. The fight nearly ended in the first two minutes, when Pacek's triphammer body punches had Ketter on the floor twice. Ketter, the larger of the two, also was slower. Weakened by the body punching, Ketter was unable to catch up with Pacek, although the aggressor. Pacek fought cautiously and protected his advantage.

Climax of Trials.

The climax of the three day south side tournament came within a few minutes of the end of the four hour program when both Caserio and Watson were fighting in the two rings. It was the second bout for each.

Almost before the fans could make up their minds which ring to watch Caserio had finished his man. Teddy Boyd, a Negro from Trafton's gymnasium, lasted less than a round. Fred warned him of what might happen with a series of lefts to the face and rights to the body and then, in a neutral corner, dropped Boyd to the floor for the count of ten.

Watson was up against a fighter in Pat Sullivan of the C. Y. O. For two rounds neither had a decisive advantage. Then Earl's counter punches to the face put him in front in the opinion of the judges. In his first bout last night Watson defeated Jean Janovsky of the Vacs' Athletic club.

Frank Kausak of the C. Y. O. was beaten by Caserio in the champion's first bout. Caserio won the first round easily and in the second, after a series of body blows, crossed his right to the jaw for a knockdown. Then the referee stopped the fight.

Kane County Boys Win.

Phil Kennealy of St. Philip's High school, C. Y. O., and Joe Kalkowski, also of the Catholic Youth organization, staged one of the best battles of the evening in the finals of the open division lightweight class. In the last round Kennealy stopped his op-

CHICAGO TAKES MILE RELAY TO WIN TRACK MEET

First Maroon Quadrangular Victory; Purdue 2d.

Table of Points

Purdue	37 1-3	Northwestern	21

Chicago captured the mile relay, the last event on the program, and won first place in the annual quadrangular track meet at Patten gymnasium last night. The Maroons accumulated 41 1-3 points, while Purdue trailed in second place with 37 1-3 points. Wisconsin was third with 32 1-3 points, while Northwestern finished in fourth place with 21.

The result of the mile relay determined the outcome of the meet. Chicago and Purdue reached the final event with 31 1-3 points each, while Wisconsin was third with 30 1-3 points. With first place counting 10 points, either of the three teams had a chance to win by victory in the final event.

Cullen Overtakes Miller.

McQueen, the Boilermakers' first starter, gave his mates a comfortable lead at the start which was maintained until the final leg, when Ed Cullen, Maroon football star, began to whittle the advantage. He crept up on Miller, Purdue's anchor man, gradually, until he overtook him on the final turn and forged ahead to win by a yard.

It was Chicago's first victory in the quadrangular meet since its inception eight years ago. Purdue, likewise, never had been a contender before, and was not regarded among the leaders this year. The Maroons won four first places, Purdue three and Northwestern and Wisconsin one each.

Brooks Wins 40 Yard Dash.

John Brooks, star colored sprinter, started the Maroons off with a victory in the 40 yard dash, which he won with ease in :04.8. Other first places acquired by the Maroons were the 40 yard high hurdles, won by Haydon; shot put, won by Ovson, and the mile relay.

Ross to Meet Petrolle in Stadium Ring

Billy Petrolle, Duluth, Minn., fighter, yesterday accepted a 10 round bout against Barney Ross, west side lightweight, to be held at the Chicago Stadium late next month, probably March 24. Nate Lewis, matchmaker, attempted to arrange the match to be presented on March 10, but Petrolle wired he would be unable to box then because of a cold he had last week.

Billy expects to begin training on March 5 and will be ready to meet Ross any time after March 20. Ross had agreed to the match, the only stipulation being that Billy weigh 138 pounds. The Duluth fighter, who has been holding out for a weight of 139 ever since Matchmaker Lewis started negotiations for the match with Ross several months ago, finally agreed to Ross' demand.

N. U. FENCERS, SWIMMERS IN ACTION TODAY

Two Northwestern athletic teams will see action at Patten gymnasium this afternoon when the swimmers meet Illinois and the fencers engage Purdue. Both events will start at 3 o'clock.

Illinois will present its strongest aquatic squad in a number of years and will be out to score its first dual meet victory over the Purple. A hard fight is anticipated in the water polo game which will follow the swimming meet. Last year the Illini pololats defeated Northwestern, 5 to 4.

ST. PATRICK IS 28 TO 16 VICTOR OVER ST. IGNATIUS

St. Patrick's heavyweights last night defeated St. Ignatius, 28 to 16, in a west section game of the Chicago Catholic High School league at St. Patrick's gymnasium. The final sectional games will be played next Friday night.

HAWKS, RANGERS DRILL TODAY FOR GAME TOMORROW

The Blackhawks and the New York Rangers will be minutes from meeting each other today in their drills for their National Hockey league battle at the Stadium tomorrow night. The New Yorkers, who will make their last Chicago appearance of the season, will work out on the Stadium ice at 11:30 this morning, and the Hawks will follow them at 1 o'clock.

The Hawks, still clinging to the thread of hope on which they base their chances of reaching the Stanley cup playoff, will be battling the Rangers in an effort to cut the third place Boston Bruins' margin over them to three or at least four points. The Bruins do not play until Tuesday night, and a victory tomorrow over the Rangers would leave the Hawks only three points back of the Bostonians, and a tie four.

STOCK MARKET STAGES RALLY; RAILS IN LEAD

Rise in Bonds, Short Covering Factors.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—Stocks hitched on to the United States government bond list today and ploughed forward for gains of fractions to 2 points or more. It was the nearest approach to a sustained rally that the market has enjoyed since the Michigan bank moratorium declaration ten days ago.

A report that President Elect Roosevelt or his secretary of treasury would issue a formal report in the near future pledging the new administration to a firm stand for sound money and against currency inflation was credited with inspiring the sudden enthusiasm for the government bonds.

While the gains were well distributed, with virtually all departments sharing, the issues holding the greatest speculative interest scored the best mark ups, indicating that short covering played a substantial rôle in the turnabout. The market has been under stress of liquidation almost without letup for the last fortnight, and brokers have been warning their clients that with any sort of a "break" in the news a smart rally might be looked for.

More Optimism Shown.

There was nothing in the news that could classify under this heading today, and the reason for the brisk spurt of buying in the government bond issues was not clear to those not carrying a key to the situation. Since the decline in the "gilt edged section" has done as much as anything else to upset confidence in the speculative community, however, it was natural perhaps to look for a little display of returning optimism among the stock trading gentry as bond prices looked up. The better feeling prevailing in the wheat pit and the steady showing made by cotton did the share market no harm, of course.

Railroad shares, true to their late rôle of being bellwether to the market in general, were the first to feel stimulation from the firming bond prices. Several of them had sunk to new lows for the year in the first half hour or so of trading, but when the turn did come, the group moved up steadily and with most of the high grade issues enjoying the best turnover in weeks. Atchison, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Louisville and Nashville, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, Delaware and Hudson and others hard hit in yesterday's reaction, recovered anywhere from 1 to 3 points of their losses.

Market Favorites Advance.

Among the assortment of market favorites to receive preferential treatment were American Can, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco and Consolidated Gas. Allied Chemical and American Can each jumped about 3 points.

Public utilities chimed in with a show of eagerness, although some of them, like the rails, had found themselves pretty hard pressed in the gloom of the opening proceedings. American Telephone was an outstanding strong spot and recovered 2 points of its "bank moratorium" losses. The stock closed at 98¼, after selling down to 94½ in the early dealings.

United States Steel also staged a smart recovery against the shorts, snapping back to 26 for a gain of a point on the day. The issue is now up to within a point of the price at which it was offered to the corporation's employés.

NEW LAW TO AID INDIANA BANKS IN REOPENING

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Containing final amendments made at his suggestion, the new state bank code bill was signed by Gov. Paul V. McNutt today and became a law at once.

Banks and trust companies in towns of 6,000 to 75,000 population will be required to have a capital stock of $100,000. In towns of 75,000 population or more, capital stock minimum will be $150,000.

The new department may permit a bank taken over to resume business on conditions as prescribed by the department, or to permit reopening after 30 per cent of the depositors and creditors agree in writing not to make further withdrawals.

Rights of banks and trust companies to operate insurance departments for the writing of all except life insurance was restored in amendments and authority was given for classification of credit union shares of stock without establishment of preferences to assets for any class.

Roads Ponder Cutting Fares to Win Travel

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The proposal of the Louisville and Nashville railroad to put a reduced passenger rate schedule into effect some time in April, and the action of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis in lowering present basic rates to put a six months' cut into effect between Memphis and Nashville, have aroused considerable comment in Chicago railroad circles.

While a majority of the leading railroad executives recently informed the interstate commerce commission that they are opposed to a reduction in the present basic passenger rate, because they do not believe it would bring a sufficient traffic increase to help their revenues, some railway passenger executives are not satisfied that such would be the case.

Argues for Rate Reduction.

"I can't see how we can logically continue the present 3.6 cents per mile rate, established right after the war when all prices were on a war-time basis," one official asserted yesterday. "Nearly all prices are down now and it's difficult to persuade the public that passenger fares should not be lowered, too.

"However, all of the railroads are honestly endeavoring to find a rate which will attract and hold passenger business. That is the reason so many bargain rates are being offered to the public. We want to find a price level which will enable us to manufacture and sell our passenger service to the public and at the same time make a reasonable profit.

"While it is true that the basic rate of 3.6 cents per mile still remains on the books, the average passenger rate per mile for all the roads of the country has declined materially because of the special concessions made.

Local Conditions Main Factor.

"Local conditions must govern and they often make us wonder if having a sacred basic rate is not hurting us. Of course, roads doing a huge passenger business in densely populated sections of the country are not sure that they would gain any business by cutting rates because they would have to handle a much larger volume of traffic to make up for the difference."

The rates proposed by the Louisville and Nashville provide for tickets at 2 cents a mile in day coaches and 3 cents a mile in Pullmans, with no surcharges. The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis is establishing a 2 cent basic rate between Memphis and Nashville, with 1½ cents a mile in day coaches. Pullman fares are reduced from $3.75 to $3 for sleepers and from $1.50 to $1 for parlor cars.

Revamp Bonds of Hospital at Cost of $68

BY AL CHASE.

James R. Cardwell, head of the Cardwell-Westinghouse company and president and chairman of the board of the Ravenswood Hospital association, yesterday announced the successful completion of a feeless reorganization of a $250,000 bond issue at a total cost of $68 for stationery and printing.

The average refinancing of a defaulted property usually includes an imposing array of fees for receiver, receiver's attorney, bondholders' protective committee, attorney for the committee, complainant solicitor's fees, foreclosure fees, trustee's fee, depositary fees, secretary's fee and in some cases a fee for securing the deposit of the bonds.

The reorganization was effected by the trustees of the hospital, who constituted themselves a "bondholders' protective committee," but minus any committee fees, and personally persuaded every one of the 87 bondholders to deposit their securities.

Extend Maturity, Cut Rate.

The reorganization plan calls for a ten year extension of the bond issue and a reduction of interest from 6½ per cent to 5 per cent. The original underwriting was made in 1913 by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, since closed, and was for $250,000. Up to January, 1933, there had been paid off $88,000, leaving a balance of $165,000.

"Such legal work as was necessary was donated by the attorneys, Chapman & Cutler," explained Mr. Cardwell. "The only expense the hospital had to pay to have this extension properly made was a small printing bill for the new coupons to be attached to the bonds and the revenue stamps that were necessary.

Able to Pay New Rate.

"The hospital is amply able to pay the interest and amortization on this bond issue, in addition to its charity work. The medical staff is second to none and has contributed much to medical science. Their earnest cooperation had a great deal to do with the success of this bond extension."

Other officers of the hospital association in addition to Mr. Cardwell are: W. P. Reed, head of the Reed Candy company, vice president; W. J. Dillon, treasurer. The hospital is at 1917 Wilson avenue. It is organized "not for profit," and is administered by the board of trustees.

GEN'L ELECTRIC VOTES REGULAR 10 CTS. DIVIDEND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—Directors of the General Electric company today authorized the regular quarterly dividends of 10 cents a share on the common stock and 15 cents a share on the special stock.

The action means that the company's 178,579 stockholders will receive approximately $2,854,000 this quarter. The present 40 cents annual rate on the common was adopted last July, prior to which the company has paid at the rate of $1 a share. The old $1.60 annual rate which prevailed in boom times was abandoned at the end of 1931.

The company's earnings for the first quarter are estimated at around 5 cents a share. The company was in a strong cash position at the close of 1932 with total working capital of $190,605,000, of which $115,056,000 was in cash. Current assets were $219,086,000, against current liabilities of $28,482,000.

Silver Continues to Follow Congress and Sells Lower

'PEOPLE CAN STAND TRUTH ABOUT NATION,' ASSERTS AN EDITOR

"This country can survive the shock of the truth," John B. Kennedy, associate editor of Collier's magazine, told members of the Illinois Manufacturers' Costs association at their dinner last night in the Hotel La Salle. "This is true even though we have to hear so many tales of mismanagement among the mighty that it may seem that the only difference between a bank burglar and a bank president is that one works at night.

"Under new and vigorous leadership, with the truth of the seriousness of our condition known, this country is much better off than when we were stumbling backward through foolish hopes. Even if further shocks reduce confidence further it will come back. We know that most of our bankers, like most of our business men, are honest.

"The American people are tired of prophets. They want practical men, who know how present misfortune came through cupidity combined with stupidity.

"Whenever the people have been told the real truth about any national condition they have understood it and gone on to work their way through. Let the whole story be told. We can stand it."

ILLINOIS LIFE INSURANCE CO. STAFF RETAINED

The Illinois Life Insurance company's organization will be continued under the reinsurance plan now being drawn up, it is understood. Officials of James S. Kemper & Co. indicated yesterday that all employés and agents of the Illinois company will be retained and the home office of the company at 1212 Lake Shore drive will be utilized.

The Kemper organization represents the Associated Mutuals of Boston, with whom a reinsurance contract is now being negotiated by order of Federal Judge Wilkerson. Officials of the Kemper firm declined to reveal the exact nature of their plans. They pointed out that the reinsurance contract is only now being drawn up and is subject to the final approval of the federal court.

It is estimated that Illinois Life still has $130,000,000 of insurance in force. The company had insurance outstanding of $150,000,000 when receivership proceedings were started last November.

The reinsurance plan contemplated the eventual mutualization of the Illinois Life business. All death claims occurring before and after receivership will be paid in full promptly by the new company, according to John R. Cochran, counsel for the Kemper group.

PLAN ABANDONED TO MERGE UNITED AND WHITE TRUCK

The plan to consolidate the White Truck company with the United Truck company, Studebaker subsidiary, has been abandoned, A. R. Erskine, chairman of the Studebaker corporation, announced yesterday.

United Truck acquired over 95 per cent of the stock of White Truck last year. The plan of consolidation was to have been voted upon at a special meeting of White stockholders in Cleveland yesterday. The plan has been vigorously opposed by a minority of the White stockholders since it was first proposed by the Studebaker interests.

Pacific Natl. Fire Insurance Shows Assets of $3,409,000

The Pacific National Fire Insurance company lists assets of $3,409,000 at the close of 1932, an increase of $332,000 over Dec. 31, 1931. Earnings last year totaled $95,074, equivalent to $1.90 a share on the $25 par stock.

Bradstreet's and Dun's Will Unite Monday

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—Merger of Dun's and Bradstreet's, the two leading mercantile agencies of the country, which supply credit information to 2,500,000 corporations and individuals, will become effective next Monday, it was learned today. Arthur Whiteside, president of Dun's, confirmed the report, but declined to reveal any of the details, stating that an official announcement will be made Monday.

The two organizations, strong competitors up to this time, will consolidate their farflung systems of fact gathering, which embrace agencies in practically every important trade center in the country. The merged company will have a broader scope than either of its two companies, since each has conducted an exclusive agency in a number of cities and these, it is understood, will be retained, as well as one office in each of the communities where facilities are now duplicated.

Known for Generations.

Dun's and Bradstreet's have been the household words for American business for generations. Their business was to gather informations on the credit standing of corporations and individuals no matter how small; to assemble statistics on every phase of mercantile life. Their weekly résumés on the state of trade have been accepted for generations as unbiased and uninspired indices of the business pulse of the country.

Dun's dates to the panic of 1837 when Arthur Tappan, a New York merchant, turned from a wrecked business to a new occupation, namely, that of furnishing to other merchants information on which they could appraise the credit rating of prospective customers. Tappan's first files were made up of the information he had acquired on his own customers, who were mainly located in the south.

Keep Both Names.

In 1846 Benjamin Douglas was admitted to the firm and in 1854 Robert Graham Dun was made a partner. On the retirement of Tappan, the business was conducted and expanded by Douglas and Dun, becoming in the 1860's the firm of Dun, Boyd & Co.

The Bradstreet company followed the Dun organization into the mercantile agency field, having been formed in 1849 by Henry Bradstreet.

It is understood that the names of the two companies, which are a substantial element of good will, will be retained in the enlarged organization.

NAT'L LEATHER HAS 1932 LOSS; PRICES DECLINE

The National Leather company sustained a loss of $1,653,883 during 1932, compared with a loss of $1,419,889 in 1931, according to the annual report issued yesterday. The report was signed by W. R. Fisher, who died suddenly on Feb. 21. Mr. Fisher was succeeded by Albert F. Hunt, who was elected at a meeting of the stockholders in Portland, Me., yesterday.

Mr. Fisher's statement said that raw and finished leather prices continued to decline in 1932, particularly during the first six months of the year, which made necessary large downward revisions of inventory valuations. Raw materials dropped from 25 to 20 per cent in price, while finished leather prices receded 32 per cent.

Current assets stood at $6,391,910 as of Dec. 31, 1932, compared with $9,079,050 at the end of 1931. Current liabilities were $542,329, compared with $1,776,069.

MARYLAND GETS BANK HOLIDAY FOR THREE DAYS

Ritchie Acts to Protect Depositors.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie late tonight declared tomorrow a legal holiday for all banking and financial institutions of Maryland and also made Monday and Tuesday legal holidays in an effort for banks here to take measures against heavy withdrawals this week.

Howard Bruce, chairman of the board of the Baltimore Trust company, said withdrawals to the amount of six million dollars were made at his institution today and the week's total withdrawals amounted to 13 million dollars.

Best for Depositors.

Gov. Ritchie said in a formal statement:

"I attended the meeting of bankers this evening with the idea of doing whatever is best for the depositors. The interest of those who have placed their money in the banks must be preserved above everything else.

"I believe there is no justification for the withdrawals which have recently been taking place. But to protect the property and savings of the people of the city and state these large withdrawals should stop.

Ample Facilities Available.

"It was the consensus that a bank holiday should be declared tomorrow, Monday, and Tuesday, during which time certain legislation for the protection of the depositors and security of the banks could be presented to the legislature.

"The bank holiday will cease as soon as this legislation has been passed, and I am expecting that this will be done Tuesday, and that the banks will be able to reopen Wednesday, with ample facilities available for the needs of the people."

DETROIT BANKS PROGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 24.—Banking interests continued their conferences throughout the day in an effort to iron out at the earliest possible moment the difficulties of the state's banks. Progress was reported and officials are expecting an early approval of the proposed plan and formal subscription to the capital stock of the two new banks to be set up in Detroit to take the place of the present First National and the Guardian group.

A closed meeting was held in an office of the First National bank this afternoon at which were present thirty or more large depositors of that bank who were informed of progress in pledge-signing for new capital stock.

Banks Issue Statement.

At the conclusion of the session a statement was issued jointly by the First National and Guardian National banks which said in part:

"Formation of two new banks by groups of depositors who have been working with the directors and officers of the above institutions and with financial officers of the government ever since the legal bank holiday started is expected in the next few days.

"The result of these cooperative efforts, if successful, will be:

"First: To reëstablish immediately normal bank facilities provided by institutions whose assets will be absolutely liquid.

"Second: To make available to all depositors, immediately, if they so desire, a substantial percentage of their deposits in cash. It is impossible at present to say what that immediate portion will be, but it is expected to be approximately 40 to 50 per cent.

"Third: To provide for an orderly liquidation of the other assets of the old banks so that the most will be received for them and that all depositors may share alike in the benefits and protection to be derived from an orderly liquidation.

Call Assets Good in Time.

"The banks are confident that if given time these other assets will pay out substantially.

"Sufficient capital is expected to be subscribed by depositors in the two old banks to organize the new banks which will have 100 per cent cash assets or their equivalent in United States government securities. To these new banks will be transferred the liquid assets of the old banks, together with additional cash to be received from other sources.

"These amounts together with the cash on hand and absolutely liquid securities will, with the 5 per cent of deposits already released and made available to depositors, make possible a substantial cash payment to be paid immediately to depositors who may need it. All depositors, large and small, will be treated exactly alike.

Work on Reorganization.

"At today's meetings of the officers and directors with depositors who have expressed their willingness to subscribe to capital of the new banks, reports were given of the progress being made in preparing the necessary subscription agreements setting up new capital structures, segregating assets, and the taking of the other steps necessary to the organization of the proposed new banking institutions."

As soon as requirements have been met to satisfy federal authorities, money to the extent of $136,000,000 will be available to the two new banks, it is said. These requirements include: That the First National bank obtain at least $10,000,000 capital and the Guardian National, $3,800,000 capital for the reorganization; that underwriters or depositors of the new bank select a board of directors acceptable to the federal authorities and that the directors elect a list of officials which must meet with Washington approval.

Outside these two groups other Detroit bankers are working together to adopt a uniform policy.

LICHTENSTEIN SEES INFLATION PLANS FUTILE

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Walter Lichtenstein, nationally known economist and vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, after several days of conferences with bankers and federal reserve officials in Washington, returns to Chicago firm in the belief that there is no near term prospect for currency inflation in the United States.

Mr. Lichtenstein went to Washington to attend the quarterly sessions of the federal reserve advisory board. He was reelected secretary of that body, a position that he has held for several years.

"I found that people in the east were not talking about inflation," he said. "There seemed to be an agreement of opinion among the easterners that recovery will come about gradually through business and financial readjustments, without tampering with the currency. They aren't worrying about inflation, for the present at least."

Sees No Benefit to Prices by Currency Inflation.

Mr. Lichtenstein added that he personally could see no benefits to be derived from any of the proposed methods for inflating the currency or reducing the gold content of the dollar.

"I am not even convinced that inflation would raise prices of commodities," he said, "unless we should do it on such a wholesale plan that our currency system would be thrown into chaos, as was the currency system of Germany after the war.

"I wish some one would explain to me just how the inflationists propose to get the additional money out to the people. Wouldn't it just pile up as excess idle reserves? How does inflation of money help the fellow who doesn't have any money to start with, if it wouldn't help him to sell what he has to sell—labor or goods—at a higher price than at present?"

Leaders in Business Prove Poorest Insurance Risks.

Hazards of life were greatest for big business men last year, according to the experience of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, which has published a tabulation of death claims for the year.

This company paid out $9,484,000 in 1,554 claims during 1932, the largest single occupational group being "executive and official." There were 237 claims in this group totaling $2,373,980. The second highest total of death claims was paid on the policies of merchants, 213 claims totaling $1,370,372.

Brokers came third with 43 claims, totaling $1,018,898. Industrial workers followed with 144 claims totaling $257,911 and artisans came next with 126 claims totaling $400,558.

Of the 1,554 death claims paid out during the year only 99 were admittedly the result of suicides. Violent deaths, including suicides, totaled 223.

Canada's Refunding Problem Complicated by Exchange.

There is considerable interest in financial circles concerning the Canadian government's 1933 financing problems, which are made more difficult by the spread between American and Canadian funds. Ordinarily, Canada markets a good share of its bonds in this country.

With a widely unbalanced budget and debt maturities of $279,971,850, the Canadian government's 1933 loan will be one of the largest since the days of the Victory loans. The treasury, it is estimated, will have to borrow $430,000,000 during 1933. Of the bonds coming due this year, $80,000,000 issued in New York mature on Oct. 1.

When this year's loan is completed, Canada's net debt will reach a new all time high—perilously close to $3,000,000,000. Add the government's guaranteed railway debt and the total far exceed's $4,000,000,000.

Excluding the railway deficits, Canada's net debt increased $33,847,000 in 1931, $114,234,235 in 1932 and this year is expected to grow more than $150,000,000.

The offices are located in the hangar at 4848 West 63d street, at the Chicago airport. The move has involved more than 200 employés and their families, Mr. Seymour said.

American Airways is the second of the three big transcontinental air lines to locate its general offices in Chicago. United Air Lines' offices also are here. The general offices of Transcontinental and Western Air lines are in Kansas City, Mo.

RISE OF MONEY IN CIRCULATION HITS INFLATION

Held Proof Present Plan Effective.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—The 283 million increase in circulation during the last two weeks has dealt a double blow to the argument of inflationists, experts pointed out here today.

Not only has the increase of circulation to $5,985,000,000, the highest mark in history, failed to bring any marked improvement in business, but it has proved what anti-inflationists have always claimed, that the present monetary system could expand to meet any needs.

Threatening to pass the six billion dollar mark during the current week, largely due to hoarding, circulation now amounts to about $50 per person. Business has tightened rather than improved during the period of increasing circulation.

Expansion Comes Smoothly.

Remarkable elasticity has been displayed by the monetary system during the last two weeks, experts say. Not only has an average of $20,000,000 of additional money moved smoothly into circulation each day in the last two weeks, but prior to that time another 116 million dollars had been called into use over a four week period.

Federal reserve notes, the most flexible unit of the monetary system, have borne the brunt of the increased demands. Almost all of the increase of the last two weeks has been carried by the notes. Their circulation went up 227 million dollars, while total circulation went up 283 millions.

Three Billions in Reserve.

Extension of the Glass-Steagall act until March 3, 1934, came just in time to help meet the emergency demands. By substituting government securities for gold, as the act empowers them to do, the reserve banks have more easily issued new money. Government securities pledged as note collateral have increased by $157,500,000 in the last two weeks.

Far from exhausting the currency's powers to expand, recent demands have barely scratched the surface. Although such a development would not be regarded as helpful, the federal reserve banks with their present gold supply could actually place about another 3 billion dollars into circulation if they had to.

STANDARD NAT'L BANK WILL PAY DIVIDEND OF 24%

A second dividend of 24 per cent is ready for distribution to depositors of the Standard National bank of Chicago, Harry E. Hallenbeck, receiver, announced last night.

The present dividend brings the amount paid to depositors to 64 per cent of total claims. The first dividend of 40 per cent was paid last October. When the bank closed last June it had deposits of around $500,000 and approximately 4,000 depositors. The bank is located at 7921 South Ashland avenue.

The record made by the Standard National in liquidating its deposit claims is outstanding in the receivership experiences of the city. Hallenbeck has been associated with Chicago and middle west banking organizations for several years. He started his career with the old Merchants' Loan and Trust company. He was made receiving teller of the Central Trust company in 1902 when Charles G. Dawes organized the bank. Later he was associated with banks in St. Paul. He returned to Chicago in 1909 and has been connected with various investment and banking firms since that time.

LIST HOLDINGS OF FIDELITY INVESTMENT CO.

An investment of $16,581,000 in bonds and preferred stocks is carried on the Dec. 31, 1932, statement of the Fidelity Investment association. The company reported that loans to contract holders during 1932 totaled $6,162,000. Mortgage and collateral loans totaled $1,160,000.

Resources of the company at the close of 1932 were $25,244,743, according to the yearly statement, which was made public by John W. Pole, president.

TRADE SURVIVES MANY TROUBLES, REVIEWS ASSERT

Find Week's Trend Is in Right Direction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—"Reports regarding the course of trade were of a more cheerful tenor this week, revealing that progress was interrupted but slightly by disquieting events which in less calloused times might have been fraught with overwhelming retarding influences," says Dun's Review. "The general run of developments was more favorable than otherwise, with the trend in the right direction, although in relation to seasonal factors the desired encouragement may be lacking in some instances.

"The current situation provides additional proof of the inherent strength of the economic structure, which continues to function efficiently, notwithstanding the handicap of dilated maladjustments in nearly every one of its divisions.

"The process of distribution has not been halted, despite the curtailed buying power, and persistent efforts to sell goods in a regular way are being rewarded.

"Reduced inventories, with further curtailment of production costs, have placed manufacturers in a more advantageous position, particularly since full cognizance has been taken of the value of profit rather than volume in operating procedure.

"Although the automobile and shoe industries have kept busy during the current week, other lines are producing just enough goods to fill immediate needs," Bradstreet's Weekly reports. "Trade conditions vary widely in the principal cities.

"Bank clearings for the entire country make an encouraging showing over the previous week and the corresponding week of 1932; failures have declined, and the index of wholesale food prices has held its own.

"In New York City heavy advertising by two large department stores has met with an encouraging response in what is usually considered a dull season for department stores."

Home Life.

I am thinking of buying an annuity and have been solicited by Home Life of New York. I would appreciate information on the company.—B. H. J.

Home Life Insurance company [New York] is purely mutual. It has had a steady growth since incorporation, more than 70 years ago. On Dec. 31, 1932, total assets were $79,985,000, against $79,149,000 the year before and $54,632,000 on Dec. 31, 1925.

The management stated that on Dec. 31, 1932, more than 99 per cent of investments were paying the interest or dividends contemplated at the time of investment.

Investments in first mortgages on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $30,293,000, or 38 per cent of total assets. Unpaid interest on mortgages not in foreclosure was only 58-100ths of one per cent of total mortgage interest.

Bonds totaled $20,005,000, or 25 per cent of total assets. Interest on three issues of bonds [par value $145,000] was not paid during the year.

Preferred stocks totaled $2,669,000, or 3 per cent of total assets. Only $200,000 of these were not paying dividends.

Policy loans totaled $21,517,000, or 27 per cent of total assets. Real estate consisted of a $1,500,000 home office building and six properties obtained by foreclosure and carried at $53,000.

Liabilities included $71,117,000 policy reserves and funds, $1,200,000 contingency reserve, and $3,181,000 unassigned surplus.

Assessment Insurance.

I am offered insurance at a very low rate, but want to check up on it before I sign up. I notice that it is an assessment association. What does this term mean?—E. Le G.

Assessments are charges made upon policyholders by the insurer. They may be considered a tax. They are made because the initial payment of the policyholder is too small to take care of losses sustained.

If the insured has definitely agreed to pay all assessments for which he may be liable, he is liable for levies arising from claims due to deaths of members while he is a member. It has been held, however, that if there was no such agreement, he may pay the assessment or forfeit his membership, at his option.

In many cases expenses of assessment companies are out of proportion to benefits received by their members, especially when the association operates on a small scale. This, however, is not universally true. If you will furnish us with the name of the company we shall be glad to give you a report on it if information is available.

FIRMER TONE IN LARD

Moderate offerings were well absorbed and gave the lard market a fairly steady undertone, with a good deal of the business in changing from May to distant months. Prices moved within a narrow range and closed 2½ cents higher. Cash lots were taken at $3.77½ for regular, $3.22½ for loose, and $3.12½ for leaf.

There was no business in the rib futures and very little in cash lots.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

May wheat continues to hold close to the 48 cent level regardless of developments at home and abroad of a depressing character. It closed at that figure to ¼ cent over yesterday, after having sold at 47¼ cents early, making the fourth consecutive day that the latter figure was touched. The refusal of the market to break in the face of weakness in Liverpool and an early decline in stocks, brought in scattered buying and later there was some support from the local element. Closing trades were about at the top, with net gains of ¼ to ⅝ cent, with May leading. July was 48⅛ to 48⅝ cents, and September, 49⅝ to 49¾ cents at the last.

Buying against bids was a factor in checking the early decline and later there was selling against offers.

Report Nebraska Crop Damaged.

Sensationally bullish crop reports from Nebraska, with the state and government midmonth summary placing the condition of winter wheat in that state at 28 to 72 in the various sections, more than offset the effect of a decline of ⅛ to ¾ cent in Liverpool to the lowest level since late in December. The rally in stocks also encouraged operators to take hold. It was estimated that over 50 per cent of the wheat acreage in western Nebraska would be abandoned.

Liverpool May wheat dropped to ⅞ cent under Chicago at the time it closed, the widest discount since trading in that future started in the English market on Nov. 17, and current prices there were the lowest since late in December. Large exports from Argentina and Australia had a depressing effect abroad, the two countries clearing 12,477,000 bushels for the week, against 11,752,000 bushels for the previous week, and 10,075,000 bushels last year.

American Corn for Export.

Seaboard reports claimed a fair amount of American corn had been sold for export to the United Kingdom, and that the price was at a discount compared with nearby offerings from Argentina. Liquidation was less in evidence in futures, and while there was an early dip, the close was about at the top, with net gains of ⅜ cent. May finished at 25 cents; July, 26⅝ cents, and September, 28⅛ cents.

More interest was shown in oats than for some time, and with commission houses on the buying side the close was unchanged to ¼ cent higher. May closed at 16⅝ cents; July, 16⅞ to 17 cents, and September, 17⅝ cents. Cash interests bought May. Rye was ¼ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, with May showing the decline and closing at 34⅜ cents, while July was 34¼ cents. Barley developed moderate activity and closed ⅝ cents lower, with May at 26⅞ cents.

COTTON HAS GOOD TONE; CLOSE NEAR TOP FOR DAY

Trade and professional buying of cotton was sufficient to take scattered offerings from different interests and closed the market at around the outside prices of the day with a fairly good tone. The late strength was in a measure partly due to light offerings and to the rally in stocks.

1932 REVENUES OF MOTOR BUSES OFF ONLY 5.7%

Nearly 1⅔ Billion Passengers Carried.

Total gross revenues for motor bus operation throughout the country during 1932 declined only 5.7 per cent from the 1931 figure, according to a compilation of bus statistics by the magazine Bus Transportation. The total 1932 gross was $392,250,000, compared with $310,000,000 in 1931.

The magazine estimates that there were 45,000 buses in operation, of which 16,225 were engaged in city service, 26,706 in intercity service and 2,069 were used for sightseeing and charter hire. In addition, 63,500 buses are used in school service, of which about 4,500 are also used part of the time in common carrier service.

Gross Revenues Decline.

Gross revenues of companies operating within cities declined from $107,000,000 in 1931 to $100,000,000 in 1932. Intercity volume declined from $191,000,000 to $185,000,000. Sightseeing and charter hire bus revenue dropped from $12,000,000 to $7,250,000.

The magazine states that intercity carriers now pay 10.18 per cent of their total revenues in taxes to local, state and federal governments.

Revenue passengers carried by all buses during 1932 totaled 1,862,800,000, compared with 1,726,000,000 in 1931. Passenger miles were 10,374,000,000 in 1932, compared with 10,830,000,000 in 1931. Intercity buses had a total of 6,200,000,000 passenger miles in 1932, compared to 6,725,000,000 in 1931.

All told, buses operate over 400,000 miles of regular routes, divided as follows: City service, 14,830; intercity, 364,570, and others, 20,000.

Railways Own Buses.

Electrical railways, either directly or through subsidiaries, owned 11,541 buses at the end of the year, while steam roads owned 1,246. In addition, 75 buses were operated for the railroads under special contract and companies in which railroads had minority interests owned 1,199.

Bus companies during 1932 spent $60,500,000 divided as follows: Repair parts, $18,150,000; gasoline, $36,250,000; engine oil, $4,000,000, and tires, $12,100,000. Capital expenditures amounted to nearly $15,500,000. Construction and purchase of terminals took almost $1,750,000, new garages and shops almost $1,000,000, and shop tools and equipment, $500,000. New buses bought represented a total of $12,250,000, although buying was far below normal.

STUDEBAKER SAYS POCKET THE PROFIT!

Think what you save when you buy a good pledge-backed used car from us! There is no first depreciation cost, no freight to pay, no extra equipment to buy—and no dealer's profit! YOU pocket the profit and all the difference that goes to make a good used car a better buy than a cheap new car. And 5 days' driving trial goes with each sale.
